ANOTHER CRISIS PASSED.

It is with a grateful sense of relief that the American public contemplates the contrast between the turbulent state of affairs in this country a week ago and the peaceful outlook of today.

Some months ago a general strike among the coal miners was attended with infractions of the public peace in various localities.

Then came Coxey with his "common-weal" army and the country sustained another scare. The spectacle of hundreds of idle men massing themselves together for the purpose of focusing their strength upon Washington, and importuning congress for the enactment of paternalistic laws, was regarded in the light of a grave phenomenon.

Thus the American republic has passed in rapid succession from one fight to another, and its flag still waves in serenity and peace. The government stands as firmly upon its foundation as if McBride and Coxey and Debs had never been heard of.

The personal(?) letter written by Mr. Cleveland to his dear friend, the noble and battle-scarred chairman of the ways and means committee, and produced by the latter at such a timely juncture and with such dramatic effect in the house on Thursday, is not remarkable alone for its gross violation of all official etiquette and its transgression of the theory and practice of our system of government, but the vulgar tone of its politician-author is evident in both the object and language of the letter.

Why not have a yacht race here in Astoria, or if not a yacht race, a fishing boat regatta? There is no place in the world where so many trim and swift sailing vessels could be brought together in so short a time, and certain it is that no other port can boast of a finer sheet of water for a sailing cruise.

FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD. This is what many a nervous sufferer wishes himself every day. But there will soon be no necessity to forsake the busy—albeit somewhat noisy—scenes of metropolitan life, if the nervous invalid will begin, and persist in the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will speedily bring relief to a weak and over-taxed nervous system.
