FINING A WAY OUT

The Waterworks Muddle to be Cleared Up.

COURTS TO THE RESCUE

Receiver Hahn's Appointment is Upheld and the Bondsman Have Decided to Complete the Contract.

The plain and complete statement of a case in connection with the water works muddle that appeared in yesterday's Astorian had the effect of giving the public full and complete knowledge of the real state of affairs for the first time, and was welcomed on all sides as explaining the situation fully. Among the people whose eyes were opened by the disclosure of the muddle were a great many of the laborers who have been thrown out of employment by the stoppage of the work. They came down town very early in the morning and crowded the offices of various attorneys to find out what it all meant. John Hahn, as the newly appointed receiver, also came in for a good deal of attention. Many of them seemed to find consolation in standing in front of his store all day and watching all his movements. At noon the receiver of the board of water at the top of the hill, which has been kept open for the past few days, dispensing hard labor to a few of the lucky ones, announced that he had decided to close up, and at 2 o'clock all the doors and windows of the place were securely battened. About a hundred of the men looked at the receiver with an air of indifference, though they knew that if meant the taking away of their last chance of getting any more food. A representative of the laborers there was found in the afternoon and found that the reports which have been brought to the city, concerning the starving condition of several laborers there, are well founded. There are fully thirty men who have not tasted food for three days, and many more have gone hungry for forty-eight hours. Their situation is every hour getting more deplorable, and the general impression seems to be that the recently appointed "labor receiver" of the city council should at once turn them into a relief committee to supply these starving people with food. After the board of water was closed down, a great many of the men stood around on the street corners all over town and discussed the situation in an orderly manner. One crowd of men gathered in front of the Astorian office. It numbered fifty or sixty men. Mayor Kinney, coming along down Commercial street, found himself in the middle of this impromptu meeting, and taking the station at a telegraph pole, proceeded to express his views about things in general and about the foreign laborer in particular. He told them that if they didn't like the country the best thing for them to do was to get out of it, and advanced several other vigorous opinions of a like character which were not calculated to afford the men much consolation. They took it all very patiently, even when the mayor opened his mouth to say that he had given orders to the police to throw them off the streets if they congregated about in groups any longer, and that he "was about full of such work."

Yesterday afternoon one of the gas mains on Duane street burst and in a few minutes the air was filled with the odor of escaping gas. A still alarm was turned in and the chemical engine company promptly responded, but their services were not needed. The pipes were soon filled with dirt by the workmen and further escape of gas prevented.

The Oregonian in commenting on Prof. Riddell and his lecture on "Blunders of Life as Seen by the Humorist," says: "It was a philosophical discourse, highly humorous, and completely captivated the popular fancy." Hundreds of Portland's best people who have followed the professor in an interesting discussion, highly declare they have never heard his equal. Everyone should hear him in the M. E. Church Monday eve. Seats free.

UPPER ASTORIA SOCIAL.

The Upper Astoria Social Club held a meeting at O'Brien's Hall in Upper Astoria, Clatsop county, Oregon, Wednesday evening, Sept. 27. The program was rendered: Reading, Thos. Irwin; speech, John Mathews; reading, Fred Johnson; song, Mark Kyle; reading, Alfred Schroder; reading, M. Y. Burton; song, Peter Walde; instrumental solo, Chas. Simonson.

A comical farce was then acted by Mark Kyle, Alfred Schroder, Arthur Burton.

The debate of the evening was "Which is the most destructive, alcohol or war?" After an interesting discussion it was decided that war was the most destructive.

The society paper, "Kodak," was then read, which greatly delighted the members, and was continuously applauded.

The club meets every Friday evening at O'Brien's Hall and extends an invitation to all interested in this kind of work. Five new members were enrolled last night.

COMIC OPERA AT FISHER'S OPERA HOUSE.

Following is a criticism from the Tacoma Daily News of the performance of the Mikado, as given by the Casino Opera Company, which begins an engagement in this city Friday evening next. "The third performance of Mikado by the Casino Opera Company, last evening, met with the same warm reception as the evening before and even a larger audience. From the rise to the fall of the curtain the production was meritorious in every particular. All the tuneful solos and duets in the opera were well rendered and proved that the company's claim to good and well-traded voices was well justified. The success of the production was heightened by the fact that new and special scenery was provided."

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

To the Editor:—In view of the extreme necessities of the water works laborers the action of Herman Wise and others in giving them some temporary relief from starvation seems most commendable and necessary, and it seems surprising that any should be found so destitute of sympathy for these poor fellows as not only to withhold such assistance, but to condemn and discourage the same in others. We hope such heartless attitude will be far from general. MANY CITIZENS.

WORTHY OF NOTICE.

There is nothing but bold, clear-cut truth in the statement that to secure peace of mind and style in your shoes at the lowest reasonable price—your must go to the firm of John Hahn & Co., 473 Commercial street.

Acts at once, never fails. One Minute Cough Cure. A remedy for asthma, and that feverish condition which accompanies a severe cold. The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Chas. Rogers.

them for the completion of the water works at the appraised value. In addition to this it was also stipulated that the receiver should pay to the bondsmen the $150 claimed by them in the commission. Needless to say, this new turn in the affair has awakened considerable anxiety in the minds of several assignee claimants whose previous outlook for the recovery of one hundred cents on the dollar had been so promising, and who now will have to submit their "little" preferred claims to the cold scrutiny of the law. The whole tendency of the present situation seems to strengthen the belief that the laborers will not only get their wages in full, but that the remaining proceeds will be fairly and equitably distributed among all the other honest creditors of the Pacific Paving Co.

The effect of the day's court proceedings, detailed above, will be to bring the money heretofore in the hands of the commission into court where it must be followed by the various assignee claimants who will thus be compelled not only to prove the satisfaction of the court by attorneys for the claimants, but to submit to such adjudications thereupon as Judge McBride may see fit to determine. FINE BARGAINS IN REAL ESTATE. We have choice property in Van Duane, Astoria, Adair's, Shively's, McCann's, Taylor's, New Astoria, Warrenton and Astoria Addition to Warrenton for sale. Also money to loan in sums of $200 to $5,000 on good real estate security. R. L. BOYLE & CO.

REWARD. Is offered by C. Mortenson, of Astoria, to anyone furnishing information concerning the whereabouts of Harry Schrader, that may lead to his recapture. Schrader was one of the number who broke jail at Astoria and escaped. Schrader is a Dane by birth speaks English tolerably well; is about 5 feet 5 inches tall; stout built, weighing about 165 pounds; is fleshy, round featured, has dark hair and moustache, and blue eyes. Schrader has probably gone to the hop fields, where he is acquainted, but will, in all probability, try to get out of the way by some vessel and is apt to be found around sailor boarding houses for that purpose.
