

FOR THE LADIES.

Flowers are much used to trim evening gowns.

The coming season's sunshades are bewildering in floral effects.

Velvet and plush capes that are of a rain proof finish are the novelties.

In the newest imported gowns the puff in the sleeves begins below the shoulder.

Braiding still remains with us as trimming for the spring dress, cape and jacket.

Buckles remain the favorite ornaments. They are seen on all the collars of the spring gowns.

Leghorn hats trimmed with ostrich feathers and lace are to be worn this spring and summer.

There are a greater variety of mohair fabrics brought out this season than have been shown in any year.

An examination of the fashion books shows that light and bright colors are to be worn this spring and summer.

Short coats with the ripple back, are fast becoming the fashion and pushing the long coats into the shade.

Women who "make their own bonnets," as so many, never suspected, do, often produce prettier ones than milliners.

Fancy fans are very popular, and are to be had in feathers tufted with blossoms or tiny curls of contrasting ostrich tips.

To a young girl of 15 or 16, a black skirt with a light-colored silk waist represents the most desirable spring costume.

A new color is announced called "Pharos." It is a yellowish shade of red and will be much used in spring millinery.

Very large loose rosy-purple Parma violets made of shaded silk and delicately perfumed, are stylish and expensive.

The best veils to wear have light sprays and spots on a clear ground, and greatly improve the appearance of a poor complexion.

A pretty idea is to catch the very full sleeves on the outside of the arm with a rosette of velvet matching the belt and crush collar.

The new gowns, both in silk and wools are so beautiful and rich in color and so elaborate in design that they forbid much ornamentation.

Most of the waists show a distinct waist line, but the French blouse remains popular, and the surplice waist effect is being largely used.

The high Spanish comb of silver or tortoise shell, such as our great grandmothers wore in Josephine's time, are much worn.

Gold-tipped daggers are thrust here and there through the hair, and creations of shell or jewels are caught in every loop possible.

There seems to be no end to the fancy neck ornaments which the shops are displaying. The newest are creations of flowers and chiffons.

Many mosquito-like lengths in gloves are brought out for the spring and summer seasons, when sleeves puffed to the elbow will favor the style.

Skirts, in all cases, fit closely over the hips, and although they reach a width of from seven to eight yards about the hem, they contain no extra stiffening.

Almost every bodice of recent date, for evening dresses and walking gowns alike, have a pouched front, which conceals the waist line and overhangs the skirt.

Sleeves on the new models are cut as they have been all winter, large at the top, very close at the wrist, and running out on the hand in ornamental form.

In the trimming of skirts there continues to be the greatest reserve. Either there is no trimming at all, or it is so managed as not to interfere with the outline.

Most of the short jacket bodices are made with revers that widen into a deep cape-collar across the back, which in some cases is deeper yet over the sleeve-tops.

The cold and unbecoming bluet, which never had anything but novelty to recommend it, has passed the heyday of its popularity, and will soon disappear entirely.

A popular fancy which will be dainty and useful for elaborate summer frocks, is to build the elbow sleeve of two or three lace ruffles with loops and ends of ribbon between them.

To judge by the early offers of summer goods, cotton crepes, and crepons will be in great favor. Those crinkly things in any material—silk, woolen or cotton—wear wonderfully well.

Straw hats have already appeared in the stores in all sorts of fantastical shapes, large and small, high and low crowns, and mostly made up with a rim of one color and a crown of another.

Capes will take a fresh lease of favor this spring, for the reason that good-sized sleeves will continue in fashion and because they are easily put off and on. The fresh importations are varied and most attractive.

Side combs are seen wherever there is a possible excuse for them. Most of them are made of shell, sometimes plain, and again with the top capped with enameling, wrought with gold or set with jewels.

Frocks made with a plain, close-fitting back and with one wide box plait in front are also stylish. They are fastened with a short, velvet yoke. And by the way, box plaits have to be watched or they will make one look round-shouldered.

Ribbons are used in profusion in fashioning the new neck ornaments. They form plaited ruffs with long ends are arranged in rosettes, and many of them are caught in a big bow back and front. This latter arrangement, though odd, is extremely chic.

The best way to keep a very nice and delicate dress is to make a bag of muslin large enough to hold the dress as it would hang in the closet. Shrink the bag and run a basting or cord through it. Pass the string through the hangers in the belt of the dress and hang it up in the closet.

The manufacture of laundried shirt waists are showing a larger assortment of textures, colors and shapes than at any time since their introduction into the world. Some of the small checks are very clear and pretty, and cannot, especially when made in a dressy style, be easily told from a silk.

