

Suits to-measure, $35-- THE only way to fit a man is to first find out just what kind of a man you have to fit--that's just what we do take your measure exact--and cut the suit for you--and it must fit, or we'll keep 'em.

White Summer Corsets. Just the Thing for Warm Weather! ALBERT DUNBAR. BUSINESS LOCALS. Try Smith's ice cream.

CHAS. McDONALD, The Tailor, 523 Commercial Street.

Few Men Would Ask for a Finer Dinner than those we serve. We're trying in every way to make them the most enjoyable in town.

The Palace Restaurant. If you invite a friend to the Palace Restaurant the place is a sufficient guarantee that he will receive a good meal.

Sterling Silver! Never has there been such a stock of sterling silver jewelry as that now on display at our store.

ASTORIA MATTRESS FACTORY, 578 Commercial Street.

REPAIRING IN ALL ITS BRANCHES. When the tide sets one way there is always a cause for it.

WASHINGTON MEAT MARKET, CHRISTENSEN & Co., Prop'rs.

"THE RESORT?" Daily, Why? Because they can at any time, day or night, call for a sandwich here and get it.

Dalgity Iron Works, General Machinist and Boiler Works.

A Poor Cigar. W. F. SCHIBBE never made. Don't expect to make, either.

ROSS HIGGINS & Co., Grocers, and Butchers.

White Kid Slippers, White Canvas Oxfords, White Canvas Oxfords!

JOHN HAHN & Co. The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Hair Goods Manufactured All Styles! Wigs, Bangs, Switches, Combing, Hair Up, Dressing, Shampooing, Bleaching and Dyeing, Children's Hair Cutting.

MRS. C. B. SEDERLOF, 281 Commercial St., cor. Eighth.

Japanese Bazaar, SING LUNG, Prop.

Ladies and Children's hats and duck suits. Ladies' and Gentlemen's underwear made to order.

YESTERDAY'S WEATHER. Local weather for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 p. m. yesterday.

ALBION HOTEL. The Albion Hotel is now open for business.

THE PALACE RESTAURANT. The Palace Restaurant is now open for business.

Business Local. The county court yesterday asked for bids for painting the county jail.

Business Local. The NEW Hammond-A revolution in typewriters. Oil and see it. W. S. Wood, agent.

Business Local. The SPA-Cushman's old stand, is the place for fresh candies and ice cream.

Business Local. THE SAME PLACE-115 1/2 street is the place to buy fresh fish every day.

Business Local. GRAND OPENING-Of all kinds of foreign novelty goods, at 568 Commercial street.

Business Local. T. E. Schultz, fresco and scenic artist, with E. F. Allen, 365 Commercial Street.

Business Local. WANTED-People to call at the Row Wood Yard and learn the prices on wood.

Business Local. The Palace Barber Shop is now giving one of their two-bit shaves for 15 cents.

Business Local. Our milk is guaranteed strictly pure and fresh from the cow daily. Keith & Wilson.

Business Local. The Palace Bath House encourages folks to bathe by having everything first class.

Business Local. The vanilla and lemon extracts put up by the Prins-Crain Drug Store are the best made.

Business Local. PAT LAWLER & CO.-Fine line of canned goods and fresh fish, 674 Commercial street.

Business Local. YOUR TURN NEXT-Go to get one of the fine cigars for the pleasure. No. 459 1/2 street.

Business Local. Call at the Prins-Crain Drug Store and get a sample of their Antiseptic Tooth Wash free of charge.

Business Local. GRAEPE & BLANK-No. 33 Commercial street, will repair your clothes for little money. Try them.

Business Local. WORLD'S FAIR SALOON-Keeps the finest line of liquors and cigars in the city. Call and sample them.

Business Local. FOR FINE DENTAL WORK-Go to Dr. Howard, No. 582 Commercial Street. Removed from Astor House.

Business Local. If your watch don't run, call at 274 Commercial street, across from Shannahan Bros., and have it repaired.

Business Local. DON'T FORGET-That at Nos. 214 and 215 1/2 street is the place to have your horse shod and repair work done.

Business Local. Smith's ice cream is unequalled. Ice cream a specialty. Private parlors for ladies. Commercial street.

Business Local. THE EASTERN CLOCK CO. On 12th street, has on hand a fine collection of Clocks, Rings, etc., at lowest prices.

