A CAREER OF CRIME

Embezzler Brady Caught in Leavenworth.

SKIPPED OUT WITH $15,000

The Absconder on His Way to Portland in Charge of a Detective.

Frank C. Brady, who left this city early in July, 1892, with $15,000, mainly funds of the Sunnyside Land and Improvement company, was arrested yesterday at Leavenworth, Kan., says yesterday's Oregonian. He was apprehended through the instrumentality of Mr. Henry W. Minster and Mr. Thomas G. Conklin, the respective superintendents of the Portland and Kansas City branches of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency.

The story of Brady's criminal career is an interesting one. He came to this city about six years ago, and took the position of bookkeeper and confidential clerk of the Oregonian. He was a very competent man, and his diligence and attention to business soon gained for him the position of secretary and treasurer of the Sunnyside Land and Improvement company. During his connection with this company he embezzled thousands of dollars, but so cleverly did he conduct his operations that not a shadow of suspicion was fastened upon him until after his departure for unknown pastures.

Brady applied to the management of the Oregonian for his usual summer vacation about July 1, 1892. He represented that he was very much fatigued by his year's work, and his request was readily granted. He then took his departure for, so he stated, the mountains of Idaho. Weeks passed and nothing was heard of Brady. Then his long absence alarmed the officers of the Sunnyside Land and Improvement company. They investigated his accounts and found that he was a defaulter, and then determined to cause his apprehension. On December 20, 1892, Mr. A. H. Brayman, one of the officials of the company, called on Superintendent Minster, explained the affair to him and retained the agency to "work up" the case. Operatives were immediately placed on Brady's trail, but before they had got fairly started, Mr. H. L. Pittock received a letter from his rulant bookkeeper. It was dated July 18, was apparently written from Liverpool, England, and the envelope bore the cancellation stamp of the postoffice of that city. Brady stated that he had gone to England to arrange some money matters with his father, and expected to be able to sail for the United States in two days or in six days at the most.

Dr. Bell, of Portland, furnished the first clue to Brady's whereabouts, having met the absconder in Montreal, and the Pinkerton men continued their efforts until Brady was finally located in Leavenworth, Kan. Before February 2 the detectives had positively established the identity of Brady, alias Howard, Durham and McLaren. But as a precaution it was determined to have some Portlander identify him. Secretary Clark, of the Sunnyside Land and Improvement company, was sent for, and arrived in Leavenworth on the 8th of this month and recognized Brady, and this settled the question of identification. The necessary requisition papers were then obtained, and Brady was placed under arrest yesterday. Detective Holsapple, of the Portland police force, who went east with the requisition papers, left Leavenworth yesterday for this city, with Brady in custody.

THE WIRES STILL DOWN.

Yesterday Lineman Darling of the Western Union succeeded in getting the wire up as far as Knappa, but darkness set in before the breaks beyond that point could be repaired, and the work was necessarily abandoned for the day.

RUNNING SLACK.

A reporter stepped into the Astoria Iron Works yesterday on his rounds and found all hands there finishing up repairs on a half-dozen buoys belonging to the United States lighthouse service. The job has taken a week to get out, and next Monday the force will start to repairing a lot of canning machines.

These machines were brought up from San Francisco on the steamer South Coast, and will, as soon as they leave the shop, go up to Alaska.

Mr. Fox states that at present he has only 12 men at work, but in ordinary times his working force is no less than 20. It is to be regretted that Astoria has not more such institutions as the Astoria Iron Works, which employs skilled labor all the year round.

SLOWLY GAINING.

Seven More Property Owners Give Additional Subscriptions and Join the Ranks of Progression.

Although a number of the members of the subsidy committee worked all day yesterday, from early morning until late in the evening, there were but seven property owners upon whom the eloquence of the committeemen was successfully expended. These seven were persuaded to join those who have given additional deeds to property sufficient to complete the 20 per cent subscriptions. The committee are now preparing for publication a list of those who have absolutely refused to do anything toward increasing the subsidy, in order that the public generally may understand who are the stumbling-blocks.

One of the tracts of land secured yesterday comprised about 167 acres, given by Collector Page and S. S. Gordon, and, while it is outside land, would, in the event of the railroad being built, command a ready sale at a handsome figure.

The names of those who gave the deeds yesterday are: D. K. Warren, H. G. Smith, the Boelling Estate, Henry Langworthy, George Davidson, S. S. Gordon and John Enberg.

PECKHAM'S DEFEAT

But Eight Republicans Vote for His Confirmation.

MITCHELL ESPOUSED HIS CAUSE

The President's Favorite Finds Able Supporters, but an Insufficiency of Votes.

The following dispatch was taken from yesterday's Oregonian, The Astorian having failed to receive it Friday evening on account of the interruption, in telegraphic communication with Portland:

Washington, Feb. 16.—The senate adjourned a few minutes past 3 o'clock, after spending the better part of two days considering the nomination of W. H. Peckham, of New York, to be associate justice of the supreme court. The vote taken on the motion to confirm the nomination resulted 32 for and 4 against, and accordingly the nomination was rejected. The proceedings of the executive session, prior to taking the vote, consisted entirely of speechmaking. Vilas, Mitchell of Oregon, George and Gray speaking for confirmation and White of California and Hawley against it. All addresses, except those of Vilas and George, were very brief and consisted mainly of explanations of the vote of the speakers. Vilas spoke for two hours, devoting himself to a defense of the character of Peckham and the president's right to appoint in a case like that of a justice of the supreme court without consulting the senators from whose state the nominee is chosen. He read extensively from letters concerning Peckham, which had been laid before the judiciary committee, giving extracts from letters of condemnation as well as praise, and analyzed and dissected the letters as he progressed. Summing up, he declared, the balance of the testimony was favorable to Peckham, and showed him to be a man deserving of the high honor the president had sought to confer upon him. Vilas also made an explanation of Peckham's telegram to Judge Caldwell, concerning the receivership of the Atchison and Topeka, saying his motive in saying Judge Caldwell's order would not be obeyed was found in the fact that the Union Trust company, for which Peckham was acting, was of the opinion that the order would place the trust company in the light of a preferred creditor, instead of the bondholders, for whom it acted.

