Whether a fictitious name was used for the real mate, or whether it was shown that there was no first mate shipped at small strip or wedge of tide land owned by J. W. Cook and leased by defendant. The plaintiffs are accustomed when the lands are overflowed by the tide to throw a seine out from the front of one of these parcels along the channel of the river, down to the other parcel and then to sweep in toward the shore dragging the seine across the flats covered by the tide seine across the flats covered by the tide including the strip owned by Cook and leased by defendant and landing the seine on their own land. The scow in ques-tion seems to have been a large affair, quite beyond what was necessary for the defendant to use in his fishing, which was done on a small scale with an ordin-ary net. The result of mooring it in the definitely settled whether she will make a double trip every day or not, and much will depend on the condition of the channels on the north side of the river. further to the injury of plaintiffs.

There was some question as to the good faith of defendant in driving the good faith in anchoring this large scow in such a position as to interfere with plaintiffs seining, but I prefer to treat

the question as though both acts were

The struction of fish, the fact that traps are in existence are recognized and in the interests of navigation they are required to have lights in the night time, to abstain from fishing on Sunday. But these statutes fait far short of authorizing their construction in any of the fraters of this state where other modes of fishing are or might be employed.

There may be situations in this state where by reason of shallows or snags or other obstructions seines or gill nets could not be profitably used, and in such a locality a trap would not be a nuisance,

The best of three is a recourse to that fine botanic restorer, Hostester's Stomach Bitters, it vanquishes mataria, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, falling digestion, biliousness and tregularity of the bowels, and completely fortifies the system against their further inroads, its ingredents are drawn from nature's storehouse, consequently it is free from the objections attaching to many absolutely or semi-mineral remedics. For the delicate, issirm, convelenced and elderly it is pecularly beneficial. It well merits continuous and systematic use. Take it at bedtime to induce sleep, and between meals to attimulate appetite and digestion. The medical fraternity concur in indorsing it.

IT MAY DO AS MUCH FOR YOU.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Erving, Ill., writes that he had a Sovere Ridney trouble for many years, with severe Ridney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and made that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One tried will prove our statement. Price only 10s. for large bottle.
