Members F. Flynn & Co. have their new brick yard at Alderbrook in running order now, and if the weather is fine, expect to have their first kiln of brick up in ten working days. The yard is located at the corner of 9th and Elm streets, and contains all modern improvements. These gentlemen are all Astoria people and deserve much credit for their enterprise. Five men are already at work and the force will be increased as needed. It is expected to make as good a brick as ever is in the market, as this clay bank is one of the very best. They declare that their prices will be so reasonable that there will be no necessity for importing brick here.

MORE ATTRACTIONS.

The A. P. C. Determined to Make Their Entertainment a Success.

As the time approaches for the musical and literary entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Football Club on Wednesday evening next, interest in the affair is increasing. Many of the club are daily asked members of the board of directors as to the numbers on the program. A reporter called on a member of the board last evening and inquired if it was that Mrs. Alberta Finck had kindly consented to assist, as had also Miss Edith Conn as accompanist; Mrs. J. T. Rose as soloist, and Mrs. M. A. Smith as singer of Messrs. Belcher, Bennett and Garner; Mr. H. G. Smith and Mr. W. T. Churchill.

The board expect also to be able to induce others of Astoria's best singers to lend their aid to making the entertainment a grand success from both an artistic and a financial standpoint. Both of which desirable results may even now be considered as absolutely certain. Mr. Herbert L. Brown, writes from Portland that his never been exceeded. Her skirt, dance, which is done in long skirts, with stereoscopic lights in varied colors, is entirely lacking in anything that would offend the modesty of the fair sex. The poetry, motion and certain to create a performance, of Miss Beaupre will perform under the auspices of the club, it is hoped, a sufficient recommendation of her ability and guarantee of the character of the performance. Of Miss Beaupre the Seattle Post-Intelligencer recently had the following complimentary notice: "This is the most successful of the Astoria entertainments, followed by Miss Lovene Beaupre, giving his services during the war to the Southern Confederacy."

In 1871 he came to Oregon, remaining in Portland in the insurance business until 1880, when he came to Astoria where he has since resided, being occupied at first as chief bookkeeper for M. J. Kinney and from 1881 until 1884 as Astoria Clerk Treasurer's chief deputy.

He has occupied many positions of influence and trust as a citizen while here, and at the time of his death was a school director for the district. In 1846 he was married to Sally T. Woolfox, who was his life's companion, and who died in this city six years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson both became members of the Christian Church before their marriage and lived consistently in the faith to the last, a period of about 50 years.

Of his brothers and sisters there are still living, Charles W. and Samuel C. Dickinson, living in Washington, D. C.; W. F. Dickinson, living in Alabama; Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, living in Georgetown, Texas, and Mrs. Belle G. Hart, living in Marshall, Texas, and several other children, all residents of this city; Miss Helen W., who is a teacher in the St. Helens school; Louisa F., wife of Dr. Alfred Kinney, now residing in Astoria; and Fannie L., wife of B. VanDusen.

The funeral services will be held at the residence this afternoon between the hours of 2 and 3, at which time the casket will be opened that all friends may have an opportunity of taking a last look at the face of the departed. The Rev. George W. Short will officiate. The remains will be buried in Clatsop cemetery, where the services will be private.

NUMBER THREE.

Orders Given by the Fire Department for Repairs to Be Made.

Orders were issued yesterday by the fire and water committee for the repairs to Engine No. 3, which were found to be necessary from the test given Friday afternoon, to a quick action and in the right direction. The energy of Acting Chief Stuart is highly commended and much credit is due for the manner in which the repairs were made. It is making a practical test of the engine in the presence of members of the fire committee and ascertaining just where the trouble in the machine was, and then striking while the iron was hot and procuring the necessary orders from the board for the repairs. This is a business-like method of handling city affairs which leaves no room for criticism.

Let the good work go on. Engine No. 3 should also be put in proper shape for duty as soon as it can be done. A reserve force and Mr. Stuart intends to take the matter in hand at once, should his time be off extended further, as the approaching dry season calls for prompt action.

SEARCHING FOR THIEVES.

Sheriff Hare spends the Day on the River.

Sheriff Hare yesterday was towed up the river in a row boat by a launch and visited the various sloughs, islands, fishermen's cabins and ranches along the river near Knappa, where recent thieves have been going on.

A thorough search was had but no discovery of the thieves was made nor the hiding place of their plunder found. As far as known some of the stolen articles have been offered for sale. It is an easy matter for thieves of this class to operate at night and conceal all traces of their work.

Sheriff Hare states that he has in the past had deputies on the river who were unknown to others, and that there were parts of his business that it was unnecessary to advertise. To thoroughly patrol the lower part of the Columbia river would require a very large force of men if it were necessary to do so.

The necessary funds were provided.

CLOSE OF A PURE LIFE

J. P. Dickinson Has Gone to His Long Rest.

HOSTS OF FRIENDS TO MOURN

A Consistent Christian During a Long Life--Death Found Him Ready for the Call.

Death ended a long and useful life yesterday morning at 4 o'clock. J. P. Dickinson, well beloved by all who knew him, has passed into that long sleep which is the common lot of man. In but a few hours, stricken down by apparently a trivial cause, it is difficult to realize that one so recently seen in the midst of his fellows is no more. His end was a quiet passing away, unconscious from first to last he knew no pain. The family and physicians were with him to the last, and all that science knew was used in an effort to prolong life, but to no avail.

Mr. Dickinson was well known and respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and his life record remains a clean and unspotted history. Always kind-hearted and charitable, never ostentatious, the good he did on all sides during a busy life will never be forgotten. His mind was a member of the Christian church, he carried his religion with him to his office or field of labor and its principles dominated his life. His home was a place of peace and scrupulously kept and no amount of outside influence could make him deviate from a course he believed to be right.

His home was a place of peace and scrupulously kept and no amount of outside influence could make him deviate from a course he believed to be right.

John Peniston Dickinson was a native of Virginia and born in Caroline county. An act of parliament passed in 1822 set the value of the best and pork at a halfpenny per pound, and veal at three farthings. There was at that time, it is perhaps necessary to add, no boards of a physician and patient in his life in Caroline county, where he engaged in his professional and agricultural pursuits. Mr. Dickinson secured his academic education in the local county, continuing scientific and legal studies in the U. S. and Mary colleges, from which he was subsequently graduated, shortly afterwards, when Secretary Stewart appointed him clerk in the pension office at Washington, D. C. Removing to that city he performed the duties of that office for four years, afterwards being engaged in prosecuting claims before the several departments. In 1861 he returned to Virginia, and locating in Goodland county, followed his agricultural pursuits, giving his services during the war to the Southern Confederacy.

In 1871 he came to Oregon, remaining in Portland in the insurance business until 1880, when he came to Astoria where he has since resided, being occupied at first as chief bookkeeper for M. J. Kinney and from 1881 until 1884 as Astoria Clerk Treasurer's chief deputy.

A FIFTY-CENT DOLLAR.

Silver is the poor man's money, repository for his savings. The moment a few silver dollars are made effective every silver dollar will lose half its purchasing power and the poor man who now receives 25 cents for his labor will under such a law receive but $12.50 worth of groceries, clothing, etc. Meantime the silver mine owners of Colorado will gather in enormous profits by reason of an advanced price of silver bullion which a few cents more would bring to them.
