MR HANNAPORD TO REMAIN.

The Oregonian says: "Mr. J. M. Hannapord will continue to be general traffic manager of the Northern Pacific railroad, dispatches and newspaper reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Mr. Hannapord has declined the vice-presidency of the Erie system, regarding which overtures were made to him. It is a fact not generally known that several months ago proposition was made to Mr. Hannapord by the Erie people, which if it had been accepted, would have made it necessary for him to relinquish his position with the Northern Pacific. Lately these overtures were renewed. Much gratification is expressed among the Northern Pacific officials over Mr. Hannapord's determination to stay. The traffic manager has a strong personality, which has won many friends for him during his connection with the big transcontinental line."

The Society Minerva held their regular meeting at their hall in Upper Astoria last night. The following program was rendered: Address by G. Bellamy, reading, O. G. Setnam, song, Chris. Johnson, reading, Anton Sundstad; recitation, O. Colmonson; reading of the society's paper, "Foreman" A. T. Brant.

Here is a good illustration of the rule of life which is adopted by some of our successful men. Three gentlemen, all hungry after a long day's sport, and only two grouse on the table. The carrier put his fork into one of these, removed it to his own plate, and remarked: "Gentlemen, I want fair play and mean to have it. There is the grouse for you, and here is this grouse for me, too."

Yesterday's Oregonian says: John Burke, who, with W. A. Roggin and Municipal Judge Smith, has been completing the Astoria water works for the original contractor, Messrs. Hammett & Co., is in the city. The reservoir is about completed, and the water will be turned into it in a day or two. The pipe line from the reservoir to the city is not yet completed, there being some 40 feet of the tunnel yet to be excavated.

FOR THE FIRST TIME.

Not a Drop of Liquor in Astoria Yesterday.

For the first time in the history of Astoria on election day not a drop of any kind of liquor could be purchased yesterday anywhere in the city. Through the command of the Astoria Dealers' Association, every saloon, back and front doors, hotel barrooms, restaurants, drug stores, groceries, and the clubs, were all isolated and tightly closed to all customers.

An election day without the influence of the bottle, and without the sight of gangs of half intoxicated men and ward heelers is a novelty in Oregon and an unheard of thing in Astoria. It was hard to find a man on the streets yesterday with even a sign on his face of having met with any one's overcoat bottle.

No upstairs rooms or side streets or lodging houses could be discovered yesterday by the disappointed searcher for wet goods, and even the members of the Irving Club were denied admittance to their own quarters. The closing up was thorough and complete, and great credit is due to the action of the Association so thoroughly and consistently carried out.

Dated this 11th day of December, A. D. 1896. B. L. WARD, Treasurer of Clatsop Co.

CARNIVAL OF NATIONS.

Prof. Beggs' entertainment, to be given at Fisher's Opera House tomorrow night will be the starting National club. A surprise is in store for the Astoria public and those who are on the inside are authority for the prediction that never before has anything like it been seen in this part of the country. The performance will be given entirely by Prof. Beggs' class of seventy-five fancy dancers and five young ladies from Astoria.

The costumes, both ancient and modern, will be brilliant and the stage effects, together with new special scenery for the occasion, will be startling. National club, after dances, sentimental, character and comic songs, the march of nations, sword dances, reels, sailors' hornpipe, Highland fling, Amazon drill, Spanish skirt dance, the Erinna Gavotte, minuet, and other novel features too numerous to mention, will follow one another in kaleidoscopic rapidity.

No tickets will be sold on the streets and no extra charge for reserved seats will be made. Tickets for sale at the New York Novelty store at 25 and 27 cents.

SENATIONAL MURDER CASE.

The Opening Statement in the Hearne Trial.

Bowing Green, Mo., Dec. 11.—The trial of Dr. Hearne, for the murder of Amos J. Stillwell, the millionaire packer, who was mysteriously killed seven years ago at Hannibal, began today. It was a struggle of unusual bitterness. The jury was secured and sworn today. Out of the twelve men, nine are farmers, and the other three are mechanics.

In the opening statement of the prosecution, the case, beginning with the trip made east by Stillwell, when he first met and married the woman now known as Hannah, began. He was over fifty years old and she a girl of 22. He brought her to Hannibal and installed her in his home and she was at once recognized as the mother of the child. In Hannibal there was Joseph C. Hearne, a doctor, married.

As time went on Dr. Hearne's wife died and he became a widower. He had an old man's darling. She said frequently to friends that she wished she had a young husband, a strong man like Dr. Hearne. Dr. Hearne heard of this and began paying her attentions so marked that people commented on it. The relations of Dr. Hearne and Mrs. Stillwell became so intimate that it was watched and caught them. Mrs. Stillwell told friends that Dr. Hearne had hypnotized her so that she could not give him up. The relations grew so scandalous that it cropped into the papers, and then came the murder after Mr. and Mrs. Stillwell had returned from a card party.

WHAT THEY SAY OF US.

English Comment on the Proposed Bay and Impeachment.

London, Dec. 11.—The Evening Standard, in a criticism of the proposed Bay and Impeachment, says: "The pertinence of party warfare in the United States was never more clearly displayed than in the case of the proposed Bay and Impeachment. The good will of all classes here. The United States has always been singularly fortunate in the selection of its ambassadors to Great Britain. Edward, Belcher, of Mississippi, was the foremost rank. This petty outburst of spite on the part of a political clique will not tend to increase our feeling of respect for Americans."

HOUSE COMMITTEES.

May Possibly Be Announced This Week.

Washington, Dec. 11.—There seems to be a possibility that the house may announce tomorrow the names of the members of the committee on the proposed Bay and Impeachment.

