

AMID THE RESIDENCES

sidewalks—only hard, slippery, green impressions of where they were once laid. Here are whole rows of dwellings almost floating in sewerage, and this afternoon, with the sun streaming on the scene, a perfect, blue sky overhead, the place looked like a city of the dead. In a few houses I saw women moving about, gazing on the piled up wreck of fences about their windows, and half rufocated by the vile odors arising on every hand. It gives me sick headaches to even walk quickly through this district. Think, then, of the sufferings of the residents who eat and sleep surrounded by all this contamination. Between C and Davis is a beautiful residence running the length of a whole block, with wide lawns sweeping in front of it. The fences are all in pieces round it, and in their fall have dragged down hundreds of rose bushes planted the whole way round the outer edge of the garden. One large sidepost of the front gate, nearly two feet through, lies across a large bed of pansies in the centre of the lawn, held from going farther by a strip of barbed wire that still hangs onto the fence lying outside. The house itself is a wreck, and the family long ago moved out. The lawn grass is of a dirty white color, emitting a fearful stench, and in a corner of the extensive grounds are half a dozen cherry trees loaded with fruit. Several children, most of them in gum boots, were floundering round in the soft, boggy grass, sinking to their ankles at every step, and trying to knock off the cherries with long poles. There was nobody to molest them, and they seemed to be enjoying themselves. On the opposite corner is the fine residence of Mrs. George L. Story. Its basement is torn clean away from the first floor, and the steps are thrown all out of line, and fences wrought in the garden is very great. From here along to Aukeny, for three more blocks, is the same sickening series of sights and smells. It is impossible to go at length into the details of each separate wreck, for the repetitions would become wearisome. I know that as far as I am concerned I will not again go into this district in its present condition. The chances are too many and too serious to take, without being absolutely necessary, and the fifth and garbage festering in the sun, the rotting houses and sidewalks, the ruined gardens and furniture, all make a picture and leave a remembrance that does not need any second visit in order to impress it on the memory.

Mr. Scott, looking 600 yards from his Oregonian tower, can see it all; so can his friend, the city physician, and the street cleaning department. But the only difference is that they don't see it for publication. I do.

The loss in this particular residence district will not fall a cent short of $50,000, including the repairing of sidewalks, roads and sewers.

Mr. Max Young, of Astoria, of the firm of Young & Lewis, has been up here for some days. He knows Portland very well indeed, and stated to me this morning that he would give the total damage to the city, after a careful estimate, at $1,500,000, certainly not under that figure. He is about right.

ATTENTION, FORESTERS!

An election of officers to serve for the ensuing term will take place at Foresters' Hall on Wednesday evening, June 27th, 1894. All members are requested to be present. By order N. C. JENSEN, C. R. THOS. CORBETT, F. S.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

There will be a strawberry festival in every home in Astoria now that the luscious fruit can be had at such reasonable prices. People should remember, however, that the season will soon be over. You can have them, and other fruits, all winter by preserving a few crates while they are at their best. Get some of the Pacific Can Co.'s family fruit cans and pack your own fruit. These cans are cheaper and better than glass jars. They won't break, and will last a lifetime. No solder required. Mr. C. Crosby has them at retail.

FACE LIKE A BURN

Bloody Water Oozed Out Constantly. No Peace Day or Night. Doctors Failed. Cured by Cuticura.

A child's disease, which was the worst kind of Acne, started on one cheek like a ringworm. It spread and itched, so the poor little fellow had no peace night or day. Then it started on the other cheek and chin, until all were raw as a piece of beefsteak, like a burn where you would rub off the skin, and bloody water oozed out constantly. His sufferings were terrible I know, although he was but six months old and could not tell how he suffered. I tied his hands that he would not scratch, then he would rub his poor little cheeks on his shoulders to relieve the intense itching. I had as good a doctor as was in Philadelphia, but he failed to relieve him. I read of the CUTICURA Remedies, and at once purchased them. Strange to say that very night he rested without scratching his face, and from that on he improved and soon was entirely cured. I would like anyone suffering from this terrible disease to see my boy, who is in his twelfth year now. His complexion is as clear and smooth as can be. This is an unsolicited testimonial, and every word is true. I thank God for my child's recovery, and I thank the manufacturer of CUTICURA. Mrs. E. S. GAMBLE, 852 N. Forty-second St., Philadelphia.

"We always fry ours in Cottolene." Our Meat, Fish, Oysters, Saratoga Chips, Eggs, Doughnuts, Vegetables, etc.

Like most other people, our folks formerly used lard for all such purposes. When it disagreed with any of the family (which it often did,) we said it was "too rich." We finally tried COTTOLENE and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.
