HILLS' COAST VISIT

Straws Which Show the Direction of the Wind.

PREPONDERANCE OF EVIDENCE Indicates That He Will Have a Hand in Northern Pacific and O. R. & N., Despite Denials.

That Mr. Hill, president of the Great Northern, is contemplating some great move on the Pacific Coast is well evidenced by his recent visits in Portland and Seattle. The following extracts from interviews with him reported in the Portland papers, with the dispatch from Seattle published in these columns yesterday, are straws which show the direction of the wind:

"Mr. Hill believes in steamships. He has made the Great Northern a power by the aid of ships he has built to ply the waters of the coast between Portland and Seattle. The following extracts from interviews with him reported in the Portland papers, with the dispatch from Seattle published in these columns yesterday, are straws which show the direction of the wind:

"When vessels can't pay their operating expenses on the Atlantic, they are sent to the Pacific," he said. "All the old vessels are sent out here. This is not right. When I put my line on, if I ever do, I will have ships built especially for the trade that any part of the world would be proud of."

"During the past 20 years I have heard rumors concerning my financial condition that were, notwithstanding the complimentary to me," replied Mr. Hill, slowly. "But the Great Northern has no floating debt, and has paid dividends during the hardest times ever known by the railroad world. The Great Northern is in good condition financially, and there is no danger of a receivership."

"I don't know, the silver mine owners will suffer as much as anyone else," exclaimed Mr. Hill. "If they get a free coinage? All the gold in the country would be driven out of the market, and if there is ever danger of a free-coinage bill being passed by congress, there will be a financial panic."

"The Northern Pacific will be reorganized," replied the president, slowly. "It will be reorganized and placed on a sound basis. This is about all I know about it. If you have any more questions about the road after its reorganization, I don't want to talk about that; I will have nothing to say, further than the Northern Pacific will be reorganized and placed on a sound financial basis, replied Mr. Hill, not evasively, but pointedly."

"When the Northern Pacific is reorganized," he continued, "it will be a great help to all the states between Oregon and Minnesota, along the line of the road. Foreign capital can't help looking with suspicion upon investments in a country through which a bankrupt railroad passes. Put the road on a sound financial basis and there will be renewed confidence in securities all along the line. The Northern Pacific is a splendid piece of property, and if properly managed will do wonders for this part of the country."

Another Portland paper says that the most plausible rumor as to the object of Mr. Hill's visit to Portland is that it was for the sole purpose of getting connection by traffic agreement or by the construction of an independent line with some port nearer the sea than Seattle. At present the Northern Pacific has control of many of the seaports of Oregon and Washington. It has Tacoma, on Puget Sound; Coos Bay, on Gray's Harbor, and South Bend, on Shoalwater Bay. Through Bonner and Hammond, who are said to be its agents, it has gained control of the Oregon-Pacific railroad, and Taguina and Newport, the ports of Yaquina bay, and is now by the construction of a railroad from Goble to Astoria, about to get control of Astoria.

A PANIC IN JEDDAH

Turkish Sanitary Measures Not Liked by Pilgrims.

THURSTON ON FREE SILVER

He Supports the Party Declaration - Portland Club Races - Buck Struck the Blows.

Constantinople, June 5.-Advices from Arabia, the seaport of Mecca, and the scene of the recent murderous assault on the consular officers of Great Britain, Russia, and France, announce that a panic prevails there. It is feared that the Bedouins will attack the town. The quarantine measures which the Turkish government has been compelled to take at Mecca at the instance of the powers, in order to prevent the introduction of cholera into Northern ports by the return of infected pilgrims from Mecca. In fact, it is believed that the sanitary measures were the local cause of the attack upon the consuls. The measures referred to were recently taken under severe pressure of the powers and at the instance of the Turkish international council of health for the purpose of cleansing the holy places frequented annually by so many thousands of pilgrims. These sanitary improvements began in April last at Jeddah and at other towns of the pilgrim district of Arabia, and they include the building of hospitals, the frequent disinfection of places resorted to by pilgrims, etc. To this new order of things the latter have strongly objected, looking upon it as an unwarranted interference on the part of Europeans in their religious customs, and it is feared that the so-called holy men are exciting the pilgrims against the Europeans, believing that their old-time privileges and profits will be swept away if the march of sanitation is not stopped.

