AN IRISHMAN'S LETTER.

The following is a true copy of a letter received from across the water:

Tipperary, Ireland, January 3 My Dear Nephew: I have not heard anything of ye sens the last time I wrote ye. I have moved from the place where I now live, or I should have writern to ye before. I did not know where a letter might find ye fust, but I now take my forward of their own accord a similar certaration with regard to Cuba. And who are their spokesman! Not the younger men in congress, but the pen in hand to drop you a few lines to inform you of the death of your own living uncle, Kilpatrick. He died very suddenly after a long illnes of six months. Poor man, he suffered a gréat deal. He lay a long time in convulsions, perfectly quiet and speechless, all the time talking incoherently and inquiring for water. I am very much at a loss to tell ye what the death was occasioned at, but the doctor thinks it was occasioned by his last sickness, for he was not well ten days during his confinèment, his age praises them as spring chickens its in-formation about the barnyard is as lim-ited as its information about America.

They Lack Life

There are twines sold to fishermen on the Columbia river that stand in the same relationship to Marshall's Twine as a wooden image does to the ASTORIA, human being-they lack strength-life evenness-and lasting qualities. Don't fool yourself into the belief that other twines besides Marshall's will do "just as well." They won't. They cannot.