Business Local. DROP IN-Next door to McLean's, Commercial street, and get prices on all kinds of carpenter work. A. Paulsen.

Business Local. WE HAVE IT-The place to get a 25-cent meat for 15 cents, only white labor employed at 684 Commercial street.

Business Local. PLEASE STOP. As you pass by Mat. Smith's second-hand store, on Commercial street, and learn prices on his stock.

Business Local. WAH BING & CO.-Merchant tailors, will repair your clothes for little money. Try them.

Business Local. RAILROAD SURE-If W. T. Beverage cannot suit you with cigars and tobacco on Commercial street, he can on 11th street.

Business Local. A SURE THING-That you can get fruit and candy for less than money anywhere else at M. Moulter's, on Bond street.

AROUND TOWN. Fresh candies every hour at the Bonbonniers.

Wild baccharites at Rosa, Higgins & Co. Ladies rubber bathing caps for sale by Rogers, druggist.

Bottle of Gambrian beer and sandwich, 15 cents, at Jos. Terp's. Hay, oats and all kinds of mill feed for sale by Rosa, Higgins & Co.

Best ice cream and ice cream soda in the city at the Bonbonniers. 1,000 pounds of fine royal cherries for sale today at Rosa, Higgins & Co.

The county court yesterday asked for bids for painting the county jail. The NEW Hammond-A revolution in typewriters. Oil and see it. W. S. Wood, agent.

Little Fay Dellinger, who for several days has been quiet sick, has now about recovered. Christensen's new butcher shop on Bond and 9th streets is almost ready for occupancy.

Hansen's new soda works on the corner of Exchange and 17th streets is now open for business. W. C. T. U. meets today in the study rooms of the Presbyterian church. Strangers welcome.

Miss Buresl, one of Portland's best sales ladies, has accepted a position with the Eastern Clock Co. Hammond Typewriter has come ahead of the railroad. W. S. Wood, agent.

The big Stella raft was hauled out of the cradle yesterday and is now ready to be towed down the river. Yesterday afternoon a very successful operation was performed on Mrs. A. B. McFarland, by the Drs. Fulton.

Fred Bailey, a well known Portland pressman, was in Astoria yesterday. He returned to Portland last evening. It is rumored that Freddie Brown will run as an independent candidate for chief engineer of the Astoria Fire Department.

It was rumored in Portland late last night that the San Francisco Examiner had secured control of the Portland Sun. Beaver Lodge of Odd Fellows meets tonight to install officers for the ensuing year. It is expected that there will be a full attendance.

Died-At Warrenton, July 10, 1895, the four-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Holmes. The funeral will take place at Warrenton today. Dr. J. A. Fulton left on a special boat, last evening for Knappa, to attend Mr. M. P. Calender, who is reported quite ill at his Knappa home.

The members of the Outing Tennis Club embarked on the steamer Eclipse last evening for a mooning trip, and passed several happy hours in song and mirth. Captain McKee's pet pig has either been lost, strayed away or stolen, and his friends who live in the vicinity of his home say that he is much put out over the matter.

Yesterday the foundation of E. W. Tallan's handsome new dwelling, on Grand avenue, was commenced. This will be one of the best houses in town when finished. Dr. Estes and family left for their Oregon Grove cottage this morning. Mrs. Estes and children will spend the summer at the grove. The doctor returns this afternoon.

Officer Seaford is authority for the statement that Chief Loughery's celebrated hunting dogs were shipped yesterday morning to Professor Marlin's Dog Academy, at McMinville. The regular quarterly meeting of the Grace Church Board of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions will be held in the Sunday school room of Grace Church this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Articles of incorporation of the Eastern-Crain Drug Co. were filed yesterday in the county clerk's office. The company is to engage in the wholesale and retail manufacturing drug business with a capital stock of $5,000. After the heat of the day, on Flavel's dock, Mr. Pete Grant was engaged in teaching several ladies how to ride the bicycle. In a short time a number of them acquired some proficiency, thanks to Mr. Grant's skill.

On and after July 2, the Seashore Road Co. will run two daily trains each way, until further notice, leaving Seaside at 1:30 a. m. and 3 p. m., and Young's Bay at 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. Take steamer Dwyer, leaving Flavel's dock at 8:30 a. m. and 4 p. m.

