THE COXEYITE PARADE

Coxey Attempts to Speak on the Capitol Steps.

HE AND BROWN ARE ARRESTED

Congress Adjourns Early Out of Respect to the Death of Senator Stockbridge.

Associated Press.

Washington, May 1.—The march of Coxey's commonwealth army, which started from Massillon, Ohio, on Easter Sunday, was ended today by the intervention of the police. Fortunately there were no casualties, and tonight Gen. Coxey is addressing his barbaque army in camp, while Marshal Carl Brown sleeps in a police station cell, and Christopher Columbus Jones, leader of the Philadelphia commune and the comedian of the movement, endeavors to appropriate a share of the martyrdom in an adjoining cell.

The performance enacted within the shadow of the capitol today is without a counterpart in the memory of Washingtonians. The broad, smooth plaza of several acres facing the east front of the capitol was packed by a crowd of men and women numbering 10,000. The capitol steps and porticoes under the Grecian pillars were packed with people of both sexes, well dressed, and most of the members of congress were in the throng.

More than 200 city police reinforced the capitol officers. Detectives from several cities were sprinkled through the crowd, for the concentration of the lawless local characters gave just grounds for the apprehension of trouble, apart from the presence of the Coxeyites.

It was shortly after 11 o'clock when the army halted in the public street south of the capitol grounds. Its five miles' march from Brightwood through the principal streets of the city had been witnessed by thousands. There were 600 men in line.

Mrs. Annie L. Driggs, Populistic agitator of Kansas, in a barouche; Coxey's 17-year-old daughter, in white, on a cream-colored steed, representing the Goddess of Peace; Carl Brown, on a great gray stallion; Gen. Jacob Coxey, his wife, the infant "Legal Tender" Coxey, together in another carriage; Virginia Lavallette, said to be an actress, on horseback, draped in an American flag as the Philadelphia Goddess of Peace; the unemployed, carrying white flags of peace on staves and nondescript banners setting forth the doctrines of good roads and enmity to plutocrats, were sprinkled through the caravan.

Marshal Brown halted the procession in the street and walked back to Coxey's carriage, the general kissed his wife, and the two moving spirits of affairs forced their way over the plaza to the capitol steps, their men halting under orders and standing in their tracks. After Coxey and Brown passed a yelling crowd of several hundred men, most of them following Brown, conspicuous by his unique costume, trampling and tearing its way through the costly shrubbery.

A squad of mounted police, which had headed the parade, was dazed for a moment by the unexpected movement, but charged recklessly into their midst. Coxey was confronted by the police as he took off his hat to speak on the capitol steps. His constitutional rights being refused, he thrust upon them a printed protest, which proved to be a well worded epitome of the Populist doctrines.

Meanwhile Carl Brown was being dragged by the collar of his coat through the crowd to the nearest station, after he had made a fight to retain his banner.

The two police captains, a lieutenant and a sergeant thrust the mild-mannered Coxey, without violence, back across several feet of humanity to his carriage. The mounted police were forcing their horses among the people, several of them were cracking their clubs over the heads of the nearest persons; women were shrieking in terror; men were yelling fiercely; some were knocked down and trampled upon. For five minutes there was a riot in that section of the mob in front of the east steps.

Then, the two agitating spirits having been removed, and half a dozen particularly belligerent men having been taken in by the police, the disturbance was quelled without serious injury to a single person.

Somehow the army was started off towards its new camp between a double line of police, followed by a mob of thousands, cheering like demons for Coxey and Brown. Within an hour the capitol grounds had almost regained their normal quiet, with only a few hundred people strolling around.

Gen. Coxey accepts the situation philosophically. His army was put to work clearing up the new camping grounds for occupancy, while Coxey drove over to the office of the District commissioner on business. He made an application for the necessary license to charge an admission to his camp. The commissioner desired to consider the proposition, so acting upon the suggestion, Coxey went to the clerk, and by paying $50 secured a license for one day only.

Washington, May 1.—Coxey and Brown were arrested at noon today on the capitol steps. The commonwealth army was astray early today upon Bright-Heights with preparations for the procession to the capitol. The men passed a cold night, many sleeping on the ground. There was an early breakfast of eggs, bread and coffee. Tents were packed into wagons and the army was aligned before 9 o'clock. All the men carried staves, on which fluttered white flags with the motto, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men, but Death to Interest on Bonds."

Before the start Brown formed the men into hollow squares and put them through a most remarkable drill. The staves were handled like guns, and when Brown shouted "Glory and Peace" they cheered three times and waved the sticks in the air.

