WASHINGTON'S TURN TO ACT.

The Pacific Journal, of Ilwaco, says in its last issue:

"The question of the jurisdiction of the Columbia river was heard by Judge Bel-linger and Judge Hanford last Monday; up to this time no decision has been ren-dered. Whatever the decision may be, however, it is not likely that it will be accepted as final, for aithough it is con-tended by McGuire that it is a friendly auit, the Oregon papers (since they heard the arguments) openly admit that the decision will not be accepted unless it is the desire."

This is ridiculous nonsense. The Journal knows very well that it was stated before ever the case was heard that the intention of Mr. McGuire in forcing the suit was to obtain a decision one way or the other which he hoped would be appealed to the supreme court and there settled for all time. If the people of the state of Washington are beaten by the decision rendered by Judge Bellinger, everybody hopes that they will appeal the case at once. If the Oregon commissioner gets the worst of the present controversy, then the people of this state look to him to force the issue and take It to Washington, Most certainly the Oregon papers have said and will say again that "unless the decision is as they desire, it will not be accepted." But they intend to act in this manner not from any degree of personal interest, but simply in order to bring to its conclusion an argument that is becoming very tiresome and nauseating to all sensible peodo the only square thing and speedily push the whole subject to its final stage. There is nothing equivocal about that.

On June 28 ended the tenth month of the work of the new tariff law. And its record is indeed a sorry one. Although it went into operation with the whole country walting to buy goods which it was expected to bring in lower rates, it shows for ten months smaller treasury receipts than did the McKinley law in the corresponding ten months of last year, and infinitely less than did the Mc-Kinley law in its first ten months. As a "record breaker" the Wilson law stands triumphant, but it is a record of badness. of an enormous deficiency. And this, too. in the face of smaller expend tures by the treasury than in the same period for many years. Not for years have the expenditures been so low as during the gold in amount, and have sustained the months in which the Wilson law has been parity in the only way that could be months in which the Wilson law has been in operation, yet it presents as the ne results of the ten months a deficit of $32,037,137, besides omitting to make the usual payment of $48,000,000 on the sinking fund. No month in the history of the treasury for a quarter of a century the stronghold of free silver outside of the silver-producing states. All trustworthy information from that section is to the effect that free silver sentiment has steadily declining. The action of the Kentucky Democratic convention has had, as was expected, a most excellent effect in this direction. The declaration of the Democrats of that state against free silver, after one of the most vigorous contests ever made on any question, was a trumpet blast for a sound currency that was heard in every state of the South with telling effect. Three months ago the state of Georgia would have given a majority for free silver, it is believed by those who are well informed that if this question were now submitted to the voters of that state a very large for the silve of the drive when the house was a first built. At the present time the nature on the other dide of the drive when the house was first built. At the present time the silver as the of the given a majority for five silver, after one of the most vigorous contests ever made on any question, was sufficient to the silver one a majority for five silver. It is believed by those who are well informed that if this question were now submitted to the voters of that state a very large for the drive when the house was a first built. At the present time the silver of the drive when the house was first built, at the present time the sale of the most supposed consistence with history.

There is no doubt there has been a great falling off in free silver sentiment in the northwest, and it is by no means certain that even in the slver-producing states it is as strong today as and suring states it is as strong today as it is as strong today as and string it was a month ago. Certainly it seems to have lost some of its aggressiveness, judging by the flasso of the Denver Denoratic free silver convention. The most effective argument against the free silver ver falsacies is the industrial and business improvement, and that is everywhere exerting its influence in behalf of a sound currency. We shall know by tomorrow what effect the common sense sound currency. We shall know by to-morrow what effect the common sense fresh light unto their eyes,

"SILVER KNIGHTS," OR ASSES.

The little clique or third party free-silverites, of which Senator Stewart, of Nevada, is the head, has made so little progress that its movement already seems to be a failure. Hence its members have resolved to try to work for the same end along a new line. They have or-ganized a secret society for political purposes," which will have its headquarters in Washington, though chartered at Alexandria, Va., as a corporation. They call themselves "The Supreme Temple, Silver Knights of America," and the charter shows the main object to be "to secure the free conage of silver by the United States government, to make silver when coined a legal tender for all d.bts, and to collect and expend money in forthers were supported by the contract of the contract in furtherance of said purposes." Of course Senator Stewart is the president. Among the other officers and directors are two ex-members of congress, and it is claimed that a great number of the representatives are identified with the lovement. Clerks are now at work in preparing and sending out appeals, and it is said the literary bureau is to be one of the most important features of the organization. An effort is to be made to places as possible throughout the land. maper" and sundry other things too numerous to mention, seems to be still the devoted victim on whose head most of the abuse continues to fall. In fact, it when they can find no other way to keep up the noise than by slobbery ti-tract a few of the more silly ones among the pople who have listened with more or less approval to the false statements and silly. The Oregon commissioner has done all that he promised to do. He told the Washington authorities that he would give them the opportunity to finally settle the matter before the courts, and he did it. Their turn has come, and they bers will not spend the whole of their time in those lodge-rooms, but will hear more or less of what is said in favor of honest money where not grips or pass-words are needed to listen to the truth. As far as the Oregon officers are con-cerned, if beaten in the present case, they will accept no adverse decision but will also they may cite the history of the "Knights of the Golden Circle," and some other secret associations to prove the folly of expecting success by such means in a free country. Most decidedly the Knownothing movement did not re-sult in the exclusion of foreigners from office in the United tSates and it soon died out, an acknowledged failure.

It is probable this class of literature It is probable the class of literature that will be sent out by the free silver propagations will fall flat upon the ears of the American people. They already have heard ad nauseum the statements about the kind of money the propie of a century ago supposed they wanted, and the allegations that silver was fraudulently "demonetized" in 1878. Not a few of them have become convinced that the thoughts and intentions of the men of thoughts and intentions of the men 1893 may have then susceptible of im-provement to meet the needs of modern business activity, and that the talk about "demonetization" is nonsense in view of the fact that in the last seventeen years we have built up the volume of our silver money to at least an equality with done without changing the ratio. They and the rest will be very apt to say to themselves between this and election time in 1896 that the great question now the treasury for a quarter of a century has shown such small receipts as did many of the months since the new law went into effect. Had it been compelled to meet the demands made upon the treasury under former tariff laws, the deficiency would have been many millions greater.

The change in sentiment favorable to the sound currency cause is especially marked in the South, which has been the stronghold of free silver outside of up coal, electricity, and gas, and going the stronghold of free silver outside of up coal, electricity, and gas, and going