The steamer North Pacific will hereafter ply between Astoria and Ilwaco, making two round trips daily, leaving on arrival of R. R. Thompson and T. J. Potter from Portland. For tickets and detailed information, call at ticket office under Occident hotel.

The usual morning service of the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church will be held on the picnic grounds at Deep River next Sunday. Their visit to the Sunday schools arrive at that place. There will be no service held in the church next Sunday. J. J. Hokka, pastor.

William Schofield and Frank LeNevader, members of Engine Co. No. 3, made a flying visit to Warrenton and Flavel yesterday. Their visit to those towns was for the purpose of looking at some horses, a team of which will be purchased for the company.

The city water works authorities request the people to be very careful and waste as little water as possible during the hot weather. The pressure is very low at present and this caution is made necessary on account of the great danger of fire during the warm spell.

A picked baseball nine from Astoria will attend the excursion to the Lewis and Clark next Sunday, a game having been arranged with the L. and C. team. The country ball players have been practicing for some time and the game will bring over with interest and excitement.

Mr. E. Goodman, a Seattle business man, who has been in Astoria for several days looking around for a suitable location to open up a dry goods store, left for his home last evening. Mr. Goodman is favorably impressed with Astoria and will engage in business within a month.

Alfred Hanson, the Bear Creek farmer, accused of setting fire to the Burnside dwelling, had his hearing in the justice court yesterday. Though the evidence against the defendant was very weak, the judge found him guilty. Mr. Hanson was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Mr. Alfred Tee leaves for the seaside today. He will be glad to receive his friends at his elegant cottage, providing they are in possession of passes from Mr. H. T. Penderly. Mr. Findlay this summer intends to act as a sort of paternal mentor, and does not propose to allow bucco steers-or thimbering men to approach Alfred and interrupt him in his communion with nature.

The fire department was called out at noon yesterday to answer an alarm of fire turned in from Box 5. The cause was a burning fire in the dwelling house of Mrs. Jurich, near the Keaper Wood Yard, which was put out by the neighbors. The department was on hand promptly, but their services were not needed.

Yesterday afternoon members of the Athletic Club departed themselves in the waters of the Columbia opposite the club house, much to the amusement of the anxious onlookers. The specimens of physical beauty were seen and Astoria has reason to be proud of the fine proportions and symmetrical forms of her young men.

Commencing Sunday, June 30, and during the seaside season, the O. R. and N. Co. will make a round trip rate between Astoria and Ilwaco good on Sundays only. Steamer North Pacific leaves O. R. and N. wharf at 8 o'clock a. m. Time of departure will be governed by tides permitting connection to be made with Potter for Portland in the evening.

Yesterday a boat supposed to have been stolen was taken in charge by the police and tied up back of the station house. Several of the officers then made an effort to catch the culprit. In this they were unsuccessful and returning to headquarters a few hours later found a narrow escape from drowning. One of the officers remarked that there was no doubt but that the boat was stolen-that is, stolen from the officers.

J. W. Minaker, a witness in the Hanson case, came down from Knappa yesterday morning in a boat with his horse and crew of one of his neighbors. When near Seal Island, the boat filled with water. He was compelled to take the water and swim to the shore. He was rescued by a boat from Knappa. He is now in the hospital.

AT THE WATER WORKS. Contractor Behm Returns from Portland -Work Being Pushed.

Contractor Behm returned from Portland yesterday and is again at the helm at the water works camp. The camp has been considerably enlarged by the addition of new boarding houses and an air of business pervades the entire place. The reservoir is rapidly assuming the shape of a huge basin and it is expected that the grading will be completed next week.

The tunnel will also soon be finished as far as the excavation is concerned. Brick and cement work will commence shortly both the tunnel and reservoir. Work on the pipe line and head works is progressing steadily. Mr. Henry's foreman is here from San Francisco and will soon start laying the wooden supply pipe from the headworks to the reservoir.

Mr. Hamshaw has so far recovered from his recent attack of throat trouble as to be able to get again. A lively scent is presented when the noon gong sounds in the camp. All quit work at once. The young folks are driven to water on a trot. The animals seem to know that meal time has arrived, and are as anxious to get their fodder as the men to get their lunch.