The Philadelphia commune, 60 men strong, stood on one side waiting to fall in. A bass drum boomed and bagpipes emitted shrill screams. After a march twice around the grounds the men were drawn up in line and more cheers and drilling followed. Brown harangued the men in the customary street-fair strain.

At 10:15 the army started for the city. As the caravan worked its way down the three-mile stretch to the city it was a most fantastic array.

When near the capitol Brown halted the column and dismounted. He and Coxey then started toward the entrance of the capitol, followed by the police. Before he was recognized he was on the tenth step of the east front entrance. The officers then closed in on him. The great crowd recognized him, and a shout went up from every corner. Coxey turned to the crowd and raised his hat. He was very pale.

"What do you want here?" asked Capt. Garden.

"I wish to make an address," replied Coxey. His voice showed intense emotion.

"But you cannot do that."

"Then can I read a protest?" asked Coxey.

He drew from his pocket a typewritten manuscript and began unfolding it. Capt. Garden took Coxey by the left arm and Lieut. Kelly by the right they moved down the steps, a solid rank of officers following. The mounted police charged the crowd, and it looked as if there would be trouble, but the little knot of officers pressed forward, with Coxey in the center, flanked by mounted officers.

There was no formal arrest. Coxey turned toward the army, which still stood on the street. When Brown reached the capitol steps two policemen threw themselves upon him and dragged him to the police station. When the police had escorted Coxey to a carriage he clambered into the vehicle, and a loud cheer went up from the crowd. The commonwealthers fell into step, and with Coxey bowing to the right and left amid wild cheers, the procession turned down Second street to South and started to the new camp in the malarious region in the extreme southern part of the city.

Christopher Columbus Jones, of the Philadelphia contingent, was also arrested. He and Brown will be arraigned in police court tomorrow on a charge of violating a special act of congress forbidding assemblages in the capitol grounds. The penalty is a fine not to exceed $100, or imprisonment not to exceed 60 days, or both.

DISCONTENT IN CAMP.

Des Moines, May 1.—Kelly's industrial army was in a great state of discontent today, owing to the failure of the negotiations with the Northwestern road and a scarcity of provisions.

ON THE MARCH.

Chicago, May 1.—Randall's commonwealth army began marching today. There are ten companies. The first destination was Grand Crossing.

ADJOURNED EARLY.

Washington, May 1.—Both houses of congress adjourned today, out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Stockbridge, of Michigan, who died yesterday at Chicago.

BELIEVED TO BE DUE TO SHOCK.

Washington, May 1.—Many friends of Senator Stockbridge believe his death yesterday was due to the shock he received last summer, when he was knocked down by a cable car in Chicago.

TITLES INVALIDATED

Large Tracts of Land On the Coast Affected.

GREAT NORTHERN STRIKE OFF

Great Loss of Life and Property by a Landslide at St. Albans, Province of Quebec.

Associated Press.

Tacoma, May 1.—A decision of the United States supreme court in the Valentine scrip case invalidates the filings on 1,200 acres of tide land at Tacoma, 1,200 at Seattle, 100 at Bellingham Bay, 160 at Port Townsend and 80 acres at Gray's Harbor. Scrip was issued by the government in 1872, in lieu of the Spanish grant, upon which Petaluma, Cal., is situated, the validity of the grant being unrecognized in the United States until the supreme court affirmed it. The grant covered 13,360 acres. The tide-lands filed on along Puget Sound were valued at about $3,000,000. The supreme court decision does not invalidate the scrip, but merely decides that the land belongs to the state. The scrip is good on any unsurveyed government land.

THE STRIKE OVER.

St. Paul, May 1.—The Great Northern strike will be declared off as a result of the conference between President Hill, of the Great Northern, and President Debs, of the American Railway Union, and the representatives of the Twin City commercial bodies. Hill has already made concessions of nearly everything asked, and the strike is the same as ended.

TERRIBLE LANDSLIDE.

Several Persons Lose Their Lives by a Freak of Nature.

St. Albans, Quebec, via Lachepotriere, May 1.—Samuel Gauthier, a farmer of St. Albans, his wife Emily, their sons Joseph and David Gauthier, and brother, are buried under 100 feet of earth by the terrible landslide of Friday last. The principal scene of the accident is 13 miles from the nearest telegraph, and this is the reason the news of this terrible freak of nature was not given sooner to the outside world. For miles there is nothing but desolation. While the St. Anne was once nearly a mile wide, it is now only a narrow stream, raging and surging in a vain attempt to break its new bounds. The woods, houses and cattle are all gone, and nothing is left but the barren ground, of uneven height, for six miles back.

