MATTERS MARINE.

Notes Picked Up Along the Water Front Yesterday.

The Columbine is still in port.

The schooner Annie Gee arrived at San Francisco Thursday from this port.

Steamer South Coast arrived from Portland yesterday morning, and is taking on lumber at the Claisop Mills.

The ship Pactolus sailed yesterday for Honolulu, where she will load sugar for New York city.

The steamer Harrison arrived in yesterday and docked at Flavel's wharf, where she discharged 94 tons of coal.

The schooner Surprise yesterday discharged the remainder of her cargo of salmon, some 150 barrels, at Flavel's dock.

The United States tender Lincoln arrived from Portland yesterday. She will make surveys at the mouth of the river and near the jetty, regarding the benefits derived from the "stonewall into the sea."

The Oriental steamer Mount Lebanon arrived down the river from Portland yesterday and will probably sail today She has a cargo valued at $71,730 50 for merchants in Honolulu, Yokohama and Chinese ports.

The steamer Queen arrived yesterday from San Francisco with a very large passenger list. She brought up 30 fishermen, who are anxiously awaiting a settlement of the differences between canners and fishers.

The ship Tillie E. Starbuck left up the river yesterday in tow of the Oaklahama. While rounding Tongue Point she ran aground. As the wind was coming from the right direction—west nor'west—she (the ship) bent a few yards of canvass, and, with the steamer tugging away at the hawser, the vessel got off. Have to send the dredger Ladd down this way before long.

It may not be generally known, says the Marine Journal, that every French vessel is required to carry a cat as one of the crew. The refusal of a stowage surveyor to grant a clean certificate in the case of bags of grain holed by rats, on the plea that the owners had failed to include a cat in the ship's company, may seem remarkable. This refusal, however, is strictly in accordance with French law, and practice, and an instance of the kind occurred in a French port a few days since.

Mr. J. O. Hanthorn's new gasoline launch, the Claude R. Hantohrn, arrived yesterday from Seattle, in charge of R. T. Englebrecht, manager of the Seattle Boat and Launch Building Company, at whose yard the little launch was built, under the supervision of Mr. Englebrecht. The launch made the run from Neah bay to this port in seventeen hours, developing a speed of about eight knots in rough water, which is excellent time for a gasoline yacht. It is confidently expected she will make twelve miles on the river. The Hantohrn's dimensions are: Length, 60 feet; beam, 12 feet 5 inches; depth of hold, 5 feet. She is supplied with a 45-horse power Union gas engine, and is built on lines which give her an excellent carrying capacity, as well as speed. Her frame is of oak, and she cost $4,500. She will be used as a cannery tender, but has passenger accommodations. Mr. Claude Hanthorn, in whose honor the launch was named, will command her, and no doubt will have something to say in the sachtha launch race in the August regatta.

The steamship City of Para, which has been transferred from the Atlantic to the Pacific fleet of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, is due here tomorrow, and she will be followed in a few weeks by the steamship Columbia, which is also to come through the Straits of Magellan to join the company's squadron on this seaboard. They are both to go on the Panama route, one to replace the Zealandia, chartered a few months ago from the Oceanic Steamship Company, and the other as an additional vessel to the line, aimed to improve the service. They will be the largest vessels on the line, and their advent marks an epoch in the history of their service. Their coming to the Pacific is a sort of marine family reunion, for the Para is a sister ship of the Rio de Janeiro and the Columbia, a twin of the Peru. The City of Para is bringing a general cargo of freight from the East, and left Newport News on January 25th. She came through the Straits of Magellan and the next heard of her was at Panama, from which port she sailed for San Francisco on March 27th. No advices as to her experiences at sea in the two oceans have been received, but it is presumed that she came through in perfect safety, as she is a strong sea boat. Making due allowance for the run to Panama, she should arrive here tomorrow. Preparations are already being made by the local representatives of the firm to dispatch her for Panama again on Saturday, April 18, after which time she will take her regular place in the schedule. She will fill the place of the Zealandia at once, and the latter will go back to the Oceanic Steamship Company, perhaps to return to her anchorage, which she left for the first time in years to take the now expiring charter. The Para is a splendid ship. Her dimensions—345 feet, 38 feet beam and 19.9 feet depth—are precisely those of the Rio de Janeiro, and while her tonnage is 3,532, that of the Rio is 3,568. It has always been said that only their captains can tell them apart, and that because the only variance in them is in the ladders on the bridge, that on one being in front of the bridge and that on the other being behind it. They were built side by side in 1878 by John Roach for the Brazilian steamship line, and when that enterprise failed passed to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The Para has been running from New York to Colon, but when Pacific Mail and Panama Railway Company reached their recent agreement her occupation was gone. She is in excellent condition, and can quickly be put in shape to take her place on the run. The steamship Columbia is a new vessel, and was launched in 1892. She was built at Chester, on the same lines as the Peru, for the Mail Company's service between New York and Colon. Her tonnage is 3,617, her length 328 feet, her beam 45 and her depth 25.5. She is an excellent carrier and has splendid accommodations, and will be a most creditable addition to the vessels which go forth from here after the trade of the west. As an official of the company explained yesterday, she was needed to give the line capacity to take care of the increased business offering.—S. F. Chronicle.