PLEASEAS OUTING. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Eddy, Dr. Alfred Kinney and wife, and all of the young folks, yesterday visited the government "itty. Captain "Bob" Lowe very kindly placed his launch at the service of the party. Some large bowls, of which the "cross-hatched" appearance called for an explanation. Think of the patience required to construct a large jar from china ropes of spun clay! The work was done it, beginning at the base and coiling strand after strand of that brittle cord until the vessel was shaped to suit the taste of the artist. The jar was then decorated in colors, and the outside might be further ornamented by colored serpents or a couple of little crawling frogs or a group of birds. Some jars were left with a cone-shaped straw and were shaped for all the world like the colorful and cushioned chairs which are now used at ball games. The pointed clay base was thrust through the opening in the straw showing the ingenuity of the workers.

Many of the ornaments and articles of dress found show that the men, no less than the women, paid the greatest attention to personal adornment. Great head-dresses and girdles of the gorgeous American plumage are common, straw and bamboo weapons are woven in contrasting stripes, beads and shells were used as embroidery material, and the nose and lip rings show great diversity of individual taste.

Some of the most interesting portions of the collection are those from Mexico and Central and South America. The burial customs of those countries are most valuable in revealing their modes of life and trend of civilization. Large jars and bowls of carefully prepared material are found surrounding the mummy cases. One large case, covered with a sort of coarse sackcloth, was tied with ropes, is left as it was found, to show exactly how it looked when first dug up. Others are opened, showing the curious way in which the mummy was packed with layers upon layers of soft cotton.

With the men are found weapons and bowls of corn and peas and other successful. Buried with the women are found many work baskets containing loom knitting needles wound with cotton yarn, and little clay tubes containing pigments to beautify their complexion, and rolls of something very like chewing gum. These balls were of most mysterious quality until the scientists arranging the material were found to be made of cocoa leaves which were put to the very use that spruce gum is today.

I wonder if the small boys and girls of those times, like the little moderns, stuck them to the under side of school desks and the dining table for safe keeping when not in use. Many hours could be profitably spent in the various departments of this study building of Harvard university. The public is freely admitted, and most hundreds of visitors take advantage of the Saturday and Sunday openings. The mind is quickened by the influx of many new ideas, and all historical reading is rendered to either the North or South American continent is made more luminous by an afternoon of intellectual observation in this fine collection.

STATE NEWS. Interesting Items Culled From Oregon's Leading Newspapers.

If the Populists have a special obnoxiousity it is a "soulless railroad corporation," but possibly those of that persuasion who live around Salem may have a much stronger aversion hereafter, when contemplating their own generous treatment of the Southern Pacific on the Fourth, says the Statesman. The leaders of the Populist celebration at Turner strained an effort to secure a special train from here, but could not guarantee the number first required. Finally, manager Koehler thought he would be generous on the nation's birthday, so he sent word that he would give them a special train, no matter how many or few passengers they had. The managers did not have good control over the rank and file, for notwithstanding the big speakers and the barbecue and the special train only five of Salem's Populists went to Turner by that special train back with it in the evening. A good many are looking to see resolutions commemorative of railroads in general passed at the next Populist convention.

Another incendiary fire occurred Friday night at 1 o'clock at the Kine ranch east of town, and one more man has to be charged the crime, says the East Oregonian. No one yet knows who is the man, and it may never be known. But the circumstances point to incendiarism and no one doubts that such is the real origin of the conflagration. At the Pat Kine ranch were dwelling houses and outbuildings. There had been no fire in the house for some time, and no one had been on the place who had any occasion to light a fire of any kind. The fire caught between the woodshed and the ice house, 50 feet from the dwelling, and consumed the both buildings. In the house was all the furniture and in the ice house 2,000 pounds of lard bacon. All this was destroyed. Insurance was carried only on the contents in the Philadelphia for $2,500 and in the Orient for $25. Mr. Kine places his loss at $5,000.

Pendleton, says the East Oregonian, had a jail delivery Sunday night and two prisoners secured their liberty. Only two were in the city jail-Dorian Barryhart, for stealing a saddle; and Fisher, a white man, who had threatened the life of a woman. Fisher compelled the woman to pawn her watch and purchase him a suit of clothes, threatening to kill her if she did not have the suit for the Fourth. In the jail is a convict Rose and at the rear, three cells are partitioned off from the main part. The prisoners dug a hole in the floor and burrowed out under the foundation, which is made of timber which lie on the ground. A good-sized hole was made so that escape was by no means difficult. The work was done mostly with the hands, though there may have been assistance rendered by friends who were on the outside.

