"I know I could buy a cheaper suit of clothes somewhere else, but I don't know how it might wear."

EVERY MAN who enters a tailor shop in this city owes us his good will that we have made it ——so difficult to sell unreliable goods, ——so easy to buy the best and buy ——it for so little compared to San ——Francisco or Portland prices.

GOOD WHISKY. That is the test of a saloon's stock. Competition for a long time ran to big mirrors. Folly! If that were all, the saloon business might quickly capitulate to the sense of sight, and not to taste. Our move The Office move, has been toward quality. That is the reason we obtained the agency for HOPE WHISKY, and the more cultivated and critical your taste is the better chance our whisky will have.

For years the Astoria Wood Yard has given our citizens only the very best of wood and coal. They are still doing it. In fact, they are taking the lead. Why? Because they know what the public wants, and the public knows them.

Foard & Stokes Co. have secured the agency of the famous STEWART'S TWINES, the only GENUINE FLAX TWINE manufactured in IRELAND. Their new stock goods are much superior to any other kind.

When a man buys a lottery ticket and draws nothing but his breath he feels sold. When he buys his wood and coal of the Scow Bay Wood Yard, whose office is opposite Fisher Bros.' he is pleased, as they sell only the best.

Mr. Humphrey has some choice Chinook salmon at his market near Rescue Hall. He also has oysters that sell at a less price than at any other market in the city. He carries clams and other shell fish, and as a side issue, has a stock of Marshall's famous knitting twine.

It may be that you are dissatisfied with your grocer. If so, why not give Foard & Stokes a trial? They satisfy others, and feel pretty sure that they will suit you. Many a dollar is literally thrown away by those who buy groceries of an inferior quality. It's penny wise and pound foolish to give good money for goods that are almost worthless.

The people of Astoria should extend to the people of Aberdeen, Washington their heartfelt sympathy. Like Astoria Aberdeen is awaiting the completion of a railroad. At present her chances for success are very bright—so are Astoria's, but the anxiety of waiting has caused a decidedly depressed feeling in the community over the way.

The Astorian's Fort Stevens correspondent writes that the masquerade ball given last Saturday night at that place, was an excellent affair and 56 masquers and 150 spectators were in attendance. The costumes of the masquers were very good, some of them being extremely comical. Mr Wicklund was master of ceremonies and it is a great deal due to his effort that the affair proved so successful.

The New England Fish Company, with headquarters in Boston, that have been fishing for halibut in British Columbia waters all winter, have closed the season's operations. The total catch for the season amounted to 900,000 pounds, and the price realized was about 7 cents per fish. Twenty-three cars were shipped east and two to Portland. Owing to the long haul the company may not resume operations next year, although satisfied that the banks are as prolific as those on the eastern coast. These fish are cured at the east, and many re-shipped to this coast and sold as Eastern halibut.

A Washington dispatch says: "Assistant Secretaries Hamlin and Wike today granted a hearing to the application of the Kodiak Navigation Co., of Portland Or., for remission of the fines and penalties imposed on the steamer Haytian Republic for violation of the law. This vessel plied between Victoria and Port Townsend, and had been frequently charged with importing opium and Chinese into the United States. Six months ago she was seized, libelled and sold at public auction and the money turned in to the treasury. The action today is for the purpose of saving to former owners part of the money for which the vessel was sold."

Observer Grover states that the Cape Disappointment observer did not report the Cupica outside on February 25th, as has been stated, not only in the newspapers, but on the streets. On that date it was wired over that a vessel was outside but it was impossible to give the name or exact rig, but supposed to be a loaded bark. From that, the report was wired to Portland, and thence to England and other faraway points of the globe. The observer at the cape is a very careful man, but to make doubly sure Mr. Grover questioned him regarding the vessel. From the simple statement that an unknown bark was outside on that date, sprung the story of the Cupica having arrived.

Last night about 11 o'clock as Sam Henderson was preparing to close up his Last Chance saloon in Uniontown his attention was attracted by someone moaning as if in great distress. The sound seemed to come from underneath a little elevated roadway back of his place, and upon investigation a man was found in an insensible condition, lying on the rocks, where he had fallen from the roadway, fully 15 feet. Help was summoned and the injured man carried into the bath house back of the saloon. When the man was carried into the light he was found to be Albert Marsh, a fisherman, and had probably fallen over the railing while in an intoxicated condition. Dr. Estes was sent for and upon examination found that a great gash had been cut over the left eye fracturing the skull, and otherwise bruising his head. Dr Estes pronounces the man's injuries of a serious nature, though with proper care he may pull through all right.

A customs official is authority for the following information as to what constitutes the "free zone," and will be of interest to parties here and elsewhere shipping goods into Mexico. It consists of a strip of land 20 kilometers wide, extending along the northern boundary line of Mexico, from the Pacific ocean to the Gulf of Mexico. The strip is in extent 12 1-2 miles and probably includes all the cities and towns in Mexico situated on the border line, the principal ones of which are: Nogales, Paso del Norte, (now called Juarez), Piedras, Negras, Matamoras, Nuevo Laredo and Tia Juana, (Lower California.) Ignacio Dangiada, the custom house broker, who is probably as well posted on the Mexican tariff laws as any person on the coast, says that merchandise exported hence has never been absolutely free of duty in what is termed the free zone, but is, and has been, subject to duty at the rate of ten per cent ad valorem, a rate much less than the regular Mexican duties.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Resolutions of Respect to the Memory of the Late I. W. Case.

The Chamber of Commerce held its regular meeting last evening.

