The Astorian guarantees to its subscribers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

Advertising rates can be obtained on application to the business manager.

This paper is in possession of all the telegraph franchises, and is the only paper on the Columbia river that publishes genuine dispatches.

The Daily Astorian's circulation is five times as great as that of the combined circulation of the other daily papers of Astoria.

The Weekly Astorian, the third oldest weekly in the state of Oregon, has next to the Portland Oregonian, the largest weekly circulation in the state.

Subscribers to the Astorian are requested to notify this office, without loss of time, immediately they fall to receive their daily paper, or when they do not get it at the usual hour. By doing this they will enable the management to place the blame on the proper parties and to insure a speedy remedy.

Handley & Haas are our Portland agents and copies of the Astorian can be had every morning at their stand on First street.

YESTERDAY'S WEATHER.

Local weather for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 p.m. yesterday, furnished by the U. S. Department of Agriculture weather bureau.

Maximum temperature, 47 degrees; minimum temperature, 37 degrees; precipitation, 1.60 inches.

Total precipitation from July 1, 1893, to date, 76.45 inches; excess of precipitation from July 1, 1893, to date, 22.44 inches.

TODAY'S WEATHER.

Portland, Ore., March 8.—For Washington and Oregon: Occasional showers; slight temperature changes.

In resigning from the premiership, Gladstone has the satisfaction of knowing that his successor, Lord Rosebery, will be able to work in harmony with the statesmen who will serve under him, and the pleasure of the masses at the Grand Old Man's refusal to accept a peerage in an added source of gratification. Gladstone was long ago referred to in a derisive manner as "the people's William," and he still prefers the title of commoner. Although he refuses so steadfastly to accept the honor which has so frequently been offered him, he has made over a hundred peers, and in almost every case the most liberal among them have become narrow and illiberal in the peers' chamber, distrusting all popular movements and prone to strangle progress. Having climbed to success themselves, they want to arrest the onward movement of society. Some of Mr. Gladstone's most bitter opponents are the backsliding whigs who sat with him in former cabinets. Only one peer in ten professes to be a liberal, and not more than a third of these are stanch and trustworthy.

Prendergast, the murderer of Mayor Harrison, is to be hanged on the 23d instant, provided his lawyer does not devise some new project for staying off the day of retribution. The dastardly deed for which this rattle-brained individual is to suffer was committed last October. Six months is a long time for the courts to occupy in meting out justice in a case so absolutely clear as that against Prendergast. If there is any restraining influence caused by the infliction of the death penalty, this influence is strengthened by making punishment follow the commission of the crime as promptly as a due regard for justice will permit.

The French are a remarkable people. Having lost lots of money by the Panama canal swindle, they are now laughing over a play entitled "Journee Parlementaire," which is represented as a caustic satire on this monumental nineteenth century fraud. If this is not enough to establish the claim that the French are a remarkable people, additional evidence is found in another bit of dramatic gossip which comes from Paris to the effect that at the debut of an indifferent actress, the audience manifested their sentiments by whistling, cat-calls and throwing cabbages, fish, dead rabbits and eggs upon the stage.

That excellent reserve force, the naval militia, is becoming more and more regular. Two more states, Georgia and Connecticut, have recently provided for the organization of detachments. Young men like this service, and they quickly become efficient. A large proportion of the sailors on our men-of-war are for eigners, and the formation of a force of young men thoroughly imbued with the American spirit, and their instruction for duty on board ship, is one of the best moves ever made by our naval authorities. In case of war this body of patriotic and wide-awake young men will be heard from.

An alleged American orchestra which refused to play "God Save the Queen" in Montreal, is commanded by a contemporary. It may well be asked, however, why they ventured into the queen's dominions if they didn't mean to be polite? We should take it very ill of a Canadian orchestra that should come here and refuse to play "The Star Spangled Banner" or "Hail Columbia." Patriotism is all right, but it must not be confounded with boorishness.

A bomb is said to have been found at the door of a juror in Paris who found a verdict according to the facts in the case of a bomb-thrower. Whether the bomb at the juror's door was a sardine box full of sawdust or of dynamite, it is not stated. But it is all right, anyway. If the juries are menaced for doing their duty, or if a juror is murdered by anarchists, there will be martial law; and the anarchical heroes will be gathered in by the police and shot after trials lasting half an hour.

Astoria has a box factory. Why can't she have a ladder works, when she gets the railroad? Read what the North Western Lumberman has to say: "J. C. Gardner, of Chicago, has started a step ladder factory at Lumberton, Miss. A contract has already been made with a Chicago concern for the entire output. The ladder factory uses up stuff turned out by the yellow pine mills at that place that it would otherwise be difficult to utilize."

