"COIN'S LECTURES.

Nearly every prominent newspaper in the country has taken its turn at demolishing the arguments and exposing the untruths contained in the book in favor of free silver, called "Coin's Fnancial School." It has remained, however, for the Chicago Times-Herald to put the climax of discredit and utter unreliability upon this miserable fraud and imposition, which it does in the following manner: Thousands of people in every part of the country honestly believe that the socalled lectures of "Coin" actually took place at the Art Institute in Chicago, beginning May 7, 1894 (see page 4 of Coin's Financial School) and that certain wellknown public men attended these lect-ures, asked questions, made objections little one is sick, and peace is disturbed and were completely answered. Now, we wish to state definitely that no such lectures ever took place in Chicago, or in any other place. It is one of the games of the author intended to deceive trusting people. Honest people who have supposed "Coin" was to be trusted, have a right to feel indignant at finding out they have been tricked. Since it is an absolute lie to say that the lectures ever took place, anyone can judge how much credence is to be given to other parts of the book. The following letter shows how far and wide the error has gone: Captolo, Ga., April 23, 1895. Mr. H. H. Rohlsaat. Dear Sir:—I have lying on my deak before me a copy of Coin's Financial School, the contents of which are claimed to be lectures given in Chicago On page 5 it publishes some questions claimed to have been asked by you. The ciaimed to have been asked by you. The people here are arguing as to whether such was really true or not. If you did attend these lectures, and there really were, as is claimed by the book, such lectures given in which the people were interested, will you do me the kindness of so stating? Yours very truly,

C. A. WOODS.

For the benefit of Mr. Woods, or of any other inquirers, it may be said for Mr. Kohlsaat that he never attended such lectures, for the very good reason that no such lectures were ever given. The whole idea of the book is an absolute

The author of "Coin" not only took an unwarranted liberty in using the names of well known men like Mr. L. J. Gage, Mr. J. W. Scott, Professor Laughlin, and others, who are falsely represented as asking questions they never uttered, but he trespassed beyond the bounds of decency. Without any regard for courtesy, or for the proper feelings of honorable men, he unfeelingly poked fun (pages 5 and 11, at a supposed son of Mr. J. W. Scott. That Mr. Scott never had any son was no protection from the rude horse play of this writer. Is it any wonder that caught in such falsehoods and duplicity, "Coin's" book is being distrusted? A writer who is consciously deceiving in these important respects cannot be trusted in other statements.

PRETTY SALMON LABELS.

The false label agitation, thanks to the efforts of some of the big trade papers, in the East, and we hope, to some small extent to our own constant endeavors in this direction, is gaining ground rapidly and from every quarter comes, in unmisdetestable method of swindling the public. There is one side of this question which has not yet been touched on to the extent its importance warrants, indeed in our idea no phase of this bogus brand trouble presents so much cause for exposure. We refer to the acts of those commission men whose rescality is commission men whose rascality is smarter than that of the general run of the evil doers in the trade, and whose superior smartness leads them to adop neater methods than ordinarily obtain. These "big fry" know that in several centers the taste for handsome and attractive coverings for canned salmon is growing considerably, and by spending a little money on papers, varnish, and choice lithography, they manage to make very presentable labels with which to enclose pink Alaska salmon and refuse picked up generally under the name of

Columbia river spring fish. -It is unfortunately true that a large number of people are credulous enough to be taken in by beautiful wrappers. and as some individuals in the commission business have lately sneeringly remarked, "the old red and black labels are going out of fashion." This may or may not be so, but we know this, that many and many a canneryman on this river has built up his reputation on the strength of those "ugly old red and black labels," which have for the most part stood for good, honest fish, and no humbug. And although there are today many some wrappers in the market that enciose contents just as honestly packed, will it is the quality of the fish itself and the wrapper that should be the test when the judgment of the whote- Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder male grocer comes to decide what goods he wants. He most certainly does not desire a beautiful array of pretty pictures in his warehouse if every sale he makes of them to a retailer loses him a

And we again reiterate the statement that there is only one method for the private consumer, the retailer and the wholesaler to adopt: Never buy a can of calmon that does not bear on its face Served by carrier, per week .... 15 cts the name of a packer whose reputation for honest dealing is known; never at-Address all communications to The tempt to buy a pretty label with the idea that the salmon must necessarily be as good as the picture. Look at the name. That is your only security against these parasites of the commercial world, and that is the only method by which you can avoid being swindled.

THE GHOST OF A CHANCE.

Is a very shadowy affair. Ere the chance The Weekly Astorian, the second oldest weekly in the state of Oregon, has nates too frequently in fatal disease, by resorting to Hostetter's Stomach Bit-ters, which gives just the requisite impulse to the renal organs to promote their vigorous action without exciting them, an effect too often produced by the flery and unmedicated stimulants of commerce. Bright's disease, diabetes and inactivity of the bladder, are foes of terrible menace to the system. The inroads may, however, be stayed if they are met at the start and combatted with the bitters. This fine and genial corrective also remediate which the start and combatted with the bitters. dies malaria, dyspepsia, rheumatism, de-bility, nervousness, and the infirmities incident to age. It hastens convalescence and is promotive of sleep and appetite.
