The day was an exceptionally fine one for an Astoria spring and everyone in the city turned out to church. At every service the leading churches were crowded with worshipers and the day was fittingly celberated in each. Owing to the early frosts there were not as many flowers seen amongst the church decorations as usual, but all were tastefully and beautifully trimmed. ORACH CHURCH.

The Episcopal abservance of the day The Episcopal observance of the day commenced with a 5.20 o'clock service in the marning and a 3 o'clock service at floly innocents' chapet, Uppertown. At 11 o'clock the main service at Grace chapeh was held, when the audience room was crowded to its capacity. The anthems rendered were up to the standard of that well-known choir, and the service, from the reading of the fild Testament account of the massaver to its close, was impressive. The rector's address was based on let Cor even, "But now is Christ given from the deal and now is Christ gisen from the dead onlibecome the first fruits of them that slept! and was an eloquent idea for that higher life which should be the alm

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the children's Easter festival filled the church with bright and happy faces in keeping with the day. ROMAN CATHOLIC. At Father Dielman's thurch the usual early service was held and at [6:3] the principal celebration of the day. The church and altar were beautifully decorated with flowers and vines, and the seating capacity of the church was crowded to its utmost. "Stearn's Mass." a most difficult composition, was excel-iently well rendered by the choir, all of its members showing the result of care-ful training. For the offertory the choir gave the Latin hymn "Regina Coeli," in D. from Peter's Mass. At the bene-diction Mrs. M. A. Colton sang an "Ave Maria," by H. Dana. During the col-lection Mrs. Cearns rendered as an or-gan voluntary, "Regina Coeli." The en-tire service was one of unusual impres-siveness, and was given with all of the siveness, and was given with all of the ceremony for which this church is

THE PRESBYTERIANS

The principal service at the Presby-terian church was held in the evening, and the announcement in advance of the musical program packed the audience room to suffocation long before the hour for service arrived. The church was decorated with handsome palms and potted plants, the pulpit and platform being literally covered with vines, flowers, and Easter Illies, while in the choir, over the organ, was hung a large cross of ivy and filles.
The opening voluntary upon the organ was a choice selection of sacred music and a fitting introduction to the rest of the service. Messrs. Ross, Johnson, Gar-ner and Vidslin, rendered the male quartet "Love Divine," with good effect and the voices of several of the members were never heard to better advantage. The duet which followed, by Madame Finck and Mr. Jeurghens, was perhaps the gem of the musical program. The solo given by Mrs. J. F. Ross, "Christ is Risen," showed to good advantage the powers of that lady's voice. The mu-sical part of the service closed with a double quartet, which rounded off the evening's Easter celebration in a pleasing manner. The discourse of the evening by the Rev. Liddell was founded upon 15th chaper of I Corinthins, and was an eloquent appeal to his hearers to embrace the advantages afforded by the event celebrated on Easter. Spring is in itself nature's resurrection day, and Easter is well celebrated in accordance with nature's laws.

THE M. E. CHURCH.

Easter service at the Methodist church was held in the evening, when the audi-ence room was crowded to its limit. The decorations consisting of flowers, vines, Easter lillies and potted plants, were most tastily arranged ubout the pulpit and upon the platform. The en tire day was in fact given over to Easter services, although the principal aermon was delivered in the morning. was delivered in the morning.

In the morning service the discourse was upon the resurrection, and at this service six persons were received into fellowship. At the close of the

The number who do not love the weed is so small that it can't be seen without a microscope. Well, in the first place, there are 664,000 acres devoted to the growth of this filthy weed. And the crop smounts to 500,000,000 pounds in weight, while its value is near-140,000,000. Think of the immense clouds for smoke which arise from this 250,000 tons of tobacco, and think of the enjoyment derived therefrom, also of the rheumanism and nervous prostration and other similar delight which result. We certainly can't get on without tobacco, and especially without the rank poison assisted by an orchestra under the di-rection of Mr. Fred Busey. The choir, composed of Mr. 8.