The suggestion by Mr. Boutelle that Mr. Willis should be recalled from Hawaii should be regarded as means for the relief of the noble Kentuckian, who is too imposing in his relations with royalty to allow himself to be present at a social function of the government to which he is accredited. The poor man should not be permitted longer to be a sufferer from divided duty.

If it be true that only five hundred insurgents remain in the harbor of Rio Janeiro to bully the city and government, while the rest are away on an expedition, it would seem there was occasion for an adventure by the loyal forces. If there are any old steamboats at hand, they should be converted into ram and tried at night.

Strange to say, there is a salaried city office in Astoria that has never been filled. It is the office of city superintendent of the public schools, whose salary would have to be fixed by the city board. In all probability, so long as the schools are getting along so nicely without a superintendent, it is wise to let well enough alone.

It is reported that the latest fad is that if a girl takes the small bow which fastens the lining of a man's hat and wears it inside her shoe she will have a proposal from the youth within a month. The success of the scheme may be open to question, but it is proving very destructive to hats.

REPLACING THE FOREIGNERS.

The American Line Engaging Americans For Their Ships.

There was considerable adverse comment on the American line when the steamships New York and Paris were first brought under our flag, because all foreigners were not at once discharged from the employ and American citizens taken on instead to wholly constitute the ship's crew, says the Marine Journal. The company might have made reply by a contrast with the American navy, in which the majority of the men are not only anything but American citizens, but stand no chance under existing laws of becoming citizens while serving on a war ship, which they would if they served on an American merchant vessel a certain time after taking out their naturalization papers. But the company, while declining to take the public into their business records, made no explanation, nor were they swerved from their course of action, which, by recent developments, shows them to be fully and thoroughly American. Not only are they now doing all the work of docking and overhauling these ships at an American port, the annual overhauling of such transatlantic liners being hitherto unknown on this side of the ocean, but we find that the crews are being changed from their foreign complexion. Prior to the departure of the New York for her overhauling at Newport News the entire crew of her engine department were transferred to another ship to be taken home to England and paid off there, while a new crew of American citizens were selected to take the ship down to Newport News with the assurance that if satisfactory they would be retained afterward and the preference given to Americans of equal ability hereafter.

Gentlemen—This is to certify that I have used Krause's Headache Capsules with satisfactory results. I bought a box which cost me 35c, and one capsule cured me of a dreadful sick headache. My wife and myself have both used the medicine manufactured by the Norman Lighty Mfg. Co., and we recommend them to the public as being just what they are represented.

Those in quest of beauty in nature would hardly have thought of going to Central Park yesterday to find it, yet a most magnificent spectacle was there. The wooded part of New York's great play-ground in its mantle of ice looked like a crystal forest. A heavy shower of icicles upon one's head from the top of some gigantic elm spoiled the romance.—Tribune, March 2.

ATHLETES OF THE PRESENT DAY.

J. E. Sullivan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, President of the Pastime Athletic Club, and Athletic Editor of The Sporting Times, writes: "For years I have been actively connected with athletic sports. I always found it to my advantage to use Allcock's Porous Plasters while in training, as they quickly remove soreness and stiffness; and when attacked with any kind of pain, the result of slight colds, I always used Allcock's with beneficial results. I have noticed that most athletes of the present day use nothing else but Allcock's Plasters."

LIFE OR DEATH?

It is of vital importance that it should be understood by persons whose kidneys are inactive, that this condition of things is finally indicative of a state of the organs where life hangs in the balance. Bright's disease, diabetes, albumuria are all diseases of a very obstinate character in their mature stage, and I have a fatal tendency. They often baffle the most practised medical skill, and the most approved remedies of medical science. But opposed at the outset is to discharge their functions properly—with Hostettler's Stomach Balsam, the dangerous tendency is checked.

Very useful also is this household medicine for those ailments of common occurrence—constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia and nervousness. It is a safe guard against malaria and averts chronic rheumatism.

Progress and Cookery.

"The World Moves."

There is no better illustration of this old saying than the numerous schools now-a-days devoted to practical kitchen processes. These schools have been alert to find a reasonable substitute for lard, the use of which is so generally condemned. This want has been fully met by the new vegetable Lard.

When science strikes the kitchen, it strikes home and everybody gets the benefit.

Cottolene is a clean, delicate and economical substitute for lard—cleaner than the hog, delicate as the finest vegetable oil, economical from its low price and small quantity required to be used. Prove it for yourself by a trial.
