A lady yesterday speaking of late styles, said: Part of one's costume which is by no means unimportant, is the veil. There is a something about it which provides a very pleasing finishing touch to the toilet. The handkerchief net veil is of rather light net, with real lace design covering the entire surface. They are very pretty in the hand, very costly and very becoming, which will render them unpopular, as their damaging effect upon the eyes is inconceivable.

Yesterday a prominent society lady, in talking of receipts, gave the following as reasonable and toothsome: Tomatoes were used in the salad, the tomatoes, smooth tomatoes; cut them in halves; scoop out the seeds and juice without breaking the pulp; seal the juice enough to strain out the seeds. Fill the tomatoes with the mixture and place a half tomato on a round of bread, buttered. Put them in a shallow pan and bake ten minutes, or until the bread is browned.

Professor Riddell's Lecture Last Night.

"Love, Courtship and Marriage," was the interesting theme with which Prof. N. N. Riddell, Ph. D., entertained a crowded audience in the M. E. Church last night. The lecture was handled in a new, amusing and original manner, that completely captivated all and added much to the popularity that the professor has already gained among the lecturers of Astoria.

The speaker in opening cited the well established fact in history of the rise and fall of nations keeping even pace with the rise and fall of the women. What is true of nations is true of the individual. When the mother is kept down, allowed no independence, or freedom, and the children going out from such a home are weak, lacking in self-restraint, and the easy tool to the selfishness of others. Elevate the mother, and the reverse is the case.

Love was the first word of the text, and was defined from the poetic, scientific, philosophical and most every other angle. Love is a product of life, and we organized persons have the love element strong. Love is a blind instinct and it is bound to center somewhere, it is most near, it will center on the base and low.

Courtship was defined as sparking, which was aptly illustrated by the speaker. There are very few who can spark on all lines, but the average couple meet together on two or three, and on these they exchange their love letters. There are some people who are one-half married, two-thirds, and about as high as we ever get, is seven-eighths. There are some grave mistakes made in courtship; these we have people who are one-half married, two-thirds, and about as high as we ever get, is seven-eighths. more or less disturbance. One thing that should be guarded against in marriage is in keeping all the sweet and kind things we feel for the companion until they pass beyond the veil. Would you invest your sunniest smiles, and the best of your life where it would do the most good, take it to the home. The way to avoid the first quarrel is never to have the first one. Thousands of good homes are made unhappy by little jars over little things, a "sting" and "let it be". The law of justice is a high one but that of forgiveness is higher and needs to be practiced in the home to keep and maintain happiness.

At the close of the lecture a great deal of entertainment was occasioned by the professor conducting a double phonological wedding. Tonight the lecture will be on "Two Hundred Points in Reading Faces," and will be thoroughly illustrated.

AT THE WATER WORKS. Men at Work, and More Will Follow Today.

As was anticipated, there was no trouble yesterday morning at the reservoir in which the work was resumed by Contractor Burke. All the men who could be utilized, both on the reservoir and the power house, worked all day. The Italian workmen, who were the most of them being scattered through the city during the day, but conducted themselves in a quiet and peaceable manner.

Mr. Burke encountered another difficulty yesterday when the large number of men started in to work. It was discovered that some of the men had no tools at hand. Inquiry revealed the fact that Behm and Hanshaw had shipped to an asphalt company in Portland nearly all of the tools, mauls, shovels, picks, crowbars and wheelbarrows. This loss of course falls upon the receiver, Mr. Burke will at once secure an additional supply.

The Shively matter was yesterday finally settled satisfactorily, as was indicated in yesterday's Astorian would be done, and there will be no more difficulty about securing material. Although the efficient guard of police were on duty during the day, their services were not required. The prompt action of the department under the mayor's instructions no doubt prevented rash action on the part of some of the more hot-headed laborers, for which they would "fairly" have been sorry. With the exception of the dozen or fifteen Italians who left up the river Wednesday and about as many more who went to Portland last night, all of them will go to work on the pipe line today. During the day they were all very busy at the office of the various notices public making out their claims for back wages which were filed in court, thus indicating their willingness to let the law take its course.

A full force of men will commence work on the tunnel again this morning, and soon all branches of construction on the water works plant will be running as smoothly as though there had been no difficulty.

In speaking of the events of the past few days, the speaker said that he wanted to explain some remarks made by him in the water commissioners' meeting Tuesday evening. When he stated that he considered the proposition to be made when they refused him permission on demand the first morning he attempted to go to work, he says he referred only to the two officers who were on duty at the reservoir, whom he thought at the time to be of the regular force and stationed there for general purposes. Had he known that they were special deputies placed there for a specific purpose he would not have been so indignant.

THE 12TH STREET SEWER LABORERS. Editor Daily Astorian—

My attention has been called to a statement made by
