If, through international rehabllitation of silver, that metal should rise to $1.29 per ounce, the silver extremists, the cheap dollar men, would lose all interest in silver coinage. They would shift their ground to some other dollar that was cheap and would contain an element of flatism. In other words, they are not fighting so much for silver as for a flat dollar. What they really want is to change the value of the present dollar, so as to get the

The moss-backed section of the Democratic press is seeking to apologize for the abominable record of the Fiftythird Congress. No congress in our history ever met such general censure from the press of that party to which the majority belonged. Now that the Republicans are to come into control of ogratic press is trying to excuse the shortcomings of the Democratic body by asserting that it has accomplished good as well as bad. The repeal of the federal elections law and the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman law are about the only things these papers can find to praise. The first measure was of no importance one way or the other, and the second could not have been passed but for the asalstance of the Republican minority, which, while very confident that this action would not furnish the desired relief was nevertheless patriotic enough to try the experiment and help drag the Democrats out of the hole they they had stumbled into. Altogether it is hard to understand how any credit can attach to the Democratic majority of the Fifty-third Congress.

Governor McKinley once remarked, in defending the appropriations of the Fifty-first Congress, that "this is a billion dollar country." This is true, for the appropriations do not increase faster than the wealth of the country. Cardinal Gibbons, who is undoubtedly well advised in all ecclesiastical matters, has not only declined to promulgate the decree ordering Roman Catholics to leave the Odd Fellows. It is undertaken to secure reconsideration of the lecroe, and that its reversal, on more omplete evidence, is assured.

Thoughts

On a dark, stormy night, when the tide is ebbing fast and the hardy fisherman finds it almost impossible to handle his net, has he ever stopped to think, should it become caught on a snag, what brand of twine would stand the greatest strain? Did he ever ask his brother fishermen what sort or twine they used? If so in nine cases out of ten, if they be successful fishermen, the answer has been "MARSHALL'S TWINE."

It is the ONLY Brand of Twine to use.
