EVERY MAN who enters a tailor shop in this city owes his good will that we have made it so difficult to sell unreliable goods, so easy to buy the best and buy it for so little compared to San Francisco or Portland prices.

Their boat was loaded with lumber to be used for building a cabin for Frazer. Four other persons were on the boat when she struck, but managed to get ashore. Frazer and Colwell were timber locators, and both had claims on the Nehalem. They were both single men, the former aged about forty-five, and the latter twenty-

A SPLENDID AFFAIR.

Fully Two Hundred People enjoy the Hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hanthorn Last Night.

The most delightful affair that has occurred in Astoria in many months took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hanthorn on Upper Bond street, and fully two hundred people enjoyed their hospitalities.

The new building just erected by Mr. Hanthorn north of his residence was the scene of most of the gaily, where scores of people tripped to the rhythmic time of an excellent orchestra. The long hall was aglow with myriads of colored electric lights, and their soft radiance produced a fairy-like scene as it shone on the exquisite costumes of the ladies and the beaming countenances of their gallant escorts.

The walls were decorated with ferns and evergreens so arranged that the effect was pleasing. At the north end of the hall a large table contained liquid refreshments, while in an adjoining room a sumptuous repast was served at eleven o'clock.

Mrs. Hanthorn, the charming hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. J. Finck and Mrs. H. D. Long, of Portland, received the guests. At 9 o'clock the grand march was started, led by Mr. H. G. Van Dusen and Mrs. Hanthorn, followed by fifty-eight couples. After dancing began, it was announced that those who preferred more quiet enjoyment to the light fantastic, could adjourn to the residence a short distance away, where cards, games and social chat could be indulged in. This invitation was accepted by many who filled the elegant rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Hanthorn's home.

Outside a large arch of evergreens formed an entrance to the dance place from Bond street, and a number of incandescent lights that peeped out of the green foliage made a pathway bright as day. Every precaution had been taken by the thoughtful host, that the guests should be put to no inconvenience returning home and it was arranged that street cars run until the last couple had taken their departure.

During the evening Mrs. C. W. Fulton favored the assemblage with a beautiful song entitled "Sweet Heart, Sligh No More," by Lanes.

Mrs. E. J. Finck then sang Macheron's "An Encore for the Delighted Audience with 'La Styrienne,'" from Mignon.

At a late hour the guests departed, assuring the host and hostess of the excellent time spent beneath their hospitable roof.

Invitations were issued to the following: Mr. and Mrs. S. Elmore, Mr. and Mrs. O. Heilborn, Mr. and Mrs. Foard, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Lounsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Chatter, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. J.
