No change can be chronicled in the position of fishermen at packers. Sev-eral informal meetings have been held, but apparently neither side is yet ready for an understanding. The packers de-clare that even at four cents they would se money on some grades of fish, while the men think that they cannot work for less than five cents per pound. Mr. D. J. Ingalls, of the Lewis and Clarke, is in the city, on politics bent. He says he is trying to solve the prob-lem of a standard bearer at the coming onvention. Mr. Ingalls says that now the farmers are only receiving four and one-half cents per pound for dressed pork, while a year or two ago, under Republican rule, they got seven and cleased eight cents. He says it is argued by the Democrats that these low prices are a Espec toria to widen out the principal business streets as well as to raise the grades, if it was expected that the city would receive any material growth or that any large business blocks will be crected to the future. The proposition seems to be worth considering, for if six or eight story blocks were built along the present purpose agreets, it would have the effect narrow streets, it would have the effect of making the streets look like alleyways.

Pertiand, April 21, 1896. I will go down tonight

Mr. Hammond missed yesterday' boat, and the above message extion of Mr. Hammond's arrival t of not so much importance as the settlement of the depot subscription flat. There is little or no use in Mr Hammond's coming to Astoria until this much-vexed matter is satisfactorily disposed of. It is hard for business men to obstruct the progress of affairs by such actions as have taken place within th past two days.

Two or three prominent subscriberse t the original depot subscription have within the past few days, made an at tempt to withdraw from their agreements. This has left the committee with insufficient property with which to mee the escrows. It will take therefore, som little time further to make up this deficit It seems too had, at the present juneture that such a contingency should have arisen. The committee, however, far from being disheartened or discouraged has taken hold of the two horns of the expect to wipe out all obstacles within a raised by popular subscription, which is only a drop in the bucket compared with the entire amount becessary for the whole site, but are changes and withdrawals made in the original donations and trades negotiated.

BUSY BEE AND SPRING.

spring, getting up from the lap of winter she has lingered a scandalously with us for to stay?

Have the black blown curis o' April brushed the key snows away?
Hard to tell you! Rut I'm listenin' to the brown bees everywhere,

A bee is a busy little creature. When the weather is fine it puts in long hours. and if nature had provided it with an umbrella it would be glad to work in the It can gather about a grain of honey in a day-no more-and, therefore, you wouldn't reckon a single bee at a high valuation. But a hive of the ordinary size will shelter 10,000 bees who do nary size will shelter 10,000 bees who do day's work outside in the garden and 18,000 more who do the cooking and sweeping and dusting maile. They make a nice little family, and if they keep stendily at it they make a good deal of honey, of which the owner of the farm religiously robs them. Years ago a speculator sent swarms of bees to the West Indies, hoping to have honey in plenty. But the wise little rogues soon learned that there was no use in oiling plenty. But the wise little rogues soon learned that there was no use in piling up honey for winter, because the flowers were in blossom all the pear round. A bee isn't a fool, by any means.