Harry C. Grady, United States marshal for Oregon, was on the Portland train Sunday night, says the East Oregonian.

PERSONAL MENTION. Leonard C. Jones, of Portland, is visiting in Astoria.

D. C. Henney, a Portland contractor, is at the Occident.

Terry McKean Jr. left for a month's pleasure at the Seaside yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Mathena left last evening for a few days' visit to Portland.

Miss May DeWitt and Mrs. McGowan, of Clifton, are visiting friends in this city.

Miss Nancy Tuttle has returned from an extended visit in Hillsboro and Portland.

Louis Kirchoff left last evening for a ten days' business trip to Albany and Salem.

Edward W. Fuller, of the O. K. T. Specialty Co., is registered at the Parker House.

Mr. F. Strong, the Portland attorney, left for Clatsop yesterday on personal business.

Mr. Sharpstein, who has been under the weather for the past week, was able to be out yesterday.

D. D. Howard, of Los Angeles, and P. Connel, of San Jose, are visiting in Astoria, guests of the Parker.

Ben Rosenfield, and Dave Ackerman, traveling agents, are visiting Portland firms, were in town yesterday.

Miss Alice Merriman, of Hillsboro, is visiting the family of Dr. Jay Tuttle and will spend several weeks in the city.

Miss Woolfolk, the artist, will remain in Astoria during the summer. It is the lady's intention to organize a class soon.

Thomas Williams, of the Mason & Sherman grocery store, of Portland, spent an hour bathing in the waters of the Columbia yesterday.

Mrs. Young, wife of John Young, of the Portland Marble Works, was a passenger on the Telephone yesterday afternoon. She is on her way to the hills.

A. B. Hammond and wife, Mr. Eddy and wife, and Mayor Kinney left on a launch for Warrenton yesterday. They returned to the city in the evening.

Mrs. S. McDonald, wife of Stephen McDonald, the Telephone dock agent, at Portland, passed the night of yesterday for a summer's vacation at the seashore.

Mrs. W. G. Gosselin left last night for Montana, where she will spend a month in visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Gosselin does not think that he will enjoy being alone but will have to make the best of it, as business of the railroad will keep him here.

PEABODY MUSEUM. Many Relics of Prehistoric Life on This Continent.

While visiting the Agassiz museum at Cambridge do not forget the Peabody museum, which is separated from the other only by a bit of ground lawn. Both are located only a short distance from Memorial hall, and are reached through the shaded promenade known as Divinity avenue. The Peabody collection will not be as attractive to children as the great animals of the other building, but it contains much of absorbing interest.

In 1890 George Peabody gave $150,000 to found a museum and a professorship at Harvard, which should be devoted to the study of American antiquities. Previous to that year there were only a few scattered collections in the country, hard to get at for study and of little value from their lack of classification and arrangement. Some valuable relics were allowed to go to England and other countries, not because their importance was not known, but account of lack of interest in the subject.

Mr. Peabody's generous gift, however, roused public attention to the fact that if America wished to know anything of her own aboriginal history she must take the work in hand and make her own explorations and collections. The Peabody museum is an illustration of what may be accomplished in a comparatively short time by men thoroughly equipped for their work and willing to spend their splendid powers of intellect, enthusiasm and integrity in pushing it.

There is a theory at the present time that the earliest American relic goes back about 20,000 years. To connect this historical antiquity with the people who were found here in 1630, by an unbroken chain of well-secured evidence, is what the workers at the museum would like to do if possible. In one room are to be seen human footprints which were found under 15 feet of lava in California, the discovery being made while opening a gold mine. These are undoubtedly of great remoteness in point of time and are incentives to the untiring energy and most accurate observation in order that further information may be revealed in regard to them.

