A NOTED MAN DEAD.

rederick Douglass, the Great Ex-Slave Statesman Suddenly Expires.

Washington, Feb. 20. - Frederick dropped dead at his home in Anacosta this evening.

His death was due to heart failure and was entirely unexpected as he had been in the best of health. During the afternoon he attended a convention of the women of the United States in this city, and chatted with Susan B. Anthony and others of the leading members, with whom he had been on ntimate terms for many years. When he returned home he said nothing of any feeling of illness, though he exressed himself as being a little exausted from the climb up stairs leading from the street to his house, which is on a high terrace. He sat down and chatted with his wife about the women of the convention. Suddenly he gasped, clasped his hands to his heart and fell back unconscious. Within twenty minutes of the attack the motion of the heart ceased, and the great exdave statesman was dead.

Mr. Douglass leaves two sons and a daughter, the children of his first wife. His second wife, who is a white woman, survives him. The story of his second marriage is a romantle one. Mins Helen Pitts, whom he married, was a New England woman of middle age, a a clerk in the office of recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. when Douglass was appointed to that office. She was a member of the literary society to which he belonged. They were thrown much together and finally became engaged. Her relatives opposed the union bitterly on account of his color, but finally yielded.
