SOCIETY EVENTS.

The Rebekahs Entertain Their Friends Most Successfully.

Last night in Odd Fellows' Hall a beautiful concert and ball was given by Rebekah Lodge. The elite of the city were present and the entertainment throughout was of a most successful nature.

It is now four months since Gateway Rebekah Lodge, No. 77, I. O. O. F., was instituted, and last evening the members gave their first series of socials, and the outlook for which, judged by last night's entertainment, will undoubtedly prove most successful.

The concert was an attractive one, and embraced numbers by many of Astoria's best vocal and instrumental musicians. The concert was presided over by Mrs. R. M. Scott, the talented N. G. of the lodge, who welcomed both members and their friends in a most cordial manner.

After the introductory remarks the first number on the musical part of the program, a piano solo by Mr. T. M. Lighter, was announced. The selection was a happy one, and was warmly applauded.

Following this was a trio by the popular Astoria singers, Messrs. Belcher, Bennett and Garner, which was enjoyed by all.

Next the audience were favored by a duet by the Messrs. Kate Grant and Jessie Jewett, both members of the lodge, which was pretty and well rendered, as was also the next piece, a vocal solo by Miss Gustie Gray, which received a well-merited encore.

Miss Edith Conn then delighted her hearers by the mastery way in which she rendered an extremely difficult setting of the old Scotch air "Ye Banks and Braes."

The next piece on the program was a vocal solo by Miss Ruth Garner, whose singing was, as usual, quite captivating.

The first part of the program was brought to a conclusion by a well-rendered solo upon the violin by Professor Frank Thomson, who was most ably accompanied by Miss Conn.

The chairs were then removed and dancing indulged in till nearly midnight. The music, which was on a grand scale, was by Professors Thomson and Navoni, was all that could be desired and everybody present appeared to have had a real good, old-fashioned time.

GRACE CHURCH. The Rev. Mr. Murphy Preached to a Large Congregation.

Both morning and evening services at Grace Church Sunday were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Murphy of Moscow, Idaho. The large congregations enjoyed the services as well as the good music by the choir and the excellent discourses of the preacher.

Mr. Murphy is a young man of dark complexion, quick, earnest speech, and his delivery is of a high order. His sermon in the morning was on "The Christian's Duty," beautifully expressed, but for the most part couched in such simple language that even the children could tell what he meant after they returned home from service.

His theme was taken from I Kings, 18:21, "and after that the earthquake, and the Lord was not in the fire; and after the fire a still, small voice." In a very forcible and eloquent manner the preacher showed that the higher character, but rather the steady growth, as of the oak from the small acorn, the faithful adherence to the still, small voice and the daily striving after that higher thing that develops christianity in the man and promotes the growth of the church throughout the world.

COL HUGHES RETURNED On Sunday From His Trip to the Idaho Mountains.

Sunday morning Col. E. C. Hughes returned from his visit in Idaho, where he spent several weeks hunting over the hills with his faithful hunting dog, and that he had a splendid outing, game of all kinds being plentiful. The weather was fine and a game of golf in health made from enjoying the excellent sport. He reports business in a flourishing condition with prospects of great improvement.

While in Boise he sold to an English syndicate for $100,000. This is a new mine and promises rich returns of the year made daily from Boise to the smelters at Denver, and Idaho is destined to soon be one of the great mining states.

The Astoria Land and Investment Co. have just issued in two colors a handsome pamphlet descriptive of Astoria, which is being sent all over the country by the thousands.

SOME COMPLAINT HAD BEEN MADE BY citizens as to the recent advance made in the price of milk, and the prominent dealers stated yesterday that he did not think there was any cause for complaint on the part of the public. The prices at which milk was served all summer entailed an actual loss upon the dealers and the prices now proposed are only a slight advance and will permit of only fair living profits.

IN UPPERTOWN there is a family of considerable social standing, which its members regard jealously, but all of them have a decided fondness for beer, and they rush the growler in an ingenious way. They place the bucket in a basket and put down the lid. This basket goes up and down the street a number of times every day, and people in the neighborhood wonder why it is that that family goes to market so much.

The Casino Opera Company will appear at Fisher's Theatre Friday and Saturday of this week. Friday evening they are to sing Mikado and on Saturday Pinafore will be given. Judging from newspaper comments and from the opinions of all who have seen this organization, it is first-class in every particular, and its appearance here presents everyone with an opportunity, which should be profited by, to enjoy a short season of high-class comic opera.

"There are tricks in other things than trades," remarked an observing citizen the other day as a gentleman stood in front of the Astorian office trying to light his cigar in the breeze that was blowing. "If that fellow would open his hands a trifle in back of the match that the air might circulate he would find it an easy matter to hold the flame. By closing the hands tightly behind the suction of the air puffs out the blaze every time."

She was tall—not divinely tall—but tall for all that, and wore some sort of a sweeping Du Maurier skirt that detracted nothing from the length of her. Her face bore the expression of one who could no longer be shocked by the vanities of the world. Her lips were red as Mayberries, while an exquisite stain illuminated either cheek. With one hand resting gracefully upon the back of a chair, and the other tending with a little jewel at her bosom, she stood—a picture of perfect womanhood, but alas! she was heard to say as she swept through the drooping portieres, "I'll now go and chew!"

Messrs. Morton, Hall and Westward returned yesterday from Crooked Creek, where they went hunting for bear—and other game. Not a bear could be found, and only a few ducks. It is told that while Westward was asleep in his boat, watching his decoy ducks, the steamer Miller came up stream and one of the passengers, taking in the situation, fired several shots at the decoys, which as startled the drummer that he imagined he had bagged a whole flock of ducks. His pleasure was soon dissipated, however, by the snout of the disturbers of his peace.

It is learned from St. Paul that the program at St. Luke's Episcopal church during the Episcopal convention has not been fully arranged yet, but it is known that among those who will preach are Bishop Niles, of New Hampshire, Bishop Tabot, of Idaho, Bishop Millsaps, of Kansas, Bishop Coleman, of Delaware. Several prominent preachers are also on the program. Bishop Niles, of New Hampshire, who celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary as bishop last Saturday, was a college classmate of Rev. E. J. Purdy, associate rector of St. Luke's church, and has agreed to preach for him October 13. There still seems to be some doubt as to whether Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, the presiding bishop, will be able to attend the convention or not, but Bishop Doane has gone to visit him in the city of Astoria, Oregon, within thirty days from the 26th day of September.