AN OLD VETERAN GONE.

Lodi, Cal., May 1.—Thomas Tracey, barkeeper in a saloon, died suddenly today from the effects of wounds received while lieutenant and executive officer on board the Hartford, under Farragut, in 1864. Tracey was once thanked by congress for conspicuous bravery at the battle of Mobile Bay.

THE SENATE'S LOSSES.

Washington, May 1.—Never before in its history, it would be safe to say, has the senate lost its members in such rapid succession. Five weeks ago the obsequies of Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, were held in the senate chamber; three weeks later the lamented Senator Vance, of North Carolina, was buried, and today the desk of Senator Stockbridge, of Michigan, is draped in black.

ASKS NO ONE TO CONDONE.

Washington, May 1.—W. C. P. Breckenridge, defendant in the Breckenridge-Pollard trial, said today: "I start for Lexington on Thursday morning, and will open the canvass Saturday afternoon at that place." Speaking of the campaign, he said: "I feel confident that I will be nominated and elected. It is my purpose to still be of use to my district and to my state in a legislative capacity, notwithstanding the mistakes which I frankly acknowledge and ask no one to condone."

WILL WORK OR SPILL BLOOD.

Pana, Ill., May 1.—Great excitement has been caused here by the report that morning the coal miners from Springfield are coming to take out the miners and stop work. Mayor Hayward has ordered the saloons closed, and a large force of deputy policemen have been sworn in and armed. The miners here say they propose to work, if they have to spill blood to do so.

RADICAL CHANGES.

San Francisco, May 1.—An action was begun in the superior court today that will probably result in radical changes in the management of two of San Francisco's leading daily newspapers. George K. Fitch, the surviving partner of the late Loring Pickering and the late James W. Simonton, in the ownership of the Daily Morning Call and the Daily Evening Bulletin, filed a petition praying for the appointment of a receiver for the Call and Bulletin properties. He asks that the receiver so appointed be ordered to sell the Call and Bulletin at public auction, or at private sale, to the highest bidder, for cash.

A SMALL RIOT.

Cleveland, O., May 1.—Seven thousand unemployed paraded the streets today. A motorman refused to stop his train, and the mob attacked him and wrecked the car. Later nearly 100 shots were fired over another car, which was compelled to stop. Several persons were knocked down, and others injured by missiles.

THE RACES YESTERDAY.

San Francisco, May 1.—Following is the result of the races today:
Six and one-half furlongs—Charles A., 1:23 1-2.
Half mile, for two-year-olds—Miss Clay filly, 0:50 3-4.
Six furlongs—St. Croix, 1:15 1-2.
Seven furlongs—Gladator, 1:28 1-2.
Five furlongs—Chemuck, 1:02 1-2.

DUE TO JEALOUSY.

San Francisco, May 1.—Jack McNamara, the ballist of police court No. 1, this afternoon shot and killed Tom Bashford, his predecessor. Bashford assaulted McNamara with a beer bottle in a saloon, and the latter drew his pistol and fired. Bashford was removed from his office two days since.

AN INSOLVENT BANK.

San Francisco, May 1.—Attorney General Hart today announced that he would immediately begin suit to place the People's Home Savings bank in liquidation as an insolvent institution. Judge Hubbard this afternoon appointed Gen. John F. Sheehan receiver.

A NUMBER ARRESTED.

Ghent, Belgium, May 1.—At Hamme, 100 miles from here, the ropemakers ceased work and joined in a disordered May Day parade, and broke windows with stones. The local gen d'armes restored order after a number of arrests.

ALL QUIET IN FRANCE.

Paris, May 1.—May Day is passing off quietly throughout France.

NO DISORDER REPORTED.

Rome, May 1.—No May Day disorders are reported in Italy or Sicily.

WILL HAVE TO BURN WOOD.

St. Louis, May 1.—The steamboatmen exercised over the prospect of a coal famine because of the strike in the coal mines. Several steamers are making arrangements to burn wood.

HEAVY GOLD SHIPMENTS.

New York, May 1.—Lazard Freres will ship $1,000,000 in gold by tomorrow's steamer. Saturday's steamers will, from indications, take out $3,000,000 more.

BUSINESS PORTION BURNED.

Vicksburg, Miss., May 1.—The business portion of Bolton was burned today. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary. Loss, $50,000.

"JUST FOR FUN."

Biddeford, Me., May 1.—All the back boys in the spinning rooms of the Pepperell mills are on strike. "Just for fun," they say.

RESUMES BUSINESS.

Portland, Or., May 1.—The Portland savings bank re-opened its doors this morning.
