

MORE STREETS NEEDED.

The following complaint is not the first of its kind received at this office, and it is to be hoped the city authorities will take due notice of the necessities of the case and act accordingly:

Editor Astorian— West Fifth street, which leads from the roadway near John McCann's to Scow Bay foundry and the beach eastward, has been fenced up. It was a very frail and poor excuse for a street, but being the only one the numerous residents of that locality had for getting out or in, they were duly grateful for it. This street, it seems, is private property, and some 50 families or more have been dependent for years on the kindness of private parties for their only street privileges. Now the street is nearly worn out and unsafe, and it has been fenced up. Is it not about time the city made some provision for street privileges for the people of this neighborhood?

Some streets have been put through where they were vastly less needed, and when the expense was very much greater than would be required to give the much-needed convenience of a good safe street to the people of the vicinity referred to. TAXPAYER.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Editor Astorian— We reiterate our question in our article of date June 3—Will the BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS, tell us, through some one who knows what he is talking about, just why we do not have new water works? Under the circumstances, we are entitled to a fair, honest and courteous reply. We are the sufferers. WE housekeepers and our FAMILIES. ALL of the board live on the lower levels, where there is not so much danger of a short allowance at any time. Let them suffer as we have for the past TWO YEARS, and we imagine there would be a "rustling among the dry bones." We have given opportunity, time and again, for an honest reply to our very many THUS FAR unanswered questions. The propelling power of a Wind-mill is WIND. We have no use, at present, for either the wind-mill, or its propelling power. A righteously

INDIGNANT HOUSEKEEPER.

A REFINED CRITIC.

We have no comments to make on the following anonymous communication. It speaks for itself: Editor Astorian— The way you end the "high water articles" would make a dog sick and a pig blush. Crying your wares at a neighbor's funeral. No doubt you are selfish, and the whole town is selfish, but, for mercy's sake, don't tell the whole world that meanness is epidemic here. Everything of mine is dependent on Astoria's fate, but I hope I shall never get so damned mean as to either express or write such sentiments as are in the water news articles. The Astorian is much improved by your pen, and I am a friend of your paper, as you might know by my dropping you these lines, instead of sending same to the Budget. But please don't gloat any more over others' misfortunes. I am not the only one feeling thus.

RESIDENT.

WHAT COLD IS.

New York World.

A person who has never been in the polar regions can have no idea of what cold is. When we have the temperature down to 10 degrees or 15 degrees above zero we think it bitterly cold, and if our houses were not as warm as at least 50 degrees above zero we should begin to think of freezing to death.

Think, then, of living where the mercury goes down to 35 degrees below zero in the house in spite of the stove. Of course in such a case fur garments are piled on until a man looks like a great bundle of skins.

Dr. Moss, of the polar expedition of 1875 and 1876, among other odd things, tells of the effect of cold on a wax candle which he burned there. The temperature was 25 degrees below zero, and the doctor must have been considerably discouraged when, upon looking at his candle, he discovered that the flame had all it could do to keep warm.

It was so cold that the flame could not melt all the wax off the candle, but was forced to cut its way down, leaving a sort of skeleton of the candle standing.

There was heat enough, however, to melt oddly-shaped holes in the walls of wax, and the result was a beautiful lace-like cylinder of white, with a tongue of yellow flame burning inside it and sending out into the darkness many streaks of light.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS.

Water will be shut off between the hours of 10:30 p. m. and 5 a. m. through the summer months. W. N. SMITH, Superintendent of Water Works.

CITATION.

In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clatsop: In the matter of the estate of G. K. Grimes, deceased, citation, to Nora Colwell—Greeting: In the name of the state of Oregon, you are hereby cited and required to appear in the County Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clatsop, at the court room thereof, at Astoria, in the County of Clatsop, on Monday, the 25th day of June, 1894, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to show cause, if any there be, why an order should not be made to sell lots one (1), two (2) and three (3), in section 16, township 6, north of range 19 west Will. Mer., to pay the debts of said estate, and expenses as prayed for in the petition of E. M. Grimes, administrator, filed this date. Witness, the Hon. C. A. Blue Devils

The business man who says that advertising does not pay does not advertise. He is the one that always doubts the prosperous trade reports he hears of his competitor, who does advertise. He sits in the back of his store, smokes his pipe and wonders why he isn't making any money. He has the blues when he should have trade. He not only lets his neighbor get that neighbor's share of the business, but a good part of his also. He sees people whom he thought old friends of his go into his competitor's store and come out with bundles of goods, when he has the same articles on his shelves, and perhaps at lower prices than they paid his competitor for them. Why is this so? It is because his competitor lets the public know in an intelligent way through the local papers what he has to sell and when he has it.

The successful advertiser looks after his advertising space as he does his clerks. He changes his ads. in such a way the people are attracted by them. He feels that to make money he must be willing to spend some; that there is strong competition in all lines of business, and to get his share of the trade he must advertise, and to do it in the most skillful and intelligent way. If he cannot write advertising matter himself, he seeks the aid of some one who has made the writing of advertisements a study—some specialist, who will see that it is properly written in a catchy and displayed way—some one whose duty it is to take off the shoulders of a busy man all the worry of making up an ad.

No business man attempts to cure his own sickness, pull his own teeth, make his own clothes or attend to his own law cases. He employs specialists for each of these various services, and saves money by doing it. It is through its language and arrangement that an advertisement gets its business-bringing qualities. There must be something to attract public attention and hold it; something of interest, something out of the ordinary, something that is different from others of the same line of business. To give it these peculiar features requires experience, and the owner of The Astorian has engaged the services of such a specialist for the benefit of its advertising customers who may wish to take advantage of his services.

The Evening Star, of Washington, D. C., has an advertisement writer connected with its business department, and its terms to advertisers are, "So much blank space, so much money. The same amount of space, with the assistance of the advertisement writer in getting up ad. attractively, so much additional."

The Astorian charges nothing extra, the services of the expert being thrown in.

A POUND OF FACTS IS WORTH OCEANS OF THEORIES. Fact No. 1.—There have been more infants successfully raised on the Gail Borden Eagle Brand Condensed Milk than upon any other substitute for mothers' milk. Fact No. 2.—Infants thus brought up are subject to very little sickness compared with those otherwise raised. These prove the third fact, which is, that the Eagle Brand Condensed Milk is pure, wholesome, carefully prepared and unequalled as a food for infants.
