Mitchell reaches the ribs. Another exchange and Mitchell clinches. Mitchell gets in on Corbett's neck, and Jim lands right and left again. Just as time is called Mitchell lands a good body blow. Honors are easy in the first round, and it looks as if it would be a wicked fight.

SECOND ROUND.

The second round opened with a wild exchange and clinch. Corbett uppercuts his man as they come together. Mitchell lands hard on the ribs, and as Mitchell came in Jim caught him on the head, staggering him. Corbett again uppercut and lands his right on Charley's ribs, Mitchell reaching Jim's chin. There was a sharp rally, with Corbett having all the best of it.

THIRD AND LAST.

The third round opened with Mitchell landing twice on Jim's neck, but getting knocked down twice in succession by Corbett. Jim floored his man cleanly, and knocked him down again as he essayed to rise. The gong saved Mitchell, who looked rather groggy. When the Englishman got to his feet Corbett rushed, swinging both right and left on Mitchell's neck. Charley went down and took the full ten seconds' allowance. As he arose Corbett was on him like a tiger, but Mitchell clinched. Corbett threw him off and floored him with a stiff facer. Again he took all the time allowed to rise, and when he advanced towards Corbett the latter swung his right with damaging effect on Charley's nose. Mitchell reeled and fell on his face helpless. The referee counted ten but Mitchell was knocked out. The referee declared Corbett the winner of the match and champion of the world. Mitchell's face was covered with blood. He was carried to his corner in a helpless condition. The time of the fight was nine minutes. It was Corbett's battle, though Mitchell made a show in the first round. The men did not shake hands at the beginning of the fight. The referee called on them to do so, but neither responded.

THE WINNER CHALLENGED.

Ed. Smith, of Denver, challenged the winner to fight for $10,000 a side.

THE WIRES DOWN.

Telegraphic communication with Portland was interrupted, before any of the Astorian's night report had been received. At the office of the Western Union the opinion was expressed that there had probably been a slide somewhere along the river, resulting in the breaking of a pole.

REV. JOEL R. HICKS
A WEATHER PROPHET.

Rev. Joel R. Hicks, the storm wizard, who by his warnings of great calamities has achieved international fame, is a person of general interest. Mr. Hicks was born in 1844, and in his childhood began the study of the heavens. At the close of the war he attended Andrew College for two years. He was ordained to the ministry by Bishop Doggett in 1871, and remained with the Methodist church until nine years ago, when he affiliated himself with the Congregationalists. Six years ago he resigned from the ministry and accepted the editorship of "Words and Works," a monthly Indiana journal. Mr. Hicks has predicted many of the most disastrous calamities that have befallen this country in the last ten years. He is assisted in his astronomical work by his wife.
