The Delay in the Depot Matter Kills a Large Deal, as It Has Many Smaller Affairs.

BETTER TAKE OUR MEDICINE

As There is Little Hope of Any Change This Year and the Sooner All Adjust Bus.ness to That Basis the Less Chagt a and Disappointment Later.

Already some of the direct results a the dallying policy on the depot matter are being felt by Astoria business men. The importance of this question has never at any time been overrated by th er at any time been overrated by the press, and the majority of the citizens have been awake to the situation. If it is decreed by those holding the key to the question, that they will not do any-thing more to further their own interests and the interests of the city generally. there can be no doubt as to the outland Saturday and Monday, and succeed ed in closing out quite a large deal in Astoria lets, involving the transfer of some forty-eight lots on the west side some forty-eight lots on the west side of the bay. A much larger transaction was on the carpet, but after the publication of the result of the last meeting on the depot site, and the copying of this article in the Oregonian, Mr. Stuart was met at the office of the Pertiant company with which he was about to close the deal, with the statement that he had better take his grip sack and go home. They told him that they had to use for Astoria property if the state of affairs existed as set forth in Astoria's local papers. "When it is finally decided local papers. "When it is finally decides to go abred with matters in your town, and your papers say that everything is all right, come back here and we will close the dral with you."

Stuart Brothers naturally feel considerably put out over this matter, but truth is truth, and Asterians perhaps have no one to blame but themselves. Fix the depot matter tomorrow, and there will at once ise such a revival of business here as will make old residenters open their eyes in astonishment. No power on earth can prevent an immediate and wonderful growth both in the city itself and in all branches of business. It is perhaps true that the railroad is an assured fact, and will be built within the limit of time prescribed by the con-tract. But all of the work that remains to be done can be completed in six months time and Astoria might as well have the benefit of this work in 1886 as in 1888. History fails to show an instance where a town having the amount of business already possessed by Astoria, ever falled to give a depot site to a railroad that was willing to bring traffic to it; and in most cases, towns seeking railroad connections have not only pr up subsidies, but have even gone to the extremity of bonding the towniship heav-ily to raise funds as an inducement to the company to build through it.

A play that can survive four dramatic seasons these times must surely have considerable merit. The farce-comedy, "U and I" which was seen here last sea-son and received our unqualified praise has not only survived four seasons, but made them all successful and is now on its fifth four which has proven a more successful season than the four former ventures. The season opened Joly 20th at the Chicago Opera House, and since then the press record shows nothing but a series of triumphs for both play and players; crowded houses and brilliant audiences greeting the company in ever-city in which they have appeared. I and I' is a play that deserves the success it is meeting with, for no more interest ing, clean, wholesome farce-comedy habeen given to the stage.--Chicago Times
