vividness that an unprejudiced man can but tremble for the narrow escapes our country has had.

The policy of keeping a reserve, which must be constantly tampered with, to be held to the traditional $100 -000,000 is fast getting us into difficulties. The coming administration, be it Republican or Democratic, has a real issue to meet that any amount of campaign remedies cannot alleviate. When all is done and the president elected there will be the old question of putting the finances on a solid footing.

There really ought not to exist is such a well-supplied nation as the United States this constant, patching up system to keep the national credit

In concluding his report, Secretary Carlide states:

"Owing to the discouraging condition of our financial affairs and the conse quent lack of confidence in the ability of the government permanently t maintain a reserve under a system of redemption and reisaue of notes, very considerable difficulty was encountered in effecting the loan invited by the propossils of January 17, 1894, and at one time pending the call it was feared that the effort would fail. However, owing to extraordinary exertions made during the last two or three days preceding the time when the bids were to be opened, subscriptions for the whole amount were secured, as hereinbefore stated.

"At the time the contract of February 8, 1895, was made the emergency was so pressing that the whole purpos of the loan would have been defeated if the replenishment of the reserve had been postponed for a sufficient length of time to advertise for bids, and besides it was exceedingly doubtful whether, under the circumstances, any sales could have been made to the general public upon as favorable terms as to the rate of interest as were secured by that contract."