Somehow more modern things, however, possess a greater interest to the casual visitor. Perhaps the most impressive feature of the building is the variety of working materials used by those old time people. Besides stones and flints for weapons, they used shells and wood with copper sheathing, and clay for all sorts of vessels, including large and most interesting collection of pipes, which were then, as now, apparently, objects of much care and affection. Wood was used with feelings of copper and even iron upon smooth surfaces. Shells, silver, gold and many of the inferior jewels, such as jade and corneal, were used for ornamentation, while mica and polished coal were also considered beautiful by them.

It is probable that trading was extensively carried on from tribe to tribe, for ornaments of mica, which is found exclusively in the Carolinas, have been found in the Mississippi valley. Shark's teeth, that must have come from the Pacific coast have been found this side the Rocky Mts. of Oregon, of a kind found only in the Yellowstone park, have been picked in the valleys of the Tennessee and Arkansas rivers.

Of course, all this carved material implies tools in variety, though few are found beyond stones which have been used for grinding or crushing purposes. Some of the corn mortars are in almost perfect preservation and betray the facts that both beauty and utility were considered in their manufacture. In fact, the modern vases of those nations and supposedly rude ages, cannot fail to be impressed with the great love these people or peoples had for beauty. They had an excellent well developed eye for both form and color. Some of the vases are of the most pleasing proportions, shape and graceful. Many of them are decorated in two or more colors, the painting generally of a geometric pattern, being done from colored earths by means of feathers or flat sticks.

Some large bowls, of which the "cross-hatched" appearance called for an explanation. Think of the patience required to construct a large jar from china ropes of spun clay! The work was done it, beginning at the base and coiling strand after strand of that brittle cord until the vessel was shaped to suit the taste of the artist. The jar was then decorated in colors, and the outside might be further ornamented by colored serpents or a couple of little crawling frogs or a group of birds.

Some jars were left with a cone-shaped straw and were shaped for all the world like the colorful and cushioned chairs which are now used at ball games. The pointed clay base was thrust through the opening in the straw showing the ingenuity of the workers.

Many of the ornaments and articles of dress found show that the men, no less than the women, paid the greatest attention to personal adornment. Great head-dresses and girdles of the gorgeous American plumage are common, straw and bamboo weapons are woven in contrasting stripes, beads and shells were used as embroidery material, and the nose and lip rings show great diversity of individual taste.

Some of the most interesting portions of the collection are those from Mexico and Central and South America. The burial customs of those countries are most valuable in revealing their modes of life and trend of civilization. Large jars and bowls of carefully prepared material are found surrounding the mummy cases. One large case, covered with a sort of coarse sackcloth, was tied with ropes, is left as it was found, to show exactly how it looked when first dug up. Others are opened, showing the curious way in which the mummy was packed with layers upon layers of soft cotton.

With the men are found weapons and bowls of corn and peas and other successful. Buried with the women are found many work baskets containing loom knitting needles wound with cotton yarn, and little clay tubes containing pigments to beautify their complexion, and rolls of something very like chewing gum. These balls were of most mysterious quality until the scientists arranging the material were found to be made of cocoa leaves which were put to the very use that spruce gum is today.

I wonder if the small boys and girls of those times, like the little moderns, stuck them to the under side of school desks and the dining table for safe keeping when not in use. Many hours could be profitably spent in the various departments of this study building of Harvard university. The public is freely admitted, and most hundreds of visitors take advantage of the Saturday and Sunday openings. The mind is quickened by the influx of many new ideas, and all historical reading is rendered to either the North or South American continent is made more luminous by an afternoon of intellectual observation in this fine collection.

STATE NEWS. Interesting Items Culled From Oregon's Leading Newspapers.

If the Populists have a special obnoxiousity it is a "soulless railroad corporation," but possibly those of that persuasion who live around Salem may have a much stronger aversion hereafter, when contemplating their own generous treatment of the Southern Pacific on the Fourth, says the Statesman. The leaders of the Populist celebration at Turner strained an effort to secure a special train from here, but could not guarantee the number first required. Finally, manager Koehler thought he would be generous on the nation's birthday, so he sent word that he would give them a special train, no matter how many or few passengers they had. The managers did not have good control over the rank and file, for notwithstanding the big speakers and the barbecue and the special train only five of Salem's Populists went to Turner by that special train back with it in the evening. A good many are looking to see resolutions commemorative of railroads in general passed at the next Populist convention.

