ONE MORE REMINDER.

In another column of the Astorian this morning will be found a reprinted article from the Herald of Trade, the largest trade weekly on the coast, touching on the fall salmon question, and speaking of our course with reference to that sub-Ject. This is one of a dozen comments made since the cast article on this matter appeared in the Astorian, and the language of all is just as emphatic and fuse as phain.

The fall dishing evil is something that will not down. It can neither be hushed up nor killed, and the sooner the canners recognize this fact and take steps to purify their business to the extent of restricting or abolishing the fall industry on this river, the better it will be for them. We have waited patiently for ome days to see whether there was anything real in their protestations and promises called forth so abundantly last week when the scare had penetrated deep enough to be felt, but up to the present they have shown no signs of getting together or of doing anything to make good their "intentions." Whether this McKinley law that produced it. That is is because they have lapsed back into apathy, or have imagined that they have accomplished their ends by shutting off further criticism, we are of course in no position to know. Nor do we particularly wish to know. Nor do we particularly wish to know. All that is apparent is the fact that the matter is being ignored once more and treated as a dead issue, But if the packers entertain for a moment the hope that the Astorian has deceive its readers. This country was exceedingly prespersons until the day before that panic came, size 50c, and 31.

The blackmand mining interest is reviving in tale section again and although there have been os many failures heretory force in saving the gold from the sand, it came from the world, and which made the suspension of specie payments by the Bank of England, but the removal from London of the commercial capita of the taken. The effect was instant parreal or affected, of the canners we feet disposed to give the names they ask for doubts the fact that it is a hard matter to get these men to pull together on any proposition under the sun. Many of them are too sordid and selfish to take up common cause for the accomplishment of any reform whatever. But we cannot help thinking that when two of the most prominent men among them. In fact, it was intended as a deception, the brack is reported to have said that no most of with the McKinley tach? The test is far beyond anything he ever than they had with the scien and cedition laws. They declared for raw material and for mighty reductions all along the line of the tariff. The Astorian is making a hard right against this fall fishing abomination, Nobody knows as well as we do how hard this fight really is. But it is a just fight and we have on our side the full strength of the rentiment that demands honear and clean food products or none at all.

Nobody can say that the packers have not been dealt with in a fair and liberal spirit in this matter. They have had ample time to act and they prefer to waste that time in senseless abuse and attempt after attempt to stave off trouble. Some of them have conducted a bie. Some of them have persistent scheme of vilification against the Astorian not only in some disreputation. It may be that be is right, as to the near future. The rallway mail service has been of inencumble advantage in the past, but it may have to give way to the telegraph as the pack morse made way for the stage coach, and that in turn retired before the railroad train.

THE POOR MAN'S TARIFF.

No doubt the people of the United States have experienced a sense of rest-ful satisfaction in the surcease which they have had for several months from ticians and repeated ad nauseam by the press for more than half a score of years. But if anyone imagines that the subject has been disposed of for good he is greatly mistaken. When the Democratic majority in congress succeeded in passing the Wilson bill, as altered in the senate, the country at large was fisposed to give the measure a fair trial, notwithstanding the fact that the president refused to sign it and mide a frantic effort to keep the agitation alive with the hope of securing changes in the bill during the short segment of congress that followed. But president required to the relief of which the Bitters are peculiarly adapted. In the general vigor begotten of complete diseastion and assimilation, two functions aided by this auxiliary of health, the nerves of course share. Nervous people should use it steadily, not at uncertain intervals. The billous and constipated, and those troubled with masion of congress that followed. But constituted, and those troubled with ma neither the people at large nor Mr. Cleve- laria, rheumatism and kidney trouble mointer the people at large nor Mr. Cleve-land's own party would listen to the proposition to reopen the discussion at that time. It was the desire of everyone outside of the Cleveland-Wilson clique to give the subject a rest, and to give the new schedules a trial, as already said.

But there are reasons for believing that the attention of the country is likely to be directed at an early day to the practi-cal working of the new law, especially in cal working of the new law, especially in regard to the effect upon the imports of manufactured merchandise. This is cer-train to reopen the discussion of the econ-omic and fiscal principles in dispute bewharfage at that port.
