"Ubi Mei,

Ibe Apes.'

At a recent banquet in New York witty parson gave the following toast: "Ubi Mei, Ibi Apes." One said it means "where there is honey there will be toes;" another, "where the carcass is, there will the vultures be;" another said "where the turtles are the clubs will be;" the last said "where the cards are there the ships will be." The parson discarded all, and said it meant "where there is attraction there will the admirers be." And we said to ourselves, the secret is out, for people continue to crowd our store because genuine bargains continue every day—and notwithstanding a loud blowing of trumpets from all the four corners, customers know we have at-tractions they want and they come.

Young Girls on the Boats Are Too Nu-

they are very much troubled by some of the young girls of Astoria who board the boats on their arrival here and make themselves very familiar with the waiters and men about the boat. It seems they have been riding to the railroad bridge in the afternoon and have become so much of a nuisance that some steps of the st hould be taken to keep them away from the boats. During the season, when there were plenty of officers to watch them, but ylittle objection was made, but now tha tihe season is over it is a most serlous mistake for these young girls to continue theis practice. It is suggested that parents take the necessary steps to prevent these young neople from placing themselves in such an unenviable position. Accidents are liable to happen and besides this some day some indiscretion will be committed for which all will be sorry.

ANOTHER SCHOOL LETTER:

Astoria, Sept. 5th, 1895. Being lately requested by numerous patrons of the Cedar Street School during the last year to ventilate facts con-nected with the election of teachers in Astoria in the June of 1894, is my excuse for asking space at this time. There was never a time in the history of that school that it stood higher, or was more appreciated, than at the closing of the school year of 1894. Many patrons and friends will remember the hearty congratulations both teachers and pupils received at the closing exercises, several going so far as to say that the Cedar Street School was the best in the city. I did not get word of being dropped unth the last of June, hence getting another regular position for the following year was totacly out of the question, so that the injury was the greatest that could possibly have been inflicted. On coming to Astoria to see about the cause, to say mildly. The first director I approached, after some hesitation, informed me that the the county officials.

The county court yesterday issued final naturalization papers to J. S. Hitchen, formerly an English subject.

Some nestation, intermed my that the sensor primary teacher had trouble. I asked him what that had to do with me. He repiled, "The principal is the school." The next director also gave the same reason, and I again ventured the same formerly an English subject.

In the police court Frank Cabbanas was fined $50 for assault and battery and George Owens forfeited $5 ball for being drunk.

E. Allen and Son, A. H. Birren, Dr. A. E. Allen and Son, A. H. Birren, Dr. A. H. Birren, D E. Allen and Son. A. H. Birren, Dr. A. having a good, long-eared taugh ready, had nothing to say, and seemed surprised that they should be approached on the subject. One of them kindly offered me a "good recommend;" this I as kindly re-fused, as I like "recommends" to mean Coffee and cake sociable at the Scandinavian Lutheran Mission Society, Uppertown, on Saturday night. fused, as I like "recommends" to mean something. I could by this time appression that a sweet in the position of some patrons who had asked some of the members of the board for an explanation of the matter, but could not find anyone who knew anything about it. As Mr. Dickinson, who voted for me, was kept in total ignorance of the "hidden things of dishonesty," and was so disgusted by the methods used that it was only by carnest methods used that it was only by earnest Mr. C. C. Van Etten, president of the solicitations of his friends that he was Astoria Land and Investment Co., arriv- kept from resigning, I had to seek infor-

I first learned that, before the election, the school clerk said to Miss Dickinson, that there was a great amount of lealousy existing against the Cedar Street School, and asked her if it would not be reserved to reject any or all bids. For particulars address Pacific Pawing Co.

It appears upon further investigation that Hishop Robert, now confined in the county jail, did not avail himself of medical aid that was provided, owing to a misunderstanding. He is now under a Mossis. Conn and Thompson were always opposed to him and were only waiting a good chance to lrop him. These statements surprised me, as my relations with these directors always seemed to be of a pleasant nature, besides, directors ought to be equally interested in all the schools of the city. But the explanation came at last. I learned during the last Christmas holidays that in a meeting of the Court Street teachers before the election of teachers in 1895, the principal of that school openly stated that if he diad any influence with the board, Prof. Hawes would not be re-elected. I am at liberty to use the name ciected. I am at liberty to use the name of my authority if this statement is disputed. It was now perfectly plain where the jealousy, existed, and why the opposition of these directors was so manifest. The election of 1803 was quite seen after the consolidation of the districts, besides it would not look well for the three directors diving outside of the Cedur Street districts to district the property of the consolidation of the Cedur Street districts to district the district of the Cedur Street district to district the district of the Cedur Street district to district the district of the Cedur Street districts to district the district of the Cedur Street districts to district the district of the Cedur Street districts to district the district of the Cedur Street districts to district the district of the Cedur Street districts to district the district of the Cedur Street districts to district the districts of the Cedur Street districts the districts of the Cedur Street districts the districts of the Cedur Street districts of the Cedur Stre dar Street district to dictate the principal over the votes of the two who livel in it, consequently the dropping was post-pened then. In 1894 these men had Mr. Dealy where they could coerce him, Mr. D. is on the board to keep his own family in positions. To accomplish this, he would vote to drop every other teacher in the city and elect the ghost of Crusoe's man Friday principal of any school in which he had the power. These directors were to give Mr. Dealy's daughters posttions, in return for which he was to vote tions in return for which he was to vote to change the principal of the Cedar Street school, and also do any other voting the directors, who were always opposed to Prof. Hawes, should dictate. These are the simple facts of the unmanly affair. The Astoria people can draw their own conclusions. Why cannot Astoria have a board of directors that can see more than one school in the delicate refreshments were served at an early hour. All returned home about 10 o'clock, wishing that a birthday might come to cease of these cease of the cea Respectfully, J. D. HAWES.
