GREAT PHOTOGRAPHY.

What the Wonderful New Invention Ma Show Regarding Things We Afrendy Kang.

"It is an astounding discovery—one of the most marvelous of the present age!"

It was in these words that an eminent scientiat lately referred to the new and wonderful invention in photography which everybody is discussing. This Reat invention, as most people are aware, enables photographers to take pictures of objects completely hidden from the sight. In a recent experiment, for instance, a portrait of a man was secured, although he was separated from the photographer by a three inch partition. Inanother case, a picture was obtained of all the bones, muscles, blood vessels, and all the bones, muscles, blood vessels, as in the bones, muscles, thood vessels, an internal organs in a man's body.

In speaking of this wonderful discovery a well-known New York physiciar recently said: "If thousands of people who are walking the streets today and attending to business could only see photograph of their internal organs, they would be filled with slarm and dread They would see their liver and kidney clogged with impurities and thei blood filled with deadly secretions which poison the whole system. They would see these delicate organs slowly but sure-ly giving way under this coroding poising influence. Oh, what an effect such a picture would have."
