A COWARDLY DEMOCRACY.

From the fact that the tariff amendments are now submitted and the vote is in progress in the senate, it is reasonable to infer that a majority sufficiently large to insure the passage of the bill has been pledged to it.

A GOOD WORD.

Mr. J. J. Kell, Sharpsburg, Pa. Dear Sir: I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules.

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea.

year declined $59,979,377 in customs receipts and $76,151,524 in the total, while in England there was actually an increase of $438,545 in the customs receipts and a further increase of $3,688,115 in the total revenue.

As near as can be learned from hearsay, and the process of putting things together, the latest news on the railroad situation is that the proposition submitted by the Stanton people was rejected by the committee, and these gentlemen have made their final exit from the stage.

Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, who retired from Washington with so much theatrical effect, after the terrific strain of passing the bill which bears his name through a house with nearly 100 majority committed in its favor, is slowly and unpretentiously making his way back to the capitol.

In the midst of all their doubts and uncertainties about the railroad prospect, it is the duty of the people of Astoria and Clatsop county to remember—and govern themselves accordingly in the future—that if it had not been for the election of Penoyer and Grover Cleveland, just so certainly as the waters of the Columbia flow seaward, there would now be a railroad in Astoria, and the town would be one of the largest and most prosperous cities in the northwest.

The great Democratic victory in Ohio—the special election in the third congressional district—consists in the election of Sorg by 1,721 majority to take the place of Houk, deceased, who was elected by 4,326 majority. Democratic loss, 2,595.

Which is the Presbyterian church, the one in convention in the "south" or the one in convention at the "north"?

A BUSY DAY.

Yesterday would have been the day to have taken a stranger to Hanthorne's cannery if he had expressed a desire to see a salmon packing institution in full blast. The cannery fishermen had struck a streak of luck Monday and Tuesday, consequently there were more fish brought in than there had been on any two previous days this season, over 14 tons being the amount, mostly of a size that pleases cannerymen and fishermen alike.

STANDS WITHOUT A RIVAL.

Gentlemen: I have been troubled with very severe headaches for twenty years, and have taken a great many different remedies, but have never found anything to give me as speedy and permanent relief as Krause's Headache Capsules.

A GOOD WORD.

Mr. J. J. Kell, Sharpsburg, Pa. Dear Sir: I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules. After suffering for over three years with acute neuralgia and its consequent insomnia (which seemed to haffle the efforts of some of our best physicians) you suggested this remedy which gave me almost instant relief.

POLITICAL POINTERS FOR OREGON VOTERS.

Legislation of, by and for the sugar trust is what the Democrats are furnishing these days.

When a Democratic president is in Washington there is always a scare of some kind on hand.

As a knocker-out of labor, capital, thrift, enterprise, progress and prosperity, the Democratic party holds the championship.

If the gentlemen of the sugar trust don't see what they want in the tariff bill let them ask for it and the Democracy will give it to them.

The country is getting very tired of labor riots, of industrial armies, of business uncertainties, of hard times—in short, of Democratic rule.

A year ago the Populists were dictating terms of alliance with the other parties in several states, and now they are bidding for the privilege of playing tail to any kite that flies.

Penoyer, of Oregon, must have realized that he has all the qualities the governor of a state should not have. The failure being total his eye is fixed on the United States senate.

If Coxe fails to influence congress he need not feel very bad. About 50,000,000 people in the United States have been trying to do the same thing for a year past and have failed.—Inter-Ocean.

"Thirty years of Republican rule and one year of the misrule of Grover Cleveland," is the way a convention of Democrats in Missouri expresses it. The historic old Democracy is almost as discordant as it was in 1861.

Congressman Mills, who fairly blubbered over "taxing the poor man's shirt," is one of the noble advocates of taxing every pound of "the poor man's sugar." You see it is the only way he can buy the votes of the senators from Louisiana.

The current argument for the passage of the Democratic tariff bill is the strongest that has yet been presented. It is simply that the country is now in such a deplorable state that nothing can make it worse.

More compromises have been entered into on the Wilson bill than were adopted in all the tariff measures combined which the republicans enacted. And the worst of it is the bulk of the Democrats think the compromises have made the bill worse instead of better.

Under Republican rule and protection to labor such armies as are now marching and begging under the command of the Coxseys and Kellys were impossible. Busy and prosperous people are contented. It is the enforced idleness that has wrought the discontent and mischief.

The fruit industry, which is rapidly growing into importance on the Pacific coast, and which with adequate protection is capable of an indefinite expansion until the Pacific coast could supply the people of the whole Union with the finest fruit, is to be stricken down and destroyed in this general onslaught on American industry by the party in power.—Senator J. N. Dolph, Record, March 1, 1894.

Are you for England or are you for America? I have noticed that whenever England desired to acquire additional territory from Africa, that she would send her soldiers there and demand it, but whenever England is desirous of acquiring the markets of America, she makes the alliance with the Democratic party.

A cloud has settled over this country and all of its industries within the last year more awful in its blackness than any that has overcast the sky since the terrible days of 1860 and 1861. The simple threat of free trade, and power to carry that threat into execution has caused a loss of property and a shrinkage of values that can hardly be comprehended by the human mind.—Hon. A. L. Hagar, Record, February 2, 1894.

Whether the universal sentiment in favor of protection as applied to every country is sound or not, I do not stop to discuss. Whether it is best for the United States of America alone concerns me now, and the first thing I have to say, is that after thirty years of protection, undisturbed by any serious menace of free trade, up to the very year now last past, this country was the greatest and most flourishing nation on the face of the earth. Moreover, with the shadow of this unjustifiable bill resting cold upon it, mills closed, with hundreds of thousands of men unemployed, industry at a standstill, and prospects before it more gloomy than ever marked its history—except one—this country is still the grandest and richest that the sun shines on, or ever did shine on.—Hon. Thomas B. Reed, Record, February 1, 1894.