Senator George discussed the constitutional points involved in the case and declared his belief to be that Peckham was a man entirely fit for the position. He had given the subject careful consideration, and had reached the conclusion that Peckham should be confirmed. White, of California, said the selection of a supreme court judge was a matter which greatly interested the people of California. There was now pending in the courts a suit involving the ownership of the water front of valuable property in that state, estimated to be worth $20,000,000. This suit, he added, would eventually reach the supreme court, and be determined by that tribunal. He had observed some friends of the nominee in the present instance were men interested in the result of this and other suits, and while this might be a mere coincidence, it was sufficient to decide him against the nominee.

Mitchell said he had become convinced, from an investigation of all the facts, that Peckham was well fitted for the supreme bench. He called attention to the fact that eminent lawyers of New York and elsewhere had spoken in the highest terms of him. A lawyer, who had personally known all the supreme justices for 29 years and had been acquainted with Peckham during that time, had assured him the nominee was entirely capable of filling the office. The same gentleman was quoted as saying he was a great deal like the late Justice Miller, firm and judicial. The speeches of Gray and Hawley were brief, but emphatic, the former for and the latter against the confirmation.

The vote in detail, with pairs and absences, was: Ayes—Bata, Blackburn, Brice, Butler, Caffery, Dixon, Faulkner, George, Gray, Hale, Harris, Hunton, Kyle, Lindsay, McPherson, Martin, Mills, Mitchell of Oregon, Mitchell of Wisconsin, Palmer, Vasco, Pettigrew, Platt, Proctor, Ranom, Roach, Squire, Stockbridge, Turle, Vilas, Voorhees and White of Louisiana—32.

Noes—Aldrich, Allen, Allison, Berry, Call, Cameron, Carey, Chandler, Cockell, Coke, Cullom, Daniel, Davis, Dolph, Frye, Gallinger, Gibson, Gorman, Hansbrough, Hawley, Higgins, Hill, Hoar, Frye, Jones of Arkansas, Lodge, McClaurin, Manderson, Morrill, Murphy, Peffer, Perkins, Power, Pugh, Shoup, Stewart, Teller, Vest, Washburn, White of California and Wilson—41.

Paired for Peckham—Camden, Gordon, McMillan, Morgan and Smith, 5; against Peckham—Dubois, Jones of Nevada, Quay, Vance and Wolcott, 5; absent without pairs—Colquitt and Sherman.

Colquitt released Wilson, who voted against confirmation, and Sherman released Brice, who voted for confirmation.

AN ANALYSIS.

An analysis of the vote shows the distribution, politically, to be:

	Rep.	Dem.	Pop. Tl.
For confirmation.....	3	23	1 32
Against.....	22	15	3 41
Paired for.....	1	4	0 5
Absent.....	4	1	0 5
Absent and unpaired.....	1	1	0 2

THE NEXT NOMINEE.

Occasionally there is heard speculation as to what will be the president's course, in view of the rejection of his second nominee for the associate justiceship. No one, whose opinion is of value, will venture to surmise or suggest a name. The supreme court is now in recess, and will be until March 6, so that the necessity for a full bench will not be urgent until that time.

DECLINES AN INTERVIEW.

New York, Feb. 16.—A reporter called tonight at the home of Wheeler H. Peckham and sent up his card. Peckham sent back word he had nothing to say in regard to the rejection.

William H. Hornblower said: "I am very sorry the senate has refused to confirm Mr. Peckham's nomination. Of course, under the circumstances, it is proper I should say very little on the subject. I am only sorry Mr. Peckham was not confirmed. I say this because I think Mr. Peckham would have been a good man for the office and would have filled it with credit and dignity."

Hornblower courteously declined to express himself any further on the subject.

BRIEF MENTION.

All the ships that sailed from the Columbia river prior to October 14 have arrived out.

The tug Fearless is expected today from San Francisco with the Hawaiian ship Hawaiian Isles in tow.

The High School Choir will furnish the program for the Rescue club entertainment next Saturday evening.

The passage of the Peter Iredale from this port to Liverpool was 122 days. Her cargo consisted of 67,000 centals of wheat.

The captain of the British ship Clan McPherson was an apprentice on board that vessel when she arrived in this port eight years ago.

The football club had an exciting relay race last evening between two teams composed of five men each. The distance was a mile and a half, and there were not half a dozen yards between the leaders from start to finish. The heavy-weight wrestling match was postponed until next Saturday evening, on account of one of the contestants being not quite in condition. A game of basket ball between teams captained by Messrs. Tallant and Gunn was won by the latter by a score of two goals to one. Throughout the game the play was fast and close, the teams being excellently matched.
