IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.
To our Lady Customers—
There are too many places in this city selling wraps and jackets. Many of the garments sold here are shop worn, and come out of retail stores in other cities on account of being stale, but are sold here for the very latest. For the past 10 years I have been selling jackets and wraps of the best grades at much lower prices than any house in Portland, and have never yet deceived any customer in order to make a sale. Considering that the city is overcrowded with this particular line of goods I shall from this day close out all jackets and wraps at wholesale prices.

A TWISTER.
A twister in twisting
May twist him a twist,
For in twisting a twist
Three twists make a twist;
But if one of the twists
Untwists from the twist,
The twist untwisting
Untwists the twist.
That is, when it's twisted with any other twist than MARSHALL'S.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
Remember that "a stitch in time saves nine." The rainy season is now so ting in. Come and get your boots and shoes half-soled and repaired before they are too far gone. I am now better prepared than ever to do this in a cheap, neat and lasting manner.

Bess, one-half of northeast quarter, southwest quarter of northeast quarter, and northeast quarter of southeast quarter, section 25, township 6 north, range 7 west.

The Red Front shoe shop on Third street opposite Cooper's store is a neat little place, and is drawing much attention. The social proprietor, Mr. Fred O. Walters, is again ready to serve his old customers as well as new ones. In his new location, he says, you get a stylish shoe, a lasting shoe and a stylish shoe all you have to do is to come and leave your measure, and at the same time get your old shoes saved.

The Court Street School is again so badly crowded that there is not room for all of the pupils. In the high school department it is just as bad. There are not seats enough to accommodate the pupils and no room in which to put any more. Miss Bayley, of the high school, in Uppertown and still the schools are crowded. With the increase which is expected to take place in January it is difficult to see what can be done unless more teachers are engaged and other rooms provided.

Comptroller Hunsbaw arrived down the river early Sunday morning on the steamer Vulcan, having three large barges in tow, which contained stone, brick and lumber for the waterworks and is the first shipment of material for the new plant to be put in by the Pacific Paving Company, all the other material being on the ground. The coping stones for the parapet of the reservoir is some of the finest stone ever seen in Astoria. The men worked all last night unloading the material, in order to rush the work forward.

At 1 o'clock this morning, a Russian who had been drinking a little bit more than was judicious, took a header over the Parker House dock. The cold water quickly sobered him up, and coming to his senses he screamed lustily for help. Officer Seacott and several others appeared. With the aid of a ladder they rescued the victim who was dragged out of the river looking like a drowned rat. He had his best clothes on and had evidently spent considerable time on his costume. The constable helped him to get home.

WORTHY OF NOTICE.
There is nothing but bold, clear-cut truth in the statement that is secure perfect fit, quality and style in your shoes at the lowest reasonable prices—you must go to the firm of John Hahn & Co., 69 Commercial street.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

The September Term Opens
With Large Docket.

A VERY INTERESTING CASE
Delivered by Judge McBride to the Grand Jury—Not to Consider
Justices of Peace Cases.

The circuit court convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Judge McBride on the bench, Sheriff Hare and Clerk Dunbar in attendance.

The first business of importance was the organization of the grand jury. The members who responded to the roll call and were qualified are as follows: S. K. Stanley, Paul Lewis, Jas. Brown, Leo Koe, E. C. Jeffers, H. C. Harrison, W. H. Radcliffe.

Judge McBride appointed E. C. Jeffers as foreman, and then charged the jury in substance as follows:

Among other duties you will be charged with that of making indictments for all offenses of every nature committed in the county. You will also have to consider some offenses committed without the county, as for instance, where property was originally stolen in some other county and afterwards brought into this county. You shall also investigate all offenses committed on the Columbia river opposite Clatsop county, including all cases of violations of laws of the state of Oregon regulating fishing on the Columbia river. This includes trap fishing with appliances which are fixed to the bottom of the river, as well as net fishing; violations of the Sunday laws of this state, which has complete jurisdiction in such matters, and if there be cases for indictment in such cases, you are to be treated as having occurred within this county.

You will find two classes of actions coming before you. Cases where parties are in jail or under bonds and cases where complaints are just filed. It is a matter of common justice, and I would so recommend, that where a party is in jail, or out on bail, you should not file him, if he can take and give him the privilege, if he so desires, of appearing before the grand jury in person and testifying or producing any witnesses he may have. Give every person held to answer for crime the opportunity of having a full hearing in the grand jury, as far as possible. Of course this is impracticable where parties are not bound over. But in all cases where parties are under bonds or in jail I would recommend that you give them an opportunity to be heard. You have no right to compel them to testify if they do not wish to do so. The law does not compel a man to testify against himself, but if they desire it you should notify them that if they wish to be heard they can. In this way many small cases may be disposed of and the county saved great expense.

