SHIPPING DAY BY DAY

Marine Matters, Here, There and Everywhere.

The British bark Bedfordshire left up for Portland Sunday morning.

The steam schooner South Coast left out for San Francisco yesterday afternoon.

The steamer Alice Blanchard left out yesterday for San Francisco and way ports.

The British bark Glengaber will finish discharging her coal cargo this morning and will be towed up the river tomorrow.

The British bark Glencairn arrived down from Portland yesterday afternoon fully laden with wheat for the United Kingdom.

The weather outside moderated very considerably yesterday evening, and the wind dropped from 28 miles in the morning to 12 miles at 4 p. m. The wires to the Cape were put in working order on Sunday.

The Gloucester fishing fleet, comprising a total of 145 vessels and boats of every description above twenty tons burden, with a tonnage of 22,910 tons, ended the fishing season of 1895 with a total catch of about 71,500 tons, which includes about 2,000,000 pounds marketed outside the home port.

The recent report of the commissioner of navigation gives the total tonnage of the American merchant marine as 4,638,-986 tons, of which 2,421,159 is sailing and 2,212,801 steam tonnage. The great bulk of these vessels are engaged in lake trade, where little or, in the coasting trade, no competition with foreign bottoms exists.

The Melbourne Journal of Commerce says: Tinned salmon has been in brisk demand, cheap brands of Alaska fish at 6s 6d to 6s 9d having most support. Red Alaska has brought 6s 9d to 7s. Skeena river fish, which is worth 7s 3d to 7s 9d, according to brand, has not been in much request, but flat tins have been taken freely.

The captain of the schooner Western Home, which arrived yesterday, makes the following report, says the Call: On January 12 at 12 m. we picked up a sealing boat belonging to the schooner Kate and Anna with Hunter Daniel Claussen, Boat Steerer Carroll and Boat Puller Jacobs, who were lost from their vessel on January 6 during a thick fog. On January 6 they were picked up by the schooner Rio Rey, bound for Bowens Landing, but the next day, the weather being very thick and no chance of getting to Bowens Landing, they left the Rio Rey and started out by themselves, expecting to find some vessel bound for San Francisco. On January 12 they were picked up by the Western Home, and on January 14 at 9 a. m. they left the Western Home, expecting to find their vessel at Drakes Bay or Point Reyes waiting for them.

"Lately the first experiments with a telephonic connection between a warship and the shore were made in Kiel on the guardship Helmdal, and resulted very favorably," says Der Stein Der Weisen (Vienna). "In future, accordingly, it will be possible for all ships that lie near a buoy in Kiel harbor to be connected by telephone, not only with the telephone system of the city, but also with the other ships in the harbor. The central office of the ship telephone sytem is in the torpedo boat. From a small temporary building wires are run through the water to the same buoy, so that the connection is thus made without trouble. If a vessel leaves its buoy it disconnects the wire from the ship's telephone and if it approaches one it makes connection. The communication of the ship with the different port authorities and with the purveyors of provisions, hitherto fraught with so great inconvenience and delay, has by this innovation been greatly facilitated, and it is also of noteworthy use for signaling purposes."

The whaleback steamer City of Everett completed her final passage in the Panama railway line yesterday, and it is said that she will be put in the Australian trade. She brought up about 2,000 tons of freight and left about the same quantity for the Washtenaw. The arrival of the latter steamer will end the Panama railway line of steamers. On the way up from Panama a fatality occurred. On January 8th the steamer was off Manzanillo, and one of the seamen, named Joseph Benson, was standing on the forward part of the ship. The weather was perfectly calm, and how the accident happened is a mystery. By some means or another Benson lost his footing, and as he struck the water the steamer passed over him. He came up astern and started to swim. A boat was lowered and Benson caught the log line to keep himself up. He was too much exhausted to hold up and sank when the boat was only 100 feet away. He slipped on the whaleback at Everett, Wash., six months ago, and was about 25 years of age.—Chronicle.

The pasengers on the steamer Australia, which arrived from Honolulu yesterday, says the Chronicle, had a very rough experience. Ten hours after the big vessel was under way a hurricane came up which lasted until the coast of California was reached. Sea after sea broke over the steamer, and Captain Houdlette is now open to confess that he never knew what a magnificent seaboat the Australia was before this voyage. The seas ran mountains high, and every once in a while one of them would come thundering aboard, flooding the cabins and doing considerable damage. Ten feet above the upper deck were the lifeboats strapped into the davits. One big sea came along and, breaking aboard aft, caught up two of the boats and carried them away in an instant. The crockery and glassware in the pantry suffered considerably, but luckily no one was hurt. "The Australia behaved like the splendid ship she is," said Captain Houdlette yesterday. "During all the time I have been running to the South Seas I never saw such a storm, and yet there never was an instant that there was any danger. Hundreds of tons of water would pour on board from each succeeding wave, but never a bolt gave and there is not a strain from stem to stern. The only serious damage was the loss of our boats."

The Victoria Times prints an interview with a number of the men from the wrecked ship Janet Cowan, in which the men all defend the dead captain of the ship from the charges of drunkenness preferred against him by other members of the crew who were taken to Port Townsend. The Times says: "The men denied it as a cowardly and vile attempt to slander a dead man. They say he took a glass the same as others, but no one ever saw him drunk, and there was no more careful or conscientious man than the captain. He was wholly misled by the mate, who told him there were pilots to be had inside of Cape Flattery and that there was a lightship there. This slander on the captain was made public, the men say, by a man named Cox, who seems to have taken a great deal of the credit of any self-sacrificing deeds to himself. He is reported to have been the most selfish man in the crowd. He was among the first to avail himself of the line strung ashore and the first in at the provisions when they were brought ashore. Cox was found on the beach at Cape Town without money, almost naked and starving. He was taken aboard and fed by the captain, and the crew had subscribed a neat little sum of money to give him a start when he got here, as he was perfectly useless on board the ship."

DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON,

when you ask for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medican Discovery. Go to a reliable dealer. He will sell you what you want. The ones who have something else to urge upon you in its place are thinking of the extra profit they'll make. These things pay "them" better, but they don't care about "you."

None of these substitutes is "just as good" as the "Discovery." That is the only blood-cleanser, flesh-builder and strength-restorer so far-reaching and so unfailing in its effects that it can be "guaranteed." In the most stubborn skin, scalp or scrofulous affections, or in every disease that's caused by a torpid liver or by impure blood—it effects perfect and permanent cures.

Beyond comparison Dr. Price's Baking Powder is the favorite.

Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store, I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again.