HIGHEST BUILDINGS.

Exchange.

It is interesting to note the respective heights of world renowned buildings, and to learn how America's compare in height with those of other countries.

The water works tower at Eden Park, Cincinnati, Ohio, is America's tallest structure. By adding the height of the elevator shaft to that of the floor of the tower, which is 322 feet above the Ohio river, we have the total height of 389 feet.

New York boasts of the highest office buildings in the world, the Manhattan Life Insurance Company's. The foundations of this building, for which the cantilever system was used, consist of fifteen masonry piers, carried by steel caissons of the same number, sunk to bedrock by a pneumatic process. The foundations reach down to twenty feet below tide water level, and are fifty-three feet below the sidewalk and 347 feet above, making a total of 400 feet.

The Washington monument is 550 feet in height, and the Philadelphia public building is 537 feet.

The loftiest brick chimney in the world was completed in the year 1859 at Port Dundas, Glasgow, Scotland. It is 454 feet in height, and, aside from its great size, is a rare specimen of skilful masonry.

The imperial foundry at Halsbruke, near Frieberg, in Saxony, has the highest metal chimney in the world. This chimney is on the right bank of the Mulde, while the works are placed on the left bank of the river. The gases from the furnace pass through a pipe, 32.27½ feet in length, thence over a bridge to the chimney across the river. The chimney itself is at an elevation of 219 feet.

HAD A VAGUE IDEA.

Exchange.

In one of the big stores the other afternoon a stoop-shouldered man with a faded brown beard was clawing over the hats and trying them on, one after another, without appearing to find anything to fit him.

"What size are you looking for?" asked one of the salesmen.

"What size?" he said. "Somethin' I kin wear, I reckon."

"Of course, but what's your number?"

"You don't number a man when he comes in here to buy a hat, do you?"

"Certainly not. I mean what's the number of the——"

"Don't you s'pose I'll know when I come to a hat that fits me? I ain't no spring chicken, young man. I've bought hats 'fore this. You go on waitin' on customers. I'll find what I'm lookin' fur after a while. I've got plenty of time."

"So have I. Time is nothing to me. I can stand here all day and watch you trying on hats, but it isn't necessary. If you can tell me what size of a hat you wear I can give you half a dozen of that size to try on. It will save you some trouble and won't be quite so hard on the assortment."

The customer reflected.

"Well, that's reasonable," he said. "Young man, I might as well tell you the truth. I've clean furgot the size hat I wear. I never can remember it. I know I wear a No. 9 shoe. A No. 9 hat would be about the right thing, wouldn't it?"

TOOK IT FOR A TIP.

Exchange.

The lighthouses in England are periodically visited by the inspecting officers of the Trinity House brethren, whose function is to see that everything is in proper order. On one occasion, while examining the mechanism of the monster revolving lamp belonging to a lighthouse, one of the gentlemen, wishing to see how many seconds would elapse in completing a revolution, took a half-crown piece from his pocket and placed it on the revolving frame work.

Watch in hand he patiently waited for the coin to come round again where he was standing, but no half-crown appeared. The seconds lengthened into minutes—still no half-crown!

"Strange!" he exclaimed. "What can be the meaning of it?"

In order to ascertain the cause of the strange phenomenon, he walked around to the other side of the lamp, and, in doing so, encountered one of the lighthousemen, who touched his hat and said "Thank you, sir," in an undertone.

The man, seeing the coin coming toward him, had pocketed it, thinking it was meant for a tip!

HOW TO GET BOYS TO CHURCH.

