THE END OF IT.

If the Coxey defendants in the police court at Washington are sincere in the declaration that they propose to test their constitutional right to assemble in the capital grounds, for the innocent purpose of listening to addresses from their leaders and others, then they have certainly been unfortunate in the selection of some of their counsel.

The appearance of such men as Allen and Pence in the role of their defenders frustrates this object, and is calculated to distract public attention from the merits of the question at issue, and convert the trial of a legal proposition, interesting to all lawyers and thinking people, into a farcical parade of the ridiculous fanfares and dangerous doctrines of the Populist party.

In the minds of the people it will no longer be a trial of the Coxeyites, but a trial of the Populists, and not a legal but a political question. And so the old history of such uprisings among the people, whether upon real or fancied grounds, is re-enacted in the attempt of this set of ambitious and unscrupulous demagogues to use the Coxey movement as a vehicle for their own elevation into public notoriety and attention.

The end can be easily foretold. The legal question will remain unsettled. The defendants, having committed at least a technical violation of the laws and regulations of the District of Columbia, will be held guilty in the inferior tribunal of the present hearing. Thereupon Messrs. Allen, Spence & Co. will announce an appeal with a tremendous flourish, and, while the matter is pending in the appellate court, will proceed to make much political capital out of it.

When the case is finally reached by the upper court prosperity will have been restored to the country, the Populist will have no existence as a party, Allen and Spence, having no further use for the matter, the appeal will be dismissed, Coxey will pay the fine and costs, and so will end the chapter.

The blundering foreign policy of Mr. Cleveland and the malignity of his secretary of state, is once more apparent in the condition of affairs now prevailing in Hawaii. The sinister attitude of the Cleveland administration towards the Provisional government has encouraged the queen and her advisors to renewed plots for restoration, and it seems that a bloody revolution is impending. It will not be a happy reflection for Mr. Cleveland that he and the secretary of state must be held directly responsible by the whole civilized world for every drop of blood shed in the attempt to overthrow the present government.

An exchange says: "The silk association of the United States calls attention to the fact that the special bulletin on the silk industry prepared by the census department last year has been called in and revised by the present census authorities because it gave figures supporting the protective policy. Though the statistics are not disputed they are not stricken out, at an additional cost of stereotyping and printing of many thousand dollars. Other census monographs will be similarly doctored, their figures being unpalatable, though correct. The logical thing for the Democracy to do is to put all census publications on the Index Expurgatorius."

Senator Morgan says the money power, as the Populists call corporate interests, caused the third nomination of Cleveland. He is right about it. The Standard-Union says: "Never before, in a national convention, was so open-handed a display of the power of great trusts as in the Chicago convention. And they had a wire to Cleveland at Buzzard's Bay that they worked all the while. Cleveland dodged the tariff trouble, but he was immense on the money question; and money was used for Cleveland, and held the convention in all-right session to force his nomination."

The situation in the state campaign is such that the Democrats have now no hope to accomplish anything for themselves as an independent party, or obtain any share of the offices by a fusion with the Populist. Is it not better, therefore, for them to insure the election of a Republican legislature by helping the candidates on the Republican ticket, and thus save the consequences of the common calamity of the election of a Populist legislature?

SOMETHING EVERY WOMAN OUGHT TO KNOW. There is one positive rule for cooking all vegetables, they should be put in boiling water when set on the stove to cook. The stronger flavored varieties, such as carrots, cabbage, onions and dandelions, should be well covered with a generous quantity of boiling water, but the more delicate species, as, for instance, peas, asparagus and potatoes, need only to be just covered with water. All green vegetables should be cooked with the cover partially off the steppan, as it gives them a more delicate flavor and better color.

The actual time necessary to cook even a potato properly is as much an item to be learned as any other detail in the great system of food preparation. Potatoes should cook well and thoroughly in 30 minutes, provided they are covered with boiling water and placed on an even fire. They should be kept boiling after they begin, but not furiously, as that is apt to break the surface before the centre is done. The time of cooking must be calculated from the moment the boiling water is poured over them. When the potatoes are done the water should be poured off and the steam allowed to escape. Baked potatoes take about 45 minutes to cook.

Turnips, if sliced, will take about 30 minutes; if put in whole, 40 minutes' time will be needed to cook them thoroughly. Peas and asparagus, if fresh, require from 20 to 35 minutes. Onions should be covered with plenty of boiling water and cooked for one hour. Beets, when young and fresh, will cook in 40 minutes, but as they grow larger they require longer cooking.

Cauliflower should be put head down into a steppan filled with three quarts of boiling water. Cover and cook gently for 30 minutes. String beans require two hours. At the end of the first hour a teaspoonful of salt to each quart of beans should be added. After they are done all the water should be poured off, and to the beans should be added one teaspoonful of butter and four teaspoonfuls of boiling water. Return to the fire for three minutes and serve.

Fresh lima beans need one hour's cooking. Dried ones must be put to soak over night in one quart of cold water and cooked in a quart of boiling water for an hour and 30 minutes, the cold water, of course, having been drained off. These are the commonest vegetables and the commonest ways of cooking them, but unless attention is given to even these small details the ordinary meal will be robbed of much of its flavor, and the vegetable standards are unpalatable and indigestible unless cooked as long and in the manner that they should be.

Japanese novelties and fancy dry goods, can be had at a low price, at the store of Wing Lee, next to Olsen's cigar store. A GOOD WORD. Mr. J. J. Kell, Sharpsburg, Pa. Dear Sir: I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules. After suffering for over three years with acute neuralgia and its consequent insomnia (which seemed to baffle the efforts of some of our best physicians) you suggested this remedy which gave me almost instant relief. Words fail to express the praise I should like to bestow on Krause's Headache Capsules. Gratefully Yours, MRS. E. R. HOLMES, Montrose, Pa.

For sale by Chas. Rogers, Astoria, Or., sole agent. EXPENSIVE ECONOMY. Some people begrudge the little money that an Alcock's Porous Plaster costs, and then when they are racked with pain from a lame back, or from the soreness arising from a cold, they will spend any amount of money to relieve the pain. If they only had one of those world-renowned plasters on hand they would be saved a vast amount of suffering and be considerably richer. At the first sign of stiffness of the joints apply one of these plasters without any delay. The soreness will be greatly relieved at once and soon disappear entirely. It will be money saved to have them on hand, to say nothing of the comfort they bring.
