THE TWO PRECIOUS METALS.

The decline in market value of silver—whether it is measured by the ounce or the pound or the ton, says Murat Halstead, is because it has been over produced.

It is desirable to use both metals. It is the policy of the Republican party and has been the habit of civilization to use both gold and silver.

Whatever may be said for or against any candidate for United States senator now before the legislature, the Astorian believes with Mr. Fulton, as that gentleman is reported in an interview published in the Evening News, of this city, a few days ago, "A refusal to abide by the caucus decree is much the same kind of politics as a man going outside to defeat the regular convention nominees of his party."

Senator Dolph may be cold and unsympathetic. He may even be guilty as his enemies say, of wearing a gray beard and having some sort of an impediment in his sight, but there is one thing to be said in his favor which ought to win for him the warm and enthusiastic support of every unbiased and independent Republican in the Oregon legislature, viz.: The significant fact that he is opposed in his senatorial contest by every Democratic and Populist newspaper in the state.

Judge Moore, of the supreme court, who has so far received most of the votes of the bolters from the late legislative caucus, is one of the most stalwart Republicans in the state. He is of Scotch-Irish descent, a self-made man, and is said to be a warm personal friend of Senator Dolph and in entire harmony with Mr. Dolph's views on the money question.

The trade of small personal abuse to which Senator Dolph has been subjected during the present campaign has had the effect of making many friends for him among those who have heretofore occupied a position of indifference and even felt some degree of prejudice toward him.

Senator Dolph, if re-elected, as there is little room to doubt he will be, can take back with him to Washington the assurance that he is a stronger man in Oregon than ever before.

HOME in the United States, Australasia, Russia, Africa, India, and the Galianes in 1890, was $190,115,000; 1891, $110,514,100; 1892, $122,820,400; 1893, $125,494,500. The total production of the world for 1893 was $166,522,000.

The New York Times opens an interesting article on the increased gold production with the remark:

"The fatal and serious are against the free silver coinage croakers who attribute to the scarcity of gold the commercial and agricultural depression from which the world is suffering."

The Times is quite right so far as it goes, but it does not seem to strike the greater matter in this connection, and that is the fact that the marked increase of the gold supply will have the tendency to depreciate gold and appreciate silver.

The reports from the southwestern part of Nebraska leave no room for doubt that a great deal of suffering exists there. Several thousands of industrious and deserving people have been reduced to poverty by the failure of their crops, and lack of employment to make a living.

Thoughts for Fishermen

On a dark, stormy night, when the tide is ebbing fast and the hardy fisherman finds it almost impossible to handle his net, has he ever stopped to think, should it become caught on a snag, what brand of twine would stand the greatest strain?

Did he ever ask his brother fishermen what sort of twine they used? If so in nine cases out of ten, if they be successful fishermen, the answer has been "MARSHALL'S TWINE."

It is the ONLY Brand of Twine to use.
