This is the present condition of the lumber trade in the northwest, and if the plan suggested is to have carried this work on alone, but feasible it is worth consideration.

Mayor Schleren, of Brooklyn, very properly refused to permit any other than the American flag to be raised on the city hall. Both Irish-Americans and German-Americans have requested, on their anniversaries, that the flags which mark their old allegtance should be displayed, and the mayor in each instance has replied simply that, as an stance has replied simply that, as an stance has replied simply that, as an American citizen, he knows only the American citizen, he knows only the American flag, and that no other shall float over public buildings while he is in office. It seems incredible that any one should take offense at a position so proper and so patriotic as this. But the people of New York and Brooklys have become so debauched by the custom of permitting the flags of all nationalities to be displayed on demand that they have pretty much forgotten which one is really their own; and one of the Irish-American orders of Brooklyn has adopted resolutions protesties against the "insulf," and promising to resent it in "insult," and promising to resent it in the future in every way "not to conflict with manhood, justice and honor." Perhaps these ebullient gentlemen will think better of it after a while. If ever ing there was a senseless, unreasonable and improper demand made upon any public up or settle down. official, it is that of recognition for a

Every good thing has its host of imitators; every genuine article its counterfeits. The imitators always choose the most valuable and popular article to counterfeit, so that when they claim their sham to be equal, or as good, or the same os "So-and-So's," the public may depend upon it that "So-and-So's article is the best of the kind. The sham proves the genuine merit of the thing if copies, and never has this been better illustrated than by the imitations of Allcock's Porous Plasters.

Allcock's Porous Plasters is the standard of excellence the world over, and its imitators in their cry that theirs is "as good as Allcock's" are only emphasizing this fact and admitting "Allcock's" to be the acme of perfection, which it is their highest ambition to imitate. The difference between the genuine and these imitations, which copy only general appearance, is as wide as that between copper and gold.

The only safe way for purchasers is to always insist upon having Allcock's Porous Plasters. They are the only perfect plasters ever produced.