The committee appointed by President Wingate at the last meeting to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of the late I. W. Case, submitted the following:

Whereas, in the providence of God, I. W. Case, late treasurer, and for many years an active, influential and useful member of this chamber, has been suddenly removed by the hand of death from the scenes of his earthly life and labors; and

Whereas, We, his surviving associate members of this commercial organization, are desirous of placing on its records our high estimation of his character as a man and fellow citizen, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of I. W. Case this chamber suffers the loss of one of its most respected and faithful members, and this community has been deprived of an honored citizens, who, by his example, energy, intelligence, and liberality, eminently aided in the development of every laudable public and private enterprise calculated to advance the growth, prosperity and interests of the city of Astoria and the county of Clatsop.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered and form a memorial page on the records of this chamber.

E. C. HOLDEN,
JAS. W. WELCH,
C. S. WRIGHT,
Committee.

On motion the report of the committee was unanimously adopted.

Mr. F. P. Kendall informed the chamber that it had come to his knowledge that Capt. Thomas Owens of Liverpool, England, owner of several vessels mostly engaged as lumber carriers, was seeking information regarding the facilities for procuring cargoes of lumber of the various dimensions required for his markets, at the mouth of the Columbia river.

The secretary and Mr. Kendall were instructed to open correspondence with Capt. Owens to ascertain particulars and offering the aid of the chamber in procuring and furnishing Capt. Owens all the information on the subject he desires.

A communication was read from Alejandro K. Coney, consul general of Mexico in San Francisco, Cal., calling the attention of the chamber to the fact that an Exposition of Industries and Fine Arts, with a special department of Foreign Exhibits, authorized by the federal government of Mexico, will be inaugurated in the City of Mexico, on the second day of April, 1896, the same being the first foreign exposition ever held in Mexico.

The consul general says: "Accompanying herewith, is the prospectus which in detail furnishes full information regarding the enterprise. The main objects of the exposition are on the part of our sister republic to cement closer relations with the nations of the world, and to advance the trade and prosperity of Mexico in common with more favored countries, and I feel, assured that it is the vital interest of every American to take a prominent part in developing the industries of our sister country.

In behalf of these interests, I invite your cordial co-operation, promising you in advance any aid or assistance that will tend to furthering the interests of both Mexico and the United States."

The communication was ordered filed and the secretary instructed to apply for an additional supply of the accompanying prospectus, and furnish a copy to our Astoria salmon cannerymen for their consideration. A communication was read from the New York Board of Trade and Transportation asking the endorsement of the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That our government loans in the future should be offered to the people in suitable amounts for the investment of their savings at 3 per cent or less in gold, and that congress be urged to enact such laws as will carry this proposition into effect.

On motion the resolution was unanimously endorsed and the secretary instructed to so inform the New York Board of Trade and Transportation.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Every now and then one hears of unaccountable happenings at sea, as was the case, for instance, with the Columbine a few weeks ago, when, in coming out from this port, a monster wave suddenly sprung up from a comparatively smooth sea, and tumbling down over her bow, smashed things generally before Captin Richardson and his fellow shipmates knew what had happened. A similar mishap occurred to the Umbria in the afternoon recently while she was in mid-Atlantic, as big sea breaking over her bow which was variously described by the ship's officers as a tidal wave, a cumulative wave, and just a monster wave. Of course it wasn't a tidal wave. It may have been a cumulative wave, that, is, several waves rolled into one, but it is more than likely that it was just a big wave—maybe 25 feet from crest to trough. The Umbria was making 18 knots, which is a pretty good speed going athwart high seas. She was hit by the crest of a tall comber just as it curved, and before she could from her plunge down the incline of the preceeding sea. The force of the impact of the wall of water as it smashed over the starboard bow made the ship tremble. Captain Dutton's room, directly in line with the seas, was smashed in. The captain was dozing on the sofa. He awoke to find himself breast high in water. He saved himself by clinging to an upright, from being swept away with everything else in his room, including all his clothing except the scanty apparel he had on. His first thought was for the safety of the ship, and he ran out on deck in his underclothing—it was 4 o'clock in the afternoon—and got up on the bridge taking charge of the ship.

"SWOPESYSWIPESY."

(From Longfellow's "Hiawatha.")

Far beyond the western prairies
Past the land of the Dakotas
In the fastness of the forests
Close beside the rush of waters
Close beside the peaceful ocean
Where the mighty river ends—
Mighty river, rush of waters,
Ever flowing past the lodges
Of Cathlamet and Chenamus,
And the tribes of Old Concomly,
And the Clatsops and Chinooks,
Ever flowing, ever restless,
On its shifting, sandy bottom,
Ever shifting, ever changing,
Past the lodges I have mentioned
Till it mingles with the sea;
This the home of Swopesyswipesy—
This is where he has his wigwam,
He it is of whom I sing:

And the little Swopesyswipesy
Learned of every paint its color—
Learned its name and combinations—
How to mix it on his palette;
How to mix it up in buckets;
How to put it on with brushes—
Put it on and make it stay there—
Make it stick and stay there tightly,
So the sun's rays would not blister,
And the fogs and damp of winter
Would not fade or change the color.

With his brushes made of bristles
From the wild boar of the forests,
And the hair of bear and sable,
And the long hair of the camel—
These he handles quick and deftly;
Fashions with them many letters,
Various in style and color,
That adorn the signs of commerce,
Advertising firms and business
On the wigwams of the paleface.

Thus I sing of Swopesyswipesy;
He the painter-decorator;
He the man that hangs the paper
So it stays where it is hung—
So it stays upon the ceiling—
So it stays upon the side-wall—
Till the plaster it is hung on
Rots and crumbles underneath it.

Hangs it in a manner tasty—
Pleasing to the eye that sees it—
Fitting to the purse that pays him
For the outcome of his labor;
He it is who wrote this jingle
Just to catch your eye and hold it
Till it gives you the impression
Why and wherefore he did write it.
