

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called soothing syrups, and other remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are powerful narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Fisher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, has issued exclusive right to Dr. Fisher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proved to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

SHIPPING DAY BY DAY

Marine Matters, Here, There and Everywhere.

The George Curtis goes out tomorrow.

The San Jose goes to sea again this morning.

The pilot schooner Loyal went out yesterday, re-provisioned.

The Pass of Brander shipped a crew of 24 men yesterday morning. She leaves out for Queenstown today.

The Signal will be down the river from Portland tonight. She will leave out as early as possible tomorrow morning.

The steamer Elmora arrived in at 11 o'clock last night, with 19 tons of dairy produce and 500 cases of salmon from Tillamook.

The Telephone left at 11:30 last night, having visited several hours for the accommodation of the Tonnage Theatrical Company.

The steamer Harrison is on the beach near Hanthorn's cannery having her stern bearings repaired. She will leave out for Sitka tomorrow.

The Tumnian arrived down yesterday morning and is now loading 200 sacks of wheat out of a barge at the O. R. and N. dock. She will finish her cargo and drop out into the stream this afternoon.

The Galgata has not yet been chartered though every effort is being made by her owners and agents to get her a cargo. Meantime, her men are working hard getting ready to repair her from top to bottom.

The American Forest Comedy Company had an expatriating experience on the front yesterday, says the Chronicle. The members were booked to appear at San Rafael in the evening and a large audience was expected. From San Rafael the company was to go to Petaluma and thence by easy stages to Headsburg. The manager failed to appear with the necessary cash and the players were stranded. Late in the evening the female members of the troupe went to the wheel and under the supervision of an officer took away what things they actually required. The trunks and scenery were held for money due the Stockton steamer.

Chief Government Weigher Rhodes and Deputy Surveyor Samuel Ruddle developed quite a sensation on the water front yesterday afternoon by having Captain Fraser and Mate Melike, of the ship Swandilla, arrested for conspiring to defraud the government out of customs duties on coal. The ship brought a cargo of coal from Newcastle. The men were released on bonds of $100 each, as the amount involved was less than $1, being something above two tons of coal at 40 cents duty per ton. Two thousand tons of the coal were consigned to Baltimore, Ontario & Co., and as many consigned to the government. The captain explained of losses they could not account for, a close watch was kept on all carts leaving the ship. Finally two cart loads of coal were seen being driven away in a suspicious manner, and when the drivers were accosted by the government officers they said the mate had given them orders for coal to take to outside persons, whose names they gave. The mate was at once arrested, whereupon Captain Fraser said: "That's all right, for I gave the mate orders to do so. Without further ceremony the captain also was arrested. The mate admitted that he had been supplying outside parties with coal from various consignments, but always on the understanding that they were to pay the duties, but that they never were done so. The persons who received the coal will probably be arrested today. Besides the government's grievance the consignees have one, and the ship owners also allege that they have been defrauded out of their freight. Similar charges were made two years ago, when, for a period of many months, there were numerous complaints that vessels arriving were short from twenty to fifty tons on their billed consignments. All efforts to learn what became of the coal which thus disappeared were futile. It is now believed that a thorough investigation of the old cases would implicate many captains and mates. Coal taken from ships must be accompanied by a certificate of weight as a rule, but in the mate in the case in question waived that by telling the boy who gives the certificates, "That man is all right. You need not give him any ticket," and in this way would pass without detection."—San Francisco Call.

WOMAN AN EXPLORER.

The African Steamship Company's royal mail steamer Niger, which arrived at Liverpool on October 19 from South-West Africa, and the Congo, brought particulars of the explorations of Miss Kingsley, niece of the late Canon Kingsley.

At Cameroons Miss Kingsley applied to the German authorities for carriers to take her over the Cameroons Mountains. This great chain has an altitude of 11,200 feet, and probably has never been explored thoroughly before. The governor was compelled to refuse Miss Kingsley's request, as he could not get carriers to ascend the mountains; and, moreover, he warned her that the natives were in an excited state, and would probably murder her, if not killed, any one entering their territory. Miss Kingsley then proceeded on the Niger to Victoria, where she was landed on September 10. The German governor of the place gave her all assistance, and before the steamer left a number of carriers were secured to take her up the Cameroons Mountains. Miss Kingsley intended to go overland to Rio del Rey to the English factory of the Anglo-Berlin Trading company. She is unattended by any white companions. Although she had undergone some exciting adventures, Miss Kingsley was in good health and hopes to be successful in her explorations of the Cameroons Mountains.—Philadelphia Press.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

Something about the Greatest Institution of Its Kind in the World.

