INTERNATIONAL GAMES. Most Successful Series of Contests Ever Held. VISITORS ENTIRELY SHUT OUT. Fifteen Thousand Spectators in a Continual Ferment of Excitement.

New York, Sept. 21.—Never in the history of athletics has there been such a successful series of contests held in a single day as the world over, as the international games between the London Athletic Club and the New York Athletic Club and the Manhattan field today.

The smashing of records, the hair raising finishes and above all the entire shutting out of the visitors from even winning first honors in any of the eleven contests on the program, the 15,000 spectators who gathered within the enclosure were kept in a continual ferment of excitement, which was only relieved at times by the wild bursts of enthusiasm.

ereed, and so constructed as to float easily and to get them drift in the river, in the hope that they will be picked up by residents of the many islands at the mouth of the river, who are not kept in close with culture or else by sailors. He thinks the peculiarity of the way in which the books reach the readers help to secure for them a reading.

THE EPISCOPALIANS. A General Convention in October at Minneapolis.

The Pioneer Press says that the Episcopal churches in Minneapolis and St. Paul are looking forward with the greatest interest to the general convention, when the Twin City pulpits will be occupied by preachers of renown; men whom the laymen of the church have often read and heard about, but many of whom they have never been able to meet personally.

PELIONS AND THINGS. A man named Durand has won a bet at Marcellus by standing on a pedestal in public place for four consecutive weeks. He was utterly exhausted after the performance and may not recover.

When S. R. Crockett was a poor young college student he became the private tutor to a rich American youth and traveled with his charge all over England and as far away as Siberia and Nova Zembla. He made copious notes of the trip and expects to use them in a forthcoming book.

Francis Schliker, who was a shoemaker in Denver two years ago, is now worshipped as Christ in New Mexico. He travels about the country healing the maimed, the halt, and the blind, and will take no money for his cures.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report. The pastor of the quaint Waldensian colony, which was founded two years ago in North Carolina, denies the report that the colony is a failure. He says that this year's crop will put the colonists above want for the coming year and that they do not have the intention of returning to their European homes.

Sweden's state telephone is soon to be connected with the state telegraph. Instead of addressing the telephone numbers will be used, the telegraph letters will be telephoned to the telegraph office and telegraphed back, thus dispensing with the greater number of messenger boys, as in Sweden nearly everyone uses the telephone.

Gigantic Jumps Taken by These Monsters of the Deep. Philadelphia Times. "Speaking of jumping," said an old seaman who had been watching some boys playing leap-frog on the sands, "let me tell you of the greatest jump I ever saw. It was many years ago when I was little more than a lad, but it was boys came on a whale boat belonging to the ship Henry Staples. We had had luck for several weeks, when one day we sighted a big whale and two boats set off in a race to see who would get there first. It was fairly smooth, what sailors call a white cap breeze, and our boats fairly flew over the water. Finally the whale rose not one hundred yards away, headed directly for us. The mate gave orders to stop, and we sat still, expecting that the monster would rise near us. The harpooner stood with his iron all ready to throw, while we grasped our oars nervously prepared to jump at the word 'stern all' that nearly always came when a whale was harpooned. Not a word was spoken and suddenly a mountain of black appeared. It seemed to shut off the entire horizon. 21 feet it was until I distinctly saw a seventy-foot whale over twenty feet in the air hovering over us.

The mate was the first to regain his senses and gave the command 'stern all' just as we were ready to spring overboard, the boat shot back several feet, and the next second the gigantic animal dived into the ocean, just grading us, having completely passed over the boat. The highest leap I ever saw was a similar one was recorded by Dr. Hall, who at the time was a midshipman on the ship Lander. They were lying in the harbor of Bermuda, when all hands were attracted by the appearance of a very large whale that suddenly appeared in the harbor and seemed very much alarmed by the shallow water, floundering about violently. The young midshipman joined a boat's crew that started in pursuit and they were lying in wait about to strike, the whale disappeared, sinking out of sight, leaving a deep whirlpool, around which the boat shot. Before it stopped, up came the whale, floundering, as if all probability, struck the bottom, and went into the air like a rocket. "So complete was this enormous leap," says Dr. Hall, "that it was impossible to see him fairly in the air, in a horizontal position, at a distance of at least twenty perpendicular feet over our heads. While in his progress above the water, he was in his spring some touch of the vivacity which a trout or salmon shows out of the water, but he fell back again in the sea like a huge water balloon on its broadside, and with such a floundering crash, as made all hands stare with astonishment, and the boldest held his breath for a time. Had the whale had taken his leap one minute sooner he would have fallen plump on the boat.

Comparatively few people have seen large whales, but we can imagine what an object an animal seventy feet long and weighing as many tons would make presenting to the eye.