SENATOR THURSTON SPEAKS. Salt Lake, June 5.-Senator J. M. Thurston in an interview today on the silver question, said: "At the time I opposed Bryan for the United States senate I took the position that the United States could not take care of all the silver in the world, but should take care of the American product under such conditions as would make the silver dollar as good as a gold dollar anywhere. I believe the Republican party will make a declaration of policy for the United States in the national platform of 1896. It binds the party to take care of the American product and I believe the obligation will be recognized. The large wing of the Democratic party which favors the Populists will declare for the free and unlimited coinage. I feel now that there will be two Democratic conventions. When the convention is held I believe the free silver wing of the party will be in absolute control, though it may not be able to nominate an account of the two-thirds rule."

THE LOUISVILLE PLATFORM. Louisville, June 5.-The Republican State Convention convened today. The usual committee were appointed. The one on resolutions including all the Republican congressmen-elect from Kentucky. Congressman Evans offered a strong resolution for the gold standard. It was referred to the committee on resolutions. An invitation to appoint delegates to the free coinage convention at Memphis was tabled.

At 5 p. m. the platform was reported, and unanimously adopted. Col. W. O. Bradley was then nominated for governor by acclamation. The platform says: "We are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, believing it will involve the country in financial ruin. We believe in sound currency and in the use of both gold and silver for coinage, providing always that the dollar in one is made precisely as valuable as the dollar in the other. We favor a tariff so regulated as to protect the interests of all classes of citizens upon articles that may be successfully manufactured or produced in this country."

EXCITEMENT IN LONDON. London, June 5.-There is much excitement in London about the foreign office on the receipt of an official dispatch confirming the dispatches from Constantinople announcing that the Turks had refused to agree to the reforms in Armenia, which were demanded by representatives of Great Britain, France and Russia. The powers, it is asserted here, will now address a stronger note to the Porte, and in addition will back up this by a naval demonstration. The crisis in the East is already regarded as being grave, and this feeling is intensified by the news from Constantinople today telling of the panic at Jeddah, the threatened attack of the Bedouins, and the flight of Europeans, who are seeking safety aboard the vessels in the harbor. It is freely predicted here that an outbreak is inevitable. There is no question of the powers abating their demands in any form, although there is a growing belief that Russia is backing Turkey in the latter's refusal to agree to the reforms demanded by the powers for Armenia.

THE NICARAGUAN CANAL. A writer in the Chicago Times-Herald, in forecasting the work of the next congress, says of the Nicaraguan canal: Hereafter there has been some maneuvering and pranking for one purpose or another. Serious differences over details existed between the two houses of congress, and these sufficed to insure that nothing is to be done that has not been accomplished. But everybody seems to mean business now. There is a general conviction that the big ditch will be dug and everybody is cheering on the enterprise. Every fellow is reaching out for a spade, but the enterprise is so very important and means so much to the whole world that great care will be necessary in the drafting of the required legislation. Men of diplomatic, as well as men of business experience, will be looked to for suggestions.

BUCK STRUCK THE BLOWS.

San Francisco, June 5.-The Evening Post states that the entire executive force of this city is convinced that ex-Senator Buck struck the blows which killed Nellie Harrington in her flat last Saturday. Buck died yesterday from the effects sustained by being thrown from a cart while being driven to the police station. The chief of the local detectives, says: "I don't want to believe about this because I hate to fight dead men." The conclusions of the police are said to be based on the contents of 150 private letters found in Miss Harrington's room which are said to indicate that a murdered woman and Buck had even greater intimacy than appeared on the surface.