Many are the fancies in new sleeves for evening toilets this season. Some of the immense puffs are caught into the outside of the arm with one great damask rose; others yith a large ribbon rosette, and other flaring shapes are banded by neat passementerie into melodious puffs that go perpendicularly from shoulder to elbow.

Large, airy, black lace hats are a feature of the new millinery. One startling combination has a black lace rim and a crown of gold and black, from which roses in varying diameters spread out among hoops of wide dahlia satin ribbon which extend out at either side in front, and are further softened by black lace edging.

In the stores new washing silks are prominently displayed, and, though closely woven, are soft and pliable. These goods are in various attractive patterns and colors and will be used for travelling costumes for spring and summer, for house dresses, wrappers, skirts, tennis suits, tea gowns, and for children's outfits.

The newest theatre bonnets are airy structures, built upon a new plan, that of suggesting some flying creature—bird, beetle, or butterfly. The idea is carried out by putting several pairs of wings at various angles upon a flat crown. The wings are usually artificial and are made of gauze or musceline de sole, spangled with jet of the very fashionable iridescent green sprangles, and wired to keep them in shape.

Among the novelties of the season are very short boas of feathers, lace or ruffled silk, that go around the back of the neck and remain open in front where they are finished off on either side of the neck with bunches of flowers and a long streamer of gathered lace or a floating end of ribbon. Another new idea is a butterfly bow, worn directly in front against the high collar, a jeweled buckle forming the body and the larger wings framing in the chin. The bow is very becoming to some faces, for which it forms a pretty setting.

AN ODD COLLECTION.

A man in Colorado has a quaint collection of bottles. It is divided into two sections. Section one is large. Section two is not. Section one contains hundreds of bottles, the contents of which his wife swallowed hoping to find relief from her physical sufferings. Section two contains a few bottles that once were filled with Dr. Price's Favorite Prescription. It was this potent remedy that gave the suffering wife her health again. It cures all irregularities, internal inflammations, and all other ailments and kindred troubles. It has done more to relieve the sufferings of women than any other medicine known to science.

Pile tumors, rupture, and fistulae, radically cured by improved methods. Book, 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Patt is writing reminiscences, in which she says she was born in 1844; made her debut in Nibbio's December 3, 1859. Her good sense, which has long been known, is again shown in the advice which she says she always gives to girls anxious for success on the stage. She tells them: "You must be good workmen at your trade before you can be an artist in your art."

A STORM AT SEA.

Increases the discomfort of the voyager. But even when the weather is not tempestuous he is liable to seasickness. They who traverse the "gigantic wessness" should be provided with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which quiets disordered stomachs with gratifying speed and certainty. To the harmful influence of a tropic, malarious or too rigorous or damp climate, as well as to the baneful effects of unwholesome diet and bad water, it is a reliable antidote. Commercial travelers by sea or land, mariners, miners, west-

IT MAY DO AS MUCH FOR YOU.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures, but without any good results. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure all kidney and liver troubles, and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove its statement. Price, only 50 cents for large bottle, at Chas. Rogers' drug store.

A THOUGHTFUL PERSON. Consults his best interests by having a box of Krause's Headache Capsules at hand; taken as directed will prevent or stop any kind of headache, no matter what the cause—in fact if your skull were cracked it would prevent pain. The frequency of the attacks will diminish, and by taking the capsules at the approach of a headache, you will never have another. Twenty-five cents per box.

Foreign Exchange: Doctor (to fair patient)—Put out your tongue. (Meanwhile he writes out a prescription.)

There, that will do. Miss Chatterbox—But, doctor, you did not even look at my tongue. Doctor—No, I only wanted you to keep quiet while I wrote the prescription.

A GOOD WORD. Mr. J. J. Kell, Sharpsburg, Pa. Dear Sir: I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules. After suffering for over three years with acute neuralgia and its consequent insomnia (which seemed to baffle the efforts of some of our best physicians) you suggested this remedy which gave me almost instant relief. Words fail me almost to express the praise I should like to bestow on Krause's Headache Capsules.

You don't want a carpet sweeper that barks the furniture or brushes the life out of the carpet, or kicks up dust in the air, or lops its handle about your neck. You may come across that sort under one name or another. Pass on, and remember Bissell's Grand Rapids Sweeper. It comes as near to "broom work" as a machine can. No noise, no drag on you to run it, almost sucks the dust up, and dumps with a touch; the brush just skims, or digs in as you press lightly or heavily on the handle. You'll say it monopolizes the Sweeper virtues. And the price is only $2.99.
