SHE WORS TROUSERS.

San Francisco's Polite Mayor Acts the Gal-Innt Against His Will.

Mrs. de Forest, the indy who declares her desire and intention to henceforth walk the earth in pantaloons and other masculine articles of attire in preference to those usually considered as proper to her sex, astonished Mayor Ellert by calling upon him at his office recently. The mayor, however, was soon relieved of his fears as to what the visit might portend by an explanation from the lady which set him at case. All she wanted was that his honor would assure her of immunity from arrest, as she was aware that she had rendered herself liable to being taken into custody owing to her peculiarity of attire.

The modest mayor bashfully looked at the floor while the lady explained her | later Marcus Van Diver, who was a poor errand, and then assured her that the chief of police was the official to whom she should apply.

"Indeed!" said the lady. "But where will 1 find him?"

"At the old city hall," said the mayor. "But I'm afraid," said the lady, "that he will not grant my request unless I come well recommended-well introduced, that is. Now, Mr. Mayor," and here the lady smiled very coaxingly, "would you mind going with me to call on the chief?"

"Of course not, madam-that is-1 mean to say-why, yes, certainly, certainly.

But as he said it and thought of the accompanied his honor groaned in spirit.

So a few minutes later the mayor was seen to leave the city hall and start down town accompanied by a lady tastefully attired in a stovepipe hat, creased pants, a Willie boy coat with long tails and everything else that goes to make up a modern everyday dude. #### THE MIDWINTER FAIR.

It Will Have an Electrical Tower With Over 5,000 Lights.

The Midwinter fair is assured of having a feature that will be quite as unique as anything seen at Chicago. It is to be an electrical tower 266 feet high and containing lights enough to turn night into day in Concert valley.

The framework of the tower will be gracefully constructed and decorated with over 5,000 incandescent lights of different colors. It will be supplied with an elevator running to a height of 220 feet. There will be pavilions on the ground floor for the use of the public. Flanking the open space will be four Moorish pavilions containing four stories and decorated in oriental colors.

The base of the tower will occupy a space 50 feet square, while the first gallery, 80 feet from the ground, will have a seating capacity of 200. Three other galleries will extend beyond this and will seat several hundred persons. The topmost gallery will be within six feet of the pinnacle. In it will be a great

A Georgia Man Accused of a Murder Which Was Enveloped In Mystery.

A Cleveland (Ga.) correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat sends his paper the following story:

At midnight a verdict was rendered in the superior court which relieved Marcus Van Diver of a charge of murder which he has been battling for over 21 years.

In June of 1872 M. K. Palmer, who was at the time one of the most noted lawyers and politicians of the state, attended court here. He was engaged in the prosecution of cases against several prominent men charged with forging land titles. While riding to the home of a friend with whom he boarded he was shot to death. No trace of his murderer could be found. A few weeks cropper, suddenly bloomed out into a man of means. Where he got his money no one knew, and for want of a better explanation the people declared that the land title forgers had paid him to murder the man who was so much in their way. This theory led to an indictment for murder.

For some strange reason, while proclaiming his innocence, Van Diver always kept his case at the head of the docket, and for 21 years has averted trial. To secure these continuances required influences of the strongest kind, which he always commanded. The courthouse, with many records, has been burned since 1873, and many witnesses have possibilities of the trip down town so died. Van Diver elected this last week that it was safe to allow his case to come to trial. Among the persons present in the courtroom was the posthumous daughter of the dead lawyer, who is now a beautiful young woman. The verdict of acquittal was unavoidable, because of Diver is going to move to Texas next

An improbable Yarn. "One of my ancestors won a battle during the crusades by his skill in handling his artillery," said the baron. "But my dear baron," said his friend, at the time of the crusade gunpowder had not vet been discovered." "I know that as well as you do, and so did my ancestors."

"How did he win the battle, then?" "He brought his artillery to bear on the Saracens, and the stupid fools, see ing the guns, supposed that powder had at last been discovered, and fied in dismay."-St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Record Breaker.

It is not easy to predict what will happen with our ocean steamers next. Here is the Lucania, the new Cunarder, on her second trip, wresting the western record from the Paris and reducing it to 5 days 13 hours and 25 minutes.

This remarkable trip is made, too, at an uncertain season of the year, when five or six days of sustained fast running cannot be safely counted on. But the wonderful part of these performances is that they are no longer exceptional events, but are kept up with as much regularity as the sailing of the boats on their appointed days.

There is now a fleet on the Atlantic line whose arrival in New York within six days after leaving the other side is scarcely problematical. The only question is will the record of a few hours tion is will the record of a few hours over five days be beaten? The Cunarders now hold the laurels. But the Paris belongs to an American line, and it will not be her fault if she does not recover them. – New York World. Lord Danraven. I am somewhat surprised that writers in our contemporaries speak of Lord Dun-raven as if he were a stranger on this side the water. He has been here twice before, besides touring westward among the Rockies, and his book entitled the "Great Divide" was among the most in-"Great Divide" was among the most intelligent contributions to contemporaneous photography over published. As I recall it, he first came here in 1870, when he was known by his courtesy title, Lord Adair, and again in 1875 as Lord Dunraven. His seat in the peers is under another title, that of an English baron, his title of earl being Irish. Lord Dun-raven explored Canada and Newfoundland on sporting tours thoroughly. He was in the last Gladstonean ministry and altogether is considerably more than a simple yachtsman.-Joe Howard.
