GOOD INTENTIONS AVAIL LITTLE

Party Bossism Must Go—We Have the Forms Which Will Bring the Substance.

Political Reform Discussed by Linton Satterthwaite.

Political Reform Discussed by Linton Satterthwaite, in the American Magazine, for August, Continued for Public Opinion.

The hopeful student of practical politics in the United States may justly feel... at the multiplying signs of... political corruption.

We already have the forms of popular government and we have but to use them in order to possess the substance. Our troubles are due to the failure of the willful neglect of the masses to avail themselves of the powers placed unasked for in their hands.

Our elections are little more than pieties by means of which the decisions of a partisan oligarchy are given the form of popular will. Our has become a government by an oligarchy and oligarchy is a government by a few men.

Good intentions count for little in politics. While good citizens are content to deplore evil, the authors of the evil will revel in the spoils. A people will do nothing for itself unless it has first learned to do for others.

Interesting Items Gleaned from Oregon's Leading Newspapers. The following interview by the Corvallis Times with Mr. Hammond while in that city this week undoubtedly gives the exact situation, and it can be easily figured that the O. C. & N. will not do any extending of the line this year.

But Little Has Been Accomplished to Better Matters—Citizenship Is Too Cheap Entirely.

Recent discussion of the more claim

Recent discussion of the more claim in certain of its phases which not involve, however, the justice of the dispute between Spain and this country...

Citizenship has been so cheapened in this country by the false sentimentalism which has sprung from the restrictions or safeguards against immigration that it is not surprising to find the motives and the methods of many men who seek it...

John Bull's Bluffs. England is again playing the old trick with the United States. This has rarely had dealings with this country when she has not been in a bad way.

Hop-picking commenced at Davis' yard near Junction City, Monday. There will be employment for about 80, although there are nearly a thousand campers on the ground now, and more coming every day.

Virginia county's assessment roll for 1895 foots up $2,975,000, a slight falling off from last year, owing to a reduction of $20,000 in the real estate. The personal tax roll shows the assessment of 19,877 horses, 11,225 cattle, 6,008 sheep and 2,792 hogs.

Viennese Peculiarities. Vienna is in some respects behind the date of perhaps the rest of the world only has not advanced up to her standard...