(Paris Register.)

On the 27th of last July the Bank of England reached its 200th birthday. It is the oldest bank in the world. In its early days the bank employed 24 clerks, and the year's salary list amounted to but little over 20,000, the chief accountant being the bank's cashier. At present the number of employees is 1,500. No note of the 50,000 or so issued daily is ever issued again. Each note as it is paid in is cancelled and accounted for in kind or its value. One of the curiosities of the bank is a £5 note which was paid in after being out 111 years. In the bank vaults for years past have been preserved a £1,000,000 banknote which was once issued for convenience in a transaction involving a large amount of money. Whether or not the bank has ever issued a note of that kind is not known. On a certain day for six months the bank and number of notes were advertised, and at the end of that time a Jew appeared with them and demanded that they be paid. On being refused he went to the exchange and raised saying that the bank had refused to pay its own notes it must be insolvent, that the bank called him back and paid him the full amount of the note. Another year later the man having died in the meantime, the first note was presented at the bank for payment and the bank stood the loss. The note being paid, the man's nothing could be recovered. Clerks of standing and character are selected to remain at the bank every night of the year and on Sundays and bank holidays. A guard of soldiers is on duty every night, and they are assisted by a body of watchmen consisting of porters and workmen fully trained how to act in case of an emergency.

DRUMMER AND THE GLUE.

The hard-luck drummer, who had not done any business all day, was seated in front of the only hotel the town boasted of, waiting vigorously at a Pittsburgh stage and trying to write down the orders he had not taken with a pencil that had no point to it.

"Get a knife," he inquired of the rural representative sitting opposite him.

The man handed over a suspicious-looking piece of black cutlery, with one blade in it. The drummer tried to open it in the ordinary way, but only succeeded in putting a beautiful fringe on his shirt tail. Then he went at it with the other blade, and sent a cold chill down his spinal column similar to that produced by chewing a piece of sand paper.

"I beg your pardon," said he frankly, turning to the owner of the knife, "but have you any objection to my throwing this thing against the building over there; that's the way we used to open a knife like this when I was a boy?"

"Waal, yes," replied the man of agricultural knowledge, stroking the Spanish words on the handle of the knife. "The fellow who owns the blade might kick." The drummer seriously, "have you ever had this knife open?"

"Yes."

"When?"

"About seven years ago."

"Yes, sir," went on the farmer, with a broad grin. "I stirred a pot of glue with that air knife one time, and forgot to wash the glue off. I closed it, so, so, like this when I was a boy?"

"Do you ever indulge in anything to drink?" interrupted the drummer.

"Waal, generally, when any person borrows my knife."

And as the two started into the bar together the drummer chuckled: "That's a good idea. Guess I'll get a knife and some glue myself."

IN SELF-DEFENSE

You ought to keep your feet up. Disease will follow, if you let it get below a healthy standard. No matter how this comes, you need not Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is the greatest flesh-builder known to medical science, far surpassing starchy cod-liver oil and all its nasty compounds. It's suited to the most delicate stomach. It makes the morbidly thin plump and rosy, with health and strength.

A SWEET REVENGE

Spare Moments—A man with a painful expression of countenance sat on a dry goods box.

"Are you ill?" some one asked.

"No."

"Have you lost anything?"

"Never had anything to lose."

"What's the matter, then?"

"I'm sitting on a wasp."

"Why don't you get up?"

"Well, that was my first impulse, but I got to thinkin' that I was hurtin' me, and I concluded to sit here awhile."

thinness

The diseases of thinness are scrofula in children, consumption in grown people, poverty of blood in either. They thrive on leanness. Fat is the best means of overcoming them. Everybody knows cod-liver oil makes the healthiest fat.

In Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil the taste is hidden, the oil is digested, it is ready to make fat.

When you ask for Scott's Emulsion and you get a fishy taste in a package in a salmon-colored wrapper with the picture of the man and fish on it—you can trust that man!

80 cents and $1.00. Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York.

Remember these

For shortening never use more than two-thirds as much Cottolene as you would of lard. When frying with Cottolene always put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene produces the best results when very hot, but as it reaches the cooking point much sooner than lard, care should be taken not to let it burn—when hot enough, it will delicately brown a bit of bread in half a minute.

Directions for using Cottolene

Genuine Cottolene is sold everywhere in this with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and "Star" and is called "Plant or Earth"—on every tin.
