BRITISH CHICANERY.

The Rosebery ministry promises to make a record for chicanery quite as notable as that of some of its predecessors, so far as the relations with this country are concerned. The disposition it is manifesting with regard to the seal fisheries is neither honest nor friendly. It is a matter of general knowledge that our government has been most earnestly endeavoring to effect some arrangement with the British government for the better protection of the seal herds, which, under existing conditions, are threatened with extermination, but the latter has shown no desire or willingness to do anything suggested by this government. The United States proposed a commission, to be composed of representatives of Great Britain, Russia, Japan and the United States, to visit the North Pacific and report what measures might be adopted to protect the seals. All pending in British sea to be suspended pending the report of the commission. This was made to the British ambassador at Washington by Secretary Gresham, but the parliamentary secretary of the British foreign office stated in the house of commons on Tuesday that the government had not received any proposition of the kind from the United States. Either the ambassador has not done his duty by failing to communicate the proposition to his government, or the secretary of the British foreign office has, in diplomatic language, resorted to a technical evasion of the point—to put it in plain language, prevaricated—for the correspondence having been published there can be no question that the proposition was made.

Of course our government has received no response from Great Britain, and in view of what was said in the house of commons it will be necessary for the secretary of state to renew the proposition if it is deemed worth while to do it now, when the sealing season is almost at hand. It is hardly possible that anything can be done for extending the scope of the present regulations this year, and therefore it is apprehended that there will be a repetition of last year's great slaughter of seals, with the probability that the number killed this year will be larger than last. It is not easy to understand the attitude of the British government in this matter, since there are extensive British interests concerned in the preservation of the seal fisheries, but there would seem to be no reason for expecting anything from that government either now or in the future for the better protection of the seals against pelagic hunters.

Such being the case the question as to what course our government shall pursue becomes urgent. Probably it ought to renew the proposition for a commission, and if this is rejected or not accepted within a reasonable time it may be found expedient to consider the suggestion made in the last congress that the government kill all the seals within the waters of its jurisdiction and dispose of the skins at auction. This would be applying an heroic remedy for the perplexing difficulty, but it would be effective, and it is believed the government would give better results than to allow the situation to remain as at present, since, according to expert opinion, the extermination of the seals within two or three years is inevitable unless better protection is provided.

The rising speaker of the house of commons over in England has no further opportunity to include his political ambitions. He is politely recommended by the house over which he has presided to royal favor, and usually secures a berth in the house of lords to solace his remaining years. But the excitement of participation in a presidential canvass is a delight he is not permitted to enjoy.

Western railroads are just now engaged in a cut rate war over on west-bound passenger traffic. These little difficulties come and go, while the scalpers and the traveling public receive the consequent benefit. There is a peculiarity about railroad rate wars that is interesting. While each road knows to a moral certainty that its competitor is secretly cutting rates, no protest is made, yet an open promulgation of such cut rates throws the managers into feverish excitement. It begins to look as if the railroad men have adopted this clever means of moving the people to tour the country.

THE LAST PEOPLE ON EARTH

To reasonably expect relief are those who are continually dosing themselves with calomel, blue pill, podophyllin and other drastic cathartics. Constipation cannot be permanently overcome by such violent disturbers of the bowels, stomach and liver. They inflict more harm than they temporarily relieve. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a safe and effectual substitute for such hurtful drugs. The effect of this medicine is easy and natural, and is not accompanied—as in the case of strong purgatives—with griping and abrupt operation. Malaria, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, heartburn, and nervousness are entirely and promptly removed by this excellent remedy, commended by physicians everywhere.

Yonkers Statesman: Cora—What are you going to do on your birthday. Clara—Going to take off another year. Life: Uncle Hiram—If yer want ter have good dogs yer must edjucts 'em to it. I took as much trouble ter rear a dog thar, as I did with me son Ike! "But that dog is no good." Uncle Hiram—Nother is Ise.

"If all the gold in mint or bank, All earthly things that men call wealth, Were mine, with every titled rank, I'd give them all for precious health." Thus in anguish wrote a lady teacher to a near friend, telling of pithless medicine, of smearing pain, of pain in back and limbs, of depression, weakness and nervous, feverish unrest. Her friend knew both cause and cure, and dashed back the answer, "Take Dr. King's Favorite Prescription." The distressed teacher obeyed, was restored to perfect health, and her joyful letter became a daily plea for the daily leasener, and she writes to report long standing, or breaking down, of exhausting work, the "Prescription" is a most potent restorative tonic, and a certain cure for all female ailments. Indianapolis Journal: "I wonder why it is that eggs are always accompanied by them?" asked the curious boarder. "Preferential relations," explained the choicest idiot. "How is that?" "They belong to the same order."

Thin Children.

The reason why they are thin is because their food does not nourish them. Probably they do not assimilate enough fat. Cod-liver Oil is the most easily assimilated of all fats, but in its natural state it upsets the stomach and deranges the digestion. In Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites this difficulty is overcome. It is half-digested already and is very palatable. Children grow fat on it when all other food fails to nourish them.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute! Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c and $1.

is a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. Chas. Rogers.

IT MAY DO AS MUCH FOR YOU.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures, but without any good results. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure all kidney and liver troubles, and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price, only 50 cents for large bottle, at Chas. Rogers' drug store.