The district attorney will prepare indictments for you, and if you are satisfied the facts sustain the charges you will return a true bill, and if you do not feel sufficient grounds to maintain the charges you will return a "not true bill."

In this class of cases parties will be of course be either in jail or under bail, and I do not belong to the grand jury to hear evidence for the defense in criminal cases where the parties are at large. You are not limited, however, in your hearing, and you may hear evidence before the justice of the peace and bound over by him, but you have the right to inquire into all cases that come to your knowledge, and you are to hear evidence in all cases where you have reason to believe that crimes have been committed. You are not compelled to take up every case that comes before you. You find in all communities parties who make complaints in trifling matters and who attempt to weak recovery upon their neighbors in family and political matters through the grand jury room. Before taking up such cases you should find out the character of the man making the complaint. This is a large county, where the distances are great and you are not bound to put the county to expense for small and trifling matters, brought at the instance of people who are unreliable. But only such cases should be considered as are of an important character.

Another class of cases that will be brought to your attention are where justice courts and the circuit court have concurrent jurisdiction, such as petty larceny, assault and battery, etc. In such cases I would recommend that you first ascertain if an attempt has been made to try them in the local courts. In this case the expense of trying any case, even a very small case, is not much less than $100.00, while in the justice courts they can be tried for $25.00. There they can be disposed of expeditiously and at small expense. In all such cases unless you find that the local magistrate was refusing to hear the parties to a hearing, I would recommend that you refer the complaint to the justice of the peace. I make these suggestions because, as you know, these are exceptionally difficult times and money is scarce and it is as hard a matter for people to get money with which to meet their taxes as for any other object, and it is important that expenses be reduced to the minimum. One of the heaviest expenses of this county is the circuit court. Each term costs several thousand dollars, and it is important that your expense be kept down all that is possible, and that your time be not occupied by trivial matters, to the neglect of the burden of the people. So that while it is important that you see that justice is done in all cases, it is also important that frivolous cases should not be entertained and brought into this court. It is equally important that cases that can be tried in the justice court instead of this court, should be so tried.

In addition, you, as indicting officers for crime, have the right to investigate into the conduct of the various county officers, and to see whether they are performing their duties properly, whether their books are properly kept, and money properly expended, and to call the attention of this court to such matters, or return indictments if deemed advisable; also the right to recommend any improvements for the benefit of the public. All such recommendations will be transmitted to the county court for action. It will also be your privilege to inquire into the care of the county paupers, public roads and to inquire into the general management of the affairs of this county. You have the right to investigate into all of these matters and make such recommendations as the circumstances may demand.

You are not governed by the sittings of this court, but may meet from time to time as you may see fit. But I would recommend that you dispose of the business that may come before you as speedily as possible, as it is not probable that there will be much civil business before you. It is important that the criminal business be disposed of as soon as possible.

You will observe that from your oath you are required to keep secret all business that comes before you. This applies not only to the term of court, but for the balance of your life. This has two objects, first, that parties being investigated be not informed in any way of such action, and allowed to escape, but the principal object, I think, is that members of the grand jury shall feel the greatest freedom in expressing their views and voting in the grand jury room, without fear of unjust criticism after. During the sittings of the grand jury no person is allowed in the grand jury room except the officer on duty, the district attorney, and the witness who may be under examination, no one being allowed in the room while witnesses are under examination. When you require advice as to matters of law you will apply to the district attorney. You will agree upon one of your members as clerk, who may keep memoranda for your guidance from day to day, but all of his records must be destroyed upon your adjournment.

The following court proceedings for the day were had:

C. P. Bryant vs. Edmund Matthews, ordered that receiver pay a dividend of 25% per cent and retain $40 for services.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Yesterday afternoon a number of ladies dropped in upon Mrs. Wm. Rose at afternoon tea time and gave that lady quite a surprise. The occasion was the twentieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Rose's wedding, and was most fittingly celebrated.

Mrs. Rose is well known as a delightful entertainer, and that popular lady who has been so successful in her social life in China and elsewhere. A most enjoyable afternoon was passed by all. Among those present were Mrs. Ann Holaday, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. W. W. Parker, Mrs. Leinenweber, and Mrs. L. M. Dell.

EVENING BELLS.

Vespers Sunday night at Grace Church (Sunday) ended a quiet Sabbath day. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Taylor, read the 103rd psalm, "But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared." A veritable gospel of love was preached in a few words, to encourage those who, conscious of many failures, are tempted to give up in despair. The anthem, so beautifully rendered by the choir, was like a glowing benediction, leaving a sense of peace and good will that would encourage the wayfarer through another week of toil.

Friday and Saturday are ember-days, and on Saturday, St. Matthew's day, there will be service at 10 a. m.

ASSIGNEE'S AUCTION SALE.