Another incendiary fire occurred Friday night at 1 o'clock at the Kine ranch east of town, and one more man has to be charged the crime, says the East Oregonian. No one yet knows who is the man, and it may never be known. But the circumstances point to incendiarism and no one doubts that such is the real origin of the conflagration. At the Pat Kine ranch were dwelling houses and outbuildings. There had been no fire in the house for some time, and no one had been on the place who had any occasion to light a fire of any kind. The fire caught between the woodshed and the ice house, 50 feet from the dwelling, and consumed the both buildings. In the house was all the furniture and in the ice house 2,000 pounds of lard bacon. All this was destroyed. Insurance was carried only on the contents in the Philadelphia for $2,500 and in the Orient for $25. Mr. Kine places his loss at $5,000.

Pendleton, says the East Oregonian, had a jail delivery Sunday night and two prisoners secured their liberty. Only two were in the city jail-Dorian Barryhart, for stealing a saddle; and Fisher, a white man, who had threatened the life of a woman. Fisher compelled the woman to pawn her watch and purchase him a suit of clothes, threatening to kill her if she did not have the suit for the Fourth. In the jail is a convict Rose and at the rear, three cells are partitioned off from the main part. The prisoners dug a hole in the floor and burrowed out under the foundation, which is made of timber which lie on the ground. A good-sized hole was made so that escape was by no means difficult. The work was done mostly with the hands, though there may have been assistance rendered by friends who were on the outside.

Harry C. Grady, United States marshal for Oregon, was on the Portland train Sunday night, says the East Oregonian.

golan. He had been at Baker City, where he took Bernard and Frank Trich, committed for thirty days for contempt of court in disobeying orders to cease resisting and using water rights in Portland and took the train out to Roseburg. He has a posse of deputies in the mountains about Roseburg searching for the robbers who held up the train a few days ago. Two men are already under arrest, but they have not been identified as the ones who were made to round up these robbers and the woods and mountains are full of deputy United States marshals and deputy sheriffs, hot on their trail.

Saturday afternoon at Meacham, May Thresher, aged 16, met with a terrible accident, and as a result may lose her life. She was riding a horse at full speed along the roadway, when the animal struck a rock in the track and fell. The horse was thrown a great distance of 10 or 15 feet and struck the ground with her head. Dr. G. W. King went from Pendleton Sunday morning and found the patient had suffered concussion of the brain. Arrangements have been made to bring her from Meacham from Pendleton in case such symptoms develop during the journey. Her condition is serious, and recovery cannot be said to be probable.-East Oregonian.

Dr. L. L. Rowland, who has served the state well four years as superintendent of the asylum for the insane will retire on the 1st day of August to give place to Dr. D. A. Paine of Eugene, elected to that position on Monday by the state election board. The law contemplates the election of a superintendent every four years and the matter came up for consideration at the meeting. Secretary of State Kincaid placed Dr. Paine in nomination and the gentleman, who has served the state as governor four years and the matter came up for consideration at the meeting. Secretary of State Kincaid placed Dr. Paine in nomination and the gentleman, who has served the state as governor four years and the matter came up for consideration at the meeting. Secretary of State Kincaid placed Dr. Paine in nomination and the gentleman, who has served the state as governor four years and the matter came up for consideration at the meeting.

The Roseburg Plaindealer says: "Other evidences come to light that the Coos Bay railroad is under a lucky star. We are properly advised that parties in San Francisco are making elaborate preparations for exploring coal fields lying west of Myrtle Point. The interesting consideration is that unless the railroad shall be extended in the direction of Roseburg these coal beds can not be utilized. Wealthy parties at Los Angeles are interested in the examination with the idea in view that a coal tract run from San Pedro street to Coos Bay.

Says the Roseburg Plaindealer: "Our patrons will notice that the Astorian has been enlarged to a six-column folio-a paper as large as any daily paper published in the state outside of the Oregonian, Portland, the Statesman, the Astorian, Astoria. The daily has come to stay, and is going to fill that "long felt want." It will be improved from time to time as circumstances will permit and patronage will justify.

WANTED. WANTED-Fifty men at the Jim to get a 10 cent shave and a 15 cent hair cut. 278 Astor street, next door west of the Parker House.

WANTED-Agents to represent the old National Life Insurance Co. of Montpelier, Vt. For further information, address G. M. Stoop, General Coast Manager, 25-2