ALONG THE WATER FRONT.

The Ancona will leave out this morning if the weather is favorable.

The Electric took the Walkley funeral cortege to Greenwood yesterday

The steamer Bandorille, from Southern ports, is expected to arrive this morning There were no shipments of salmon yesterday by any of the transportation

The steamer Oregon is due from San Francisco today. She left a day late on account of delay at the drydock.

Last night the Bailey Gatzert took J Brookfield from the Astoria Iron Works,

The Emma Hayward took the Mozambique in tow at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and started with her up the river

The schooner Kate and Ann leaves out tomorrow. Her crew were busy all day yesterday taking provisions aboard for her sea otter cruise

The ship Colony came down the river on Sunday in tow of the Hayward, and yesterday afternoon left the Sand Island chorage outward bound

A fine 150-pound sturgeon brought in on Sunday night from outside was taken up to Normile's camp yesterday. The boys are evidently living high. Machinists are now busy setting up the soldering and washing machines in the new addition to Kinney's cannery. The carpenter work is finished, and canning operations will be in full blast at the end

The steamer Harrison will make another attempt to get out for Tillamook this morning if the weather abates. Her crew were filling up the time yesterday scraping the masts and cleaning various parts of the bull.

Thiery thousand tons of shipping is or the way to Astoria from New York, Phil-adelphia, Acapulco, Calcutta, Dunkirk, Liverpool, Newcastle, N. S. W., and San ta Rosalia. This is just 8,000 tons more than was headed this way at this time

Some of the upper cannelies have discarded the use of teams and now haul their crates of cans from the can factory stacked up in fishboats, and drawn by naphtha or gasoline launches. People are economizing nowadays, con-siderably.

After her arrival from Portland yes-terday the Balley Gatzert took a load of brick down to Trullinger's wharf, for the oil factory combination. This cargo is the last that will go down, and about concludes the shipments of material which have been going on for the last few weeks.

The run of fish yesterday morning was large and all the boats came in with good hauls, the everage being about ten to the boat. All the salmon delivered were very big for this season of the year, easily averaging 25 pounds, with several tipping the scales at 40 pounds and over. A rough estimate indicates that fully 3,800 cases have been packed on the lower river in the past 24 hours.

The windstorm yesterday was very s vere, more particularly at the mouth of the river. At 9 a. m. the wind was due south and blowing at a speed of 25 miles. south and blowing at a speed of a billion at noon it veered around slightly to the castward, increasing in velocity to 35 miles, and by sundown was blowing directly from the southeast at 48 miles. It continued to storm steadily till midnight, but the glass rose shortly afterwards consistion of the blow wards, predicting a cessation of the blow by early morning.

The steamer Alice Blanchard came in yesterday morning from San Francisco and way ports and tied up at Finlayson's dock. She brought 100 tons of Coos Bay coal, and a large amount of miscellaneous freight for this city, with nothing for Portland. Her passenger list is very large, numbering 47 people, several of whom have come here to locate. The Blanchard proceeded up the river at 4 o'clock. She will leave here for San Francisco on Thursday morning. Francisco on Thursday morning.

The latest issue of the Alaska News says "Captain McCormick, with the Yokon, towed the wrecked steamer Lucy to Treadwell's last Sunday and on Monday the latter was beached. They used oll tanks to buoy up the hull, and by yanking with chains about the boiler, the hull was towed from the reef to the beach, where the repairs were made so that it would float. The house has been demolished and besides numerous holes in the hull, the keel has been knocked off in places to the garboard streak. The steamer will be repaired by the A. T. G. M. Company." M. Company."

Since the Potter and Gatzert have been calling in at the up-river canneries before reaching their city docks, it has become calling in at the up-river cancelling their city docks, it has become customary for several local young bloods to board the steamers at these places and enjoy a run of a mile or so down the river. The uninitiated crowd on the wharf, having probably seen these short distance travellers haif an hour before on the streets, set their wits working to find out how they could possibly be coming down from Portland. Meanwhile the causes of the speculation invariably put on a most serious air and strut up and down the deck waiting for the landing to be made, with the full belief that everybody imagines they have just arrived from New York or the Continons. And they believe it themselves, 100. they believe it themselves, 100.

It is said that the largest derrick in the world is that used in the granite quay of Messrs. C. E. Taylor & Co., at Barre, Vermont. The mast, which is 35 feet in height, is held by 10 guys, each running out about 200 feet to heaving anchorages. The boom can swing around a circle of 124 feet in diameter, and like the must, 124 feet in diameter, and like the must, is built of Phoenix columns. The loads are holated by means of a steel wire rope, 1 1-2 inches in diameter. Over a mile of steel rope was used in rigging the derrick, and its weight, exclusive of the rope, is about 50,000 pounds. It is operated by means of a hoisting engine, and so well are all parts designed that a pull of 300 pounds at the end of the boom will revolve the whole appliance when the boom is horizontal and loaded with 37 1-2 tons. The derrick has been tested with a load of 57 1-2 tons, although designed to a load of 57 1-2 tons, although designed to carry only 40 tons, and if the ropes were beavy enough the remainder of the apparatus has sufficient strength to carry loads of 80 tons. It replaces a derrick which had a mast and booms of very large sticks of pine, but the largest which could be procured were unable to raise with safety the heavy loads that had to be handled occasionally in the quarry.

The Masters' and Pilots' Association, of this city, are contemplating the for-warding of a petition to Captain Faren-holt, asking him for seven spar buoys to be laid across the blind channel over the river, and for two at the turn on the middle channel where it crosses above the sands opposite Hanthorn's cannery. They will also ask for buoys sufficient to lay down at the mouth of Deep River, opposite Frankfort, so that steamers trading in that vicinity can have a crossing that they will be able to fetch all times. The buoys asked for in the blind channel are very necessary, and would be of incalculable benefit to the many small steamers now using that channel, for carrying fish and other lines of trade. The expense to the government will be nil. If the department will fur-nish the buoys and anchors the captains of steamers and the Masters' and Pilots' Association will see that they are promptly placed in position, and will cheerfully give their own labor to the work. It is to be hoped that as soon as the Association makes the request Cap-tain Farenholt will consider and act fa-

The lighterage board in Portland has acted favorably on the requisition of the Masters' and Pilots' Association of this city relative to range lights for the mouth of the river, and has forwarded the recommendation to the department. The local masters and pilots are greatly interested in this matter and are are to be placed near the river mouth in such a manner that a vessel need not be debarred by nightfall from coming right into the river and up to her anchorage, and the present necessity of stopping outside all night with the promability of being compelled to stand away again, for perhaps 48 hours, will be altogether done away with. To say that this reform should be effected immediately is superfluous. It is a diagrace to the authorities that the matter has not been acted on years are authorities that the matter has not been acted on years ago. Astoria should not only insist on the placing of these range lights, but should also demand the focation of stake buoys, bell buoys and whistles in plenty at the entrance of the river at all times. The shipping men and Chamber of Commerce of this port should make it their business to see that Astoria shall no longer remain twenty years behind the age in a month.

For steam purposes we have several grades of fuel o substitute, but Australian will always retain a foothold here when it serves to hold down the market price, as it is doing now. British Columbia products would always rate ten per cent higher if Australian were not a competitor. Cabled freight quotations received this week from Sydney and Newcastle show a de cline of fully one shilling per ton; this predicates a declining market for the ment at least.