SPANISH ARE SUSPICIOUS. Havana, June 5.-The authorities have information of an expedition from Dauphin Island and other places in the bay of the Mississippi river, which is being fitted out with a considerable armed force by the rebels here. The Spanish legation at Washington has been notified and informed of all the movements of the expedition and the names of the ships in said bay. The authorities have their eyes upon some suspicious movements about Mobile, Ala.

PASTOR GIBSON TO LECTURE. San Francisco, June 5.-The Rev. Geo. Gibson, pastor of Emanuel church, announced that he is going to deliver lectures on the murders committed in the church. The title will be "The Crime of a Century," and his object is to raise funds to pay the church debt. Gibson is once more using the study in the Emanuel church where Minnie Williams was murdered.

REMOVED FROM OFFICE. Washington, June 5.-The President today removed from office C. B. Morton, Democrat, of Maine, auditor in the treasury for the navy department. The cause of the removal is said to be the discovery of a highly improper character which Morton went to parties in his native state reflecting upon the president and Secretary Carlisle.

SMALL FARMS. One of the causes of failure in agricultural pursuits is the haste to get rich. This is what leads many to seek larger farms than they can successfully cultivate. It is a fatal mistake, instead of confining themselves to areas which they can profitably manage, they undertake the cultivation of vast tracts of land and money beyond their means. Needless debts and galling mortgages are often the fruits of this foolish ambition. Two men came to Portland some years ago from a manufacturing in a distant city to become farmers. Each had a wife. They settled on adjoining half-acre plots in a fertile valley. One believed in "making haste slowly," the other was in a hurry to get rich. The former commenced by clearing and planting half an acre, on which he raised more vegetables than he and his wife could consume before another planting season. In the second and each succeeding year he added to the area under cultivation, until he had five or six acres fenced and planted in fruits and vegetables. He hired a neighbor to do his plowing, and the supplement to a vigorous use of the spade in his own hands. Cows, poultry and pigs, from a very small beginning, multiplied rapidly around him. He had a ready sale for his products of every kind. By combining frugality with industry he soon found himself possessed not only of a comfortable home, but also of surplus cash. In short, it was not long before he had money to lend, and within ten years ceased to depend upon his labor for his living. Very different was the course pursued by his friend and neighbor. He did not believe in going slow. After exhausting the limited means with which he started, he incurred a heavy indebtedness for costly farming implements, horses, wagons, etc., in a determination to bring the larger part of his 80 acres under cultivation the first season. This, as he soon found, was a fatal error. His crops, when marketed, realized much less than his expenses, interest on debt included, at the end of the second year his pecuniary condition was worse. Having commenced wrong, his embarrassments increased as the years rolled by. In five years he got to the end of his rope; the sheriff stepped in and sold him out. These two cases, both of which came under the observation of the writer, can be multiplied many times; they are but a sample of many like cases in this and other states. All along the shores of Puget sound, on island and mainland, are settlers who are living in comfort and accumulating money by cultivating two or three acres of land. It is only when they desire to grow large quantities of fruit-apples, pears, plums, cherries, etc., that they require or cultivate eight or ten acres.

It is not good for men to live alone, as many do on large tracts of land. The man who avoids the society of his fellow creatures has already lost a portion of his moral health. The tendency of isolation is to degrade and degenerate; it not infrequently leads to insanity. Hence the less sparse the agricultural population, the more closely they are brought into contact with each other, the less chance is there of its members degenerating. Social intercourse tends to enlightenment, refinement and progress; its avoidance leads to opposite results. Thus everything favors the small farmer and close neighborly relations. There may be some glory in being "millionaire of all you survey," but there is little profit in it.

CATERPILLARS. The ravages of the caterpillars in the orchards in various parts of Whatcom county is assuming alarming proportions. In the vicinity of Ferris, Lumbert and Fort Belknap, Wash., whole orchards are stripped of their foliage and trees are dying. The Allen orchard at Marista has been, it is said, completely ruined.
