HAUNTEDL

A haunted house in these practical and romantic days is something of a rarity, but an individual haunted with the idea that his allinent is incurable is a personage frequently met with. Disbellef in the ability of medicine to cure is only a mild form of monomania, although in some cases repeated failures to obtain relief from many different sources would almost seem to justify the doubt. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has demonstrated its ability to overcome dyspepsia, constipation, liverand kidney trouble, maisrial complaints and nervousness and its recorded achievements in the curative line ought at least to warrant its trial by any one achievement in the curative line ought at least to warrant its trial by any one troubles with either of the above all-ments, even although his previous ef-forts to obtain remedial aid have been fruitiess. Revolution In Eating has been brought about by the introduction of CottoLene, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or POHD'S Undertaking Parlors, indifferent butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstainentirely from everything of that kind. To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar val. e, widening as it does, the ange of what may be eaten and enjoyed. CottoLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food-imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion. CottoLene is worthy of the careful notice of all those who value good food, of itself or for its hygienic properties.