Speaker Reed has experienced more difficulty than was anticipated in making up the membership of the committee, owing to the lack of personal acquaintance with the new members, of whom there are 123. The committee will probably not be announced till the latter part of next week.

APPOINTMENTS MADE.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The following appointments for the house were made today: F. Hemstead, Pennsylvania, newspaper clerk, at $2,000, in the clerk's office of the house; Edward, Belcher, of Mississippi, bookkeeper in the sergeant-at-arms' office; Winthrop Johns, of Detroit, deputy sergeant-at-arms, at $2,000.

CHAS. ROGERS.

For the first time in the history of Astoria on election day not a drop of any kind of liquor could be purchased yesterday anywhere in the city. Through the command of the Astoria Dealers' Association, every saloon, back and front doors, hotel barrooms, restaurants, drug stores, groceries, and the clubs, were all isolated and tightly closed to all customers.

VICTORY.

There were many interesting characteristics in the voting that brought about the above result yesterday. Several members of the police force had far forgot themselves in the excitement of their surroundings that they were out working openly for Kieber Osburn and Dr. Kinney. The Third Ward men, however, with a splendid majority all around, with the exception of the police commissioner, and the result was due to the excellent organization of the workers in that part of the city who had all in their power to accomplish the result. The members of the Republican central committee, with Dr. J. A. Fisher and deserve the thanks of every Republican in the city.

The Astorian bulletin boards were a center of attraction soon after the polls were posted up at regular intervals the crowd let loose their enthusiasm freely. The councilmen were named down with a splendid majority all around, with the exception of the police commissioner, and the result was due to the excellent organization of the workers in that part of the city who had all in their power to accomplish the result. The members of the Republican central committee, with Dr. J. A. Fisher and deserve the thanks of every Republican in the city.

As soon as the final results were announced, the excitement of the Republican victory, the cheering and the cheering was continuous from one end of the town to the other. Over at the Republican ward the candidates collected together in the presence of a crowd that filled the hall, and a few short spirited addresses were made. Frank J. Taylor was lifted onto the platform and as soon as he reached it the audience went wild with delight. The other candidates met with a similar ovation, and Mr. Pulton told the meeting "how it happened." Frank Parker was so hoarse with cheering that he could only smile in response to his remarks. The whole thing was a jubilee, a spontaneous outburst of enthusiastic joy over a victory that presaged so many weighty and excellent results.

COSTLY BEDS.

Two Thousand Dollars Cheerfully Paid for Artistic Furniture.

The old Irish question of "What is the size of a piece of chalk?" may be paraphrased: "What is the price of a bedstead?" Two thousand dollars does not seem a large sum for such a piece of furniture, and yet it was cheerfully paid only last night for a bedstead in several of the handsome houses in this city where there are bedsteads which have cost $150.

The foreign style of furnishing bedrooms is much in vogue now, and the single beds have quite taken the place of the double beds. The most superb bedsteads are quite common.

When somebody made known to the world the astounding fact that Julien Gordon (Van Housen) Criger had ordered made for herself a bedstead in the shape of a swan, in white enameled wood, there was quite a sensation, but now swan bedsteads are exhibited by many of the leading firms. They are very graceful, and the curtains held in the swan's beak fall in the most artistic folds.

In some of the high-toned auction rooms are occasionally exhibited antique bedsteads of rare workmanship, but they are not so common as the modern ones, which are claimed to be. Two were bought recently at $1,200 each and now adorn a most luxurious bedroom in one of the new houses on upper Fifth avenue. Marqueterie is to be seen at its best in these bedsteads, and the beauty and workmanship is only equaled by the coloring and pattern of the wood itself.

EMPIRE BEDS, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC.

There is a perfect craze for the Empire beds, and they are becoming scarce on the other side—and, say it softly—are manufactured here. Rare specimens of Veris-Martin are these pieces of furniture, which have been ordered by several of the leading firms. They are very graceful, and the curtains held in the swan's beak fall in the most artistic folds.

The Empire bedsteads stand so low that their heads would not be seen were they not always placed on a dais, and it gives a very picturesque look to the modern bedroom to see the bedstead placed on top of a sort of pedestal, two or three steps, and a mass of soft drapery hanging from a brass ring and drawn back at either side of the headboard.

Mrs. W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Brokaw and Mrs. Barber are all owners of most beautiful bedsteads, which have belonged to dead and long since departed ancestors. They are most wonderful pieces of furniture, headboard, footboard, side pieces, inside of art and being made of iron and steel, and did not think it beneath their dignity to spend their talent on such mundane work as a bedstead. The Empire beds are made in some of the most famous work shops of the world, and a well known call for four-poster bedsteads, and a well known call for better regard that will not easily be assuaged that such treasures should have been ruthlessly chopped up when they were declared out of fashion.

There are, however, very beautiful specimens yet to be had, and certainly nothing can be much handsomer than one of these bedsteads, with the superbly carved and gilded woodwork of fluted silk (which is also again the fashion).

OF HIGH DEGREE.

People who are fortunate enough to have an introduction into the literary and artistic set in London will not be at a loss to know what artist it is who has the reputation of being the most successful and four parts of a wonderful specimen of the wood-carver's art in a bedstead. Few would think that the beautiful posts and railing and ever-seen design, or any other use than the one they are now put to, put the artist is quite willing and glad to tell the fact.

From $300 to $2,000 is quite a long step, and yet for the latter sum such pretty little bedsteads of white enameled iron, with brass trimmings, can be bought, and they will make a room look as dainty and pretty as need be. It may be an age of luxury; it is no less an age when people of modern tastes can have more for less money in the way of furniture and furnishings than ever before, and while thousands of dollars can be spent on one bedstead, it is not absolutely essential either to happiness or to the furnishing of a room.—New York Herald.