At a recent meeting of All Saints' Chapter, Baltimore, the subject for discussion was "The causes that lead a boy out of church and how we may overcome them." It was opened by one of the boys with a paper, in which he said: "One reason why boys don't attend church is a belief that they can be just as good without going. This is a mistake, as any thinking boy, who attends church regularly, knows that the boy who is regular in his church attendance gathers strength to resist wrong, which the boy who is not under church influence will find himself entirely without. Every one knows that temptations are coming to us constantly in our everyday life, and it is sometimes awfully hard to resist them. The boy who is strengthened by the teachings of his Sunday school, the services he attends and the sermons he hears, is far less likely to succumb than he who has nothing to rely upon but himself. Another thing that keeps a great many boys from church is an idea that many people who do attend do it simply from a sense of duty. They are mistaken again, and if they would allow themselves to be persuaded to attend they would soon change their minds and come to look upon church-going as one of the greatest privileges. In order that Brotherhood boys may be successful in bringing other boys to church, they should in the first place be always on the lookout and never let an opportunity pass to use their good influences. After learning that a boy does not go to church, they should quietly and without making any sign of their object become acquainted with him and in the course of time invite him to come to Sunday school or church. If he says he does not care to or would rather take a walk than sit so long in a close room, or that he has had to work all week and wants some recreation, tell him he must come as a personal favor, and tell him how much pleasure can be had from an hour so spent. If he holds out any longer, just tell him in a good-natured way that he has got to do it. Call for him half an hour earlier, so that he will have no excuse. Once you have brought him to church or Sunday school, introduce him to some person whom you know will take an interest in him and will always be ready to meet him with a hearty handshake or some kind and encouraging word. As for those who think church tiresome, dull and unnecessary, invite them to come and make them, by some hook or crook, follow the service, become interested in it and forget there is an end. This is sure to have its effect and they will be sure to see beauties in the service that they never saw before, when they were wondering when the long and tiresome service would end and they would be able to speak to some friend across the aisle who had just got a new bicycle."

THE BOWL FIGHT.

The Latest Disgraceful Spectacle in the College Curriculum.

Pittsburg Post.

In the presence of a company of 500 or 600 collegians of the University of Pennsylvania and their friends, including at least a dozen ladies, the university sophomore and freshmen classes today stripped each other naked in their fiercely contested annual bowl fight. Two of the contestants were as nude as on the days of their birth, except that each of the pair still wore shoes. But they played or fought on as if nothing unusual had happened, and as if it were July instead of March. At last one of the feminine spectators was heard to ejaculate several times "Shocking!" as she turned her head away, having concluded that bowl fighting eclipsed football. The fight resulted in a tie, but Charles H. Harrison, jr., son of the university provost, the bowlman for the freshmen, carried off the honors, if there were any.

Said a bicycle boy, "Now then,
I will ride like the racing men!"
But he got into trouble,
For he bent himself double,
And couldn't bend back again.

DRY THIN AND FALLING HAIR

Is due, in the majority of cases, to imperfect action of the sebaceous or oil glands. Deprived of its proper nourishment, the hair becomes harsh and brittle, the scalp dry and scaly, and the roots choked and lifeless in a hard, dry skin. The purest, sweetest, and most effective treatment is warm shampoos with followed by light applications of Cuticura (ointment), the great skin cure.

They clear the scalp and hair of crusts, scales, and dandruff, allay itching, soothe irritation, heal eruptions, destroy microscopic insects which feed on the hair, stimulate the hair follicles, and supply the roots with nourishment.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston, U. S. A. "All about the Hair and Skin," free.

WORN OUT WITH PAINS "Aches, and weaknesses, but still compelled to labor on." To all such sufferers Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster is a priceless blessing.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

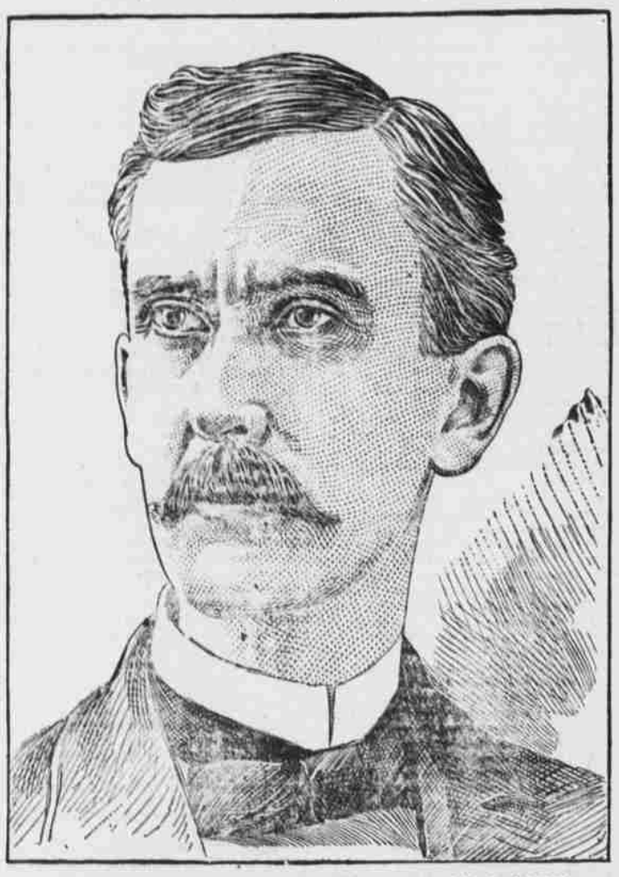
MAJOR W. W. ROBBINS.

