M. Olsen will sell at his auction rooms on Saturday, at 11 o'clock, a lot of family furniture consisting of bedroom sets, mattresses, chairs, an extension table, writing desk, etc. These goods must be sold to the highest bidder, as the owner is going to leave the city.

J. W. Surprenant kindly loaned his potted plants and beautiful palms to the high school to decorate the platform in the exercises last night. He spent a good part of the day in assisting their arrangement, and both flowers and decoration were much admired by all present.

CHURCH SERVICES TOMORROW.

There will be services in the German language at the Congregational church on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30. Rev. G. Hafner, of Washougal, Wash., will occupy the pulpit. All the Germans in the city are invited and welcome. J. G. Schmidt, pastor.

At the Methodist Episcopal church there will be the usual services tomorrow. The subject for the morning sermon will be: "Not Ashamed of the Gospel." The evening subject: "Apology No. 1." All are invited. Rev. Dr. Bushong, pastor.

THE NEW STREET SIGNS.

Street Superintendent Chadwick will soon have the street corners adorned with new signs to conform with the ordinance changing the names of streets. The signs are being well painted, and as soon as completed will be put up on all corners where there are suitable places to put them, and will add materially to the appearance of the city. An extra number have been provided for new corners as improvements progress, and may be had on application.

ESSAYS AND BLOSSOMS.

The Beauty of the Bouquets Revisited by the Blushes of the Graduates and Their Associates.

The high school commencement exercises took place at the Methodist church last evening, and were of an unusually interesting character. There was an immense audience present, every seat being occupied, and standing room at a premium.

Astoria prides itself on its public schools; no city in the state has a better conducted or more efficient school system, and the interest taken by the people generally in the annual examinations and commencement exercises is sufficient evidence of the hearty support and co-operation of the public at large in everything which tends to elevate and promote our educational system.

The exercises were opened promptly at half-past 8 o'clock with a prayer by the Rev. Mr. Bushong, of the Methodist church.

This was followed by an instrumental trio by Messrs. Sigfred Young, Edwin Hobson and Prof. Fredrickson.

THE SALUTATORY.

On behalf of the class Miss Violet Rowley welcomed the audience, and extended thanks to all present for their attendance at the anniversary exercises of the Ciceronian Literary Society, and the bidding good-bye to three of her schoolmates. She paid a high tribute to Abraham Lincoln, giving him the title of a "Typical American," who commenced in a log hut and finally occupied the president's chair, and that his monument of love for his country will outlast the Pyramids of Egypt.

Miss Mattie Shively read a very interesting and amusing essay on "My Lunar Outing." She told of her adventures in a balloon trip to the moon, and pictured the future of a great many of her classmates in a manner which was highly entertaining to the audience. Her essay was a good one.

The High School choir sang "Hall Smiling Morn," which was followed by a debate. Affirm, Mr. Floyd Dement; deny, Miss Bessie Rutter. Question: "Resolved, That the present condition of affairs in this country is not conducive to its best interests."

The debate was a spirited one, and Miss Bessie, from the applause she received, can congratulate herself as having convinced the audience that she had the best of the argument.

Miss Susie Elmore's piano recital was then rendered and much admired, after which Miss Maud Spedden presented the Society Diploma with as neat a speech as one could wish to hear.

Mr. A. B. Dalgity then delivered an oration, the subject being "Education—Past and Present." Mr. Dalgity's subject was well chosen, and it was a credit to himself and to the graduating class. He has a good voice, an easy delivery and his oration was one of the gems of the evening.

Miss Frances Holden delighted the audience with a vocal solo, "Happy Birds."

Mr. A. A. Cleveland delivered his oration, "What of the Future," which he discussed by starting in with the Pyramid builders and traced the progress of education down to the present day. He was a little timid at first, but as he warmed up to his subject gave his audience a treat, especially on the question of "Patriotism to One's Country."

He received a well merited applause. Miss Jessie Jewett and Edwin Hobson favored the audience with a piano duet. Miss Clara Barker, to whom was accorded the valedictory, read an essay on "The Olympic Games." The essay was read in a straightforward, womanly manner, and was received with hearty applause.

The valedictory was brief, but well written; the valedictorian ingeniously weaving the subject of her essay with the future of her classmates. On behalf of the class she returned thanks to the teachers for their patience, and to the school directors for their kindness and the interest taken in behalf of the pupils, and expressed the hope that when the race of life was over "we may receive a brilliant crown and hear the answer, 'Well done.'"

Prof. Wright then presented the diplomas and was followed by H. C. Thompson, chairman of the board of education, who delivered an address to the graduating class.

FLOWERS.

Never before were there so many floral offerings at a commencement in Astoria, and if placed on the stage they would have literally covered it with choice bouquets and floral designs of every description.

A REPORTED SUICIDE.

Mrs. Belle Petty Found Dead With a Bullet in Her Breast.

Word was brought to town yesterday that there had been a suicide or a murder committed out on the Willusid. Coroner Pohl immediately summoned Dr. Fulton and went with him to the ranch of Joe Petty, when the body of Mrs. Petty was found on the floor with a bullet hole in the left breast. The woman had been dead for some hours, and after an examination of the surroundings Coroner Pohl had the body brought to the city and held an inquest, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., with the following jury: P. O'Hara, H. G. Smith, Martin Olsen, Charles Rober, H. Bell, Arthur Leberman.

After taking the testimony of Dr. A. L. Fulton, Joe Petty, the reputed husband of the dead woman, Mrs. Daisy King, John Walters, Thomas Boyle and M. Ryan, the inquest was adjourned for the purpose of taking further testimony, and to allow the prosecuting attorney to inquire into the case. The jury will again visit the scene of the tragedy this morning.

MR. LEWIS' AFFLICTION.

He Receives News of His Father's Death.

Councilman E. C. Lewis has received by wire the sad intelligence of the death of his father, C. B. Lewis, a prominent resident of Manistee, Mich., resulting from a stroke of apoplexy. His age was 72 years, and what is strikingly unusual is that he is survived by his own mother, who is hale and hearty at the advanced age of 97.

HOME AGAIN.

Dr. M. M. Walker, who has been absent about two weeks attending the meeting of the American Medical Association lately held in San Francisco, returned by yesterday morning's steamer. The Chronicle of last Sunday contained a very complimentary notice of a speech delivered by the doctor, on the occasion of an excursion tendered the delegates to the meeting to Mars Island. The speech is described as a passionate appeal for the obliteration of sectional differences; a good idea of the effect of which on the hearers may be gathered from the doctor's oration, which was the magnificent sentiment, "The states of the union are as distinct as the billows of the one and inseparable sea."

CEDAR STREET SCHOOL.

The closing exercises at the Cedar street school yesterday afternoon were well attended by the parents of the pupils and friends of education in the city. A short program, consisting of songs, recitations, declamations, etc., was nicely rendered. The declamation of Austin Osburn, "No Excellence Without Labor," was worthy of especial mention. The examination work, which was displayed on tables in the upper hall, was much admired by all, and showing some excellent work, and careful training. Full report of the examinations, promotions, etc., will appear soon.
