One of the strong arguments used against the indiscriminate use of the white metal by a speaker on the other side recently was that "if free coinage should have the effect of raising the price of silver to its old relation of sixteen to one with gold the producers and owners of silver would alone profit by the operation. If, on the other hand, free coinage should not have this effect the owners and producers of silver would still be its only beneficiaries. In the latter case they would have only to take their silver metal to the mints and receive it back in coin stamped by the government as having a legal ten der capacity to pay debts double its real worth. While the masses of the people-the non-owners of silvercould be sure to lose heavily and disas rously in this case, there is no possible contingency in which they could gain any advantage from free coinage. For the first time since the Civil War the American people have witnessed the calamitous consequences of full and unrestrained Democratic con-

In administrative management it has ruthlessly sacrificed indispensible revenue, entailed an unceasing deficit, exed out ordinary urrant expenses with borrowed money, ailed up the public debt by $262,000,000 in time of poace, forced an adverse balance of trade, to a perpetual menace hanging over the redemption fund, pawned American credit to allen syndicates and reversed all the measures and results of successful Republican rule. In the broad effect of its policy it has precipitated panic, blighted inlustry and trade with prolonged depression, closed factories, reduced work and wages, halted enterprise and crippled American production while stimulating foreign production for the American market.