Framer of the Indiana Military Bill, Made Well by Paine's Celery Compound.



Major Robbins, of the 2d Indiana State guards, aide on Gen. McKee's staff and president of Camp Gray, has been for two years one of the most influential members of the Indiana legislature and the author of the famous Indiana Military Law of 1889.

Major Robbins was a very sick man up to the time of taking Paine's celery compound.

In proof of what that remarkable remedy can do to make a sick person strong and well, Major Robbins' letter from Indianapolis best tells its own straightforward story.

"I was troubled with a torpid liver, constipation and the accompanying sallow complexion, while my entire nervous system was entirely deranged, and I was greatly reduced in flesh. While in this condition I was taken down with a severe attack of the grip, and was, for a long time, confined to the house and my bed.

"I resorted to various medicines and tonics, and under their temporary influence made several attempts to resume my business of traveling, about in the interests of A. Steffen, cigar manufacturer of this city; but relapse succeeded relapse, and I not only was obliged to abandon my business, but growing gradually worse, became apprehensive of the ultimate result.

"At this juncture, my mother-in-law, who has used your remedy with gratifying results, prevailed upon me to commence taking Paine's celery compound, and it gives me great pleasure to state that I at once began to feel its beneficial effects.

"My appetite, which had failed me, returned, my constipation ceased, and very soon my liver became normal in its action. Following this my sleeplessness and headaches ceased, and I began to gain flesh. The insidious hold on me that the grip had hitherto had was relaxed, and I felt invigorated and strengthened, so I could resume my vocation, and feel free from the languid, enervated feeling that had so long possessed me.

"My friends were pleasantly surprised with the change in my condition, and I was only too happy to recommend Paine's celery compound to such of my acquaintances as were suffering from any of the complaints which so complicated my case. Therefore, I again say I feel impelled by a deep sense of gratitude to express how much I have been helped, for I now feel and look like a new man."

Physicians who rely on Paine's celery compound—as thousands of the most wide-awake members of the profession are doing, especially now that nearly every one feels the need of a genuine spring remedy—physicians know very well what that languor and that tired feeling means. They know that debility today often results in nervous prostration tomorrow, unless the tired system is quickly invigorated.

That is why all over the country today Paine's celery compound is being taken by the advice of skilled physicians. It is the one remedy of skilled physicians. It is the one remedy that physicians can conscientiously call a genuine spring remedy. Try it.

"Your money or your life!" shouted the footpad, with more brusquerie than is permitted in social circles where real diamonds are worn. "Permit me," said the gentlemanly book agent, opening his valise, "to offer you in lieu of my insignificant existence this calf-bound, gilt-edge, hand-tooled 'Life of Napoleon,' in three volumes, payable on the installment plan. Make your own terms; we never disappoint a subscriber, and if——" He found himself alone.—Indianapolis Journal.

SHE DIDN'T TAKE WITH THE GENTLEMEN.

She was refined, intelligent, and not bad looking but somehow she never seemed to take with the gentlemen. They didn't like her listless ways; they said she hadn't any "sanp" about her. Poor girl! she was suffering from functional irregularities, and it was actually impossible for her to take much interest in anything. But a change came. One day she heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She procured a bottle, and she had not taken half its contents before she felt like another woman. Now she is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and has suitors by the score. No woman need suffer from functional irregularities and weaknesses. The "Favorite Prescription" is a safe and certain cure for all the weaknesses to which women are peculiarly subject.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

One of the Italian papers tells the following story about King Victor Emmanuel: In 1860 his majesty went to Pisa to visit the cathedral. The archbishop forbade the clergy to receive the king, and he himself pretended to be ill. Followed by 30,000 men the king appeared in front of the cathedral, the front door of which was closed. The people began to cheer him. Turning about he noticed a small door, and then, starting toward it, exclaimed: "My friends the narrow way leads to paradise."

A passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway. No. Its tarins are vestibuled, heater by steam, and lighted by electricity. Each sleeping car berth has an electric reading lamp. Its dining cars are the best in the world, and its coaches are palaces on wheels.

This great railway, connecting as it does with all transcontinental lines at St. Paul and Omaha, assures to the tarveling public the best service known. Tickets via the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway are on sale at all railroad ticket offices to any point in the United States or Canada. For maps, folders and other information, address.

IS THERE?

Is there a man with heart so cold,
That from his family would withhold
The comforts which they all could find
In articles of FURNITURE of the right kind.

And we would suggest at this season a nice Sideboard, Extension Table, or set of Dining Chairs. We have the largest and finest line ever shown in the city and at prices that cannot fail to please the closest buyers.
