New Astoria...

located at the terminus of the Astoria and Columbia River Railroad, at the mouth of the Columbia River.

It fronts on the deep water of the Columbia River Harbor, and being perfectly protected from wind and seas, affords the very best docks for ships on this bay; therefore, it is the exact spot for the seaport of the great Northwest.

These facts were recognized by the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Co. when

New Astoria Was Selected as the Starting Point for their Railroad and the Location for the Terminals.

New Astoria is platted upon a plane high enough for perfect drainage, and well protected by a high ridge behind it.

Its streets and avenues are wide, and, in fact, it is laid out on modern plans. Extensive street improvements are now under way.

An office has been opened by the proprietors one door east of the Crosby hardware store. Call, he shown the merits of this property, and invest.

The "Western Field and Stream," a journal of recreative life in sun and shade, new in its third number, is on sale at the book stores. The magazine, which is published in St. Paul and Minneapolis, is well illustrated, the cover particularly being artistic in design and execution.

General Borthwick, of Goble, was in the city yesterday with his books out for new contracts. He is figuring on supplying the Western Union Telegraph Company with its new cedar poles, and the chances are ten to one that he will secure the contract.

Alex. Gilbert's pavilion and grounds at Seaside may be had for use free by persons or societies that wish to give excursions to the beach. Both pavilion and grounds are in excellent condition, and those who wish to give picnics would greatly add to the attractions by accepting Mr. Gilbert's liberal offer.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has called for bids for supplying the entire line between Goble and Seaside with cedar telegraph poles to be used in the construction of the new line. Contracts will be let July 21st, and Superintendent Jaynes promises that the line will be second to none in the country.

Day before yesterday a pleasure party started out in a sailboat from Oak Point. A young girl was among the number in the boat. It is reported that the boom, in swinging around, knocked the girl overboard and that she was drowned. Up to a late hour last night no further particulars were received concerning the accident, nor could it be learned who the parties were.

Mr. Hammond arrived in Portland Thursday night and Messrs. Curtis and Jamieson left up the river the same day to meet him. Mr. Walter C. Smith, who arrived down yesterday stated that he had had a talk with Mr. Hammond, and as soon as necessary business in Portland could be disposed of, that gentleman would start for Astoria, probably Monday or Tuesday night next.

A large raft of piles is on the way down the river from Goble for Capt. Jacobson. This is the last raft of material to be used on the present construction work to Scow bay. Corey Brothers have a large raft of lumber also in the water, which will clean up the supply of material for the big Flavel dock. There are piles enough on hand which, with this lumber, will complete that piece of work.

A Miss Moffett who was arrested Thursday night by Officer Oberg, created no little excitement in the city yesterday afternoon just before her case was called for trial. She played the sick dodge and had the chief of police and the court dancing around for a short time in an effort to relieve her suffering. As the case was not officially before the court that official took no notice of the affair and does not know yet just what disposition was made of the matter.

Contractor Palmberg was over yesterday afternoon and says that they have commenced plastering the Flavel Hotel, and have very nearly completed the third story. They will work downwards, and expect to finish all of the plastering work in a couple of weeks. He says it looks like business at Flavel as everything is going with a jump, railroad trains arriving and departing, and the steamers making regular trips to and from that point. The big docks is well under way and the railroad tracks connecting it with the main line have been finished.

It was rumored early yesterday morning in certain quarters that one of the reasons which delayed the arrival of the Philadelphia was the arrival of the Philadelphia was the report that if she came into the Columbia river the fishermen would probably hold her up and make a seizure of Uncle Sam's cruiser. The officers of the ship were somewhat alarmed, as their big guns are pointed at an angle upwards, and they feared that they would be unable to reach the small boats on the river. She stopped here, however, during the day, and much to the relief of all, no disturbance occurred.

The picnic excursion given by the M. E. Church yesterday, was a great success.

General Agent Mead, of the Omaha line, the baseball sprinter and president of the Portland city council, who spent yesterday in Astoria, said that on a recent trip to Eastern Oregon and Washington he found that the extraordinarily dry state of the weather had burned a large portion of the wheat crop, and that in the Willamette valley the same conditions existed. At Spokane he said that business was very lively and that there was a regular mining boom on. Stores that had gone begging a few months ago at $10 a month rental, are now bringing $50 and $70 a month. The Leroy Mine was the principal factor on the market although there were many other good properties bringing high prices. As one instance in the change of affairs which sometimes comes to man, he cited the case of Mr. H. G. Stimmel, a clerk in the employ of the Northern Pacific railroad at $25 per month, who a year or two ago purchased shares of stock in one of the mines, at a very few cents on the dollar, and only paid a small proportion of the price down, and who the other day sold out his interest for $60,000 cash. Mr. Mead saw the check. Every friend of Harry Stimmel will be more than glad to know of his good fortune.

In Medieval Days

When people wanted anything they knelt down and prayed for it. However, that was some time ago. Along about 1600 a fellow named Gutenberg, who had "come do hitherto over," was monkeying around a carpenter shop in Leips. He whittled some little blocks and actually made an alphabet. Then he rigged a sort of—well, a machine that would look something like our letter press of today. He arranged his blocks in order, put some ink on them, also a piece of paper, and then screwed his press down. That was called printing. Old Gutenberg made a howling success of the racket, and his heart became so swollen that he really smothered the king one day. The king overlooked it, however, for he had an idea what kind of fellow printers would be. Well, finally they got the printing system down pat, and, as the centuries rolled by, began printing newspapers—first person, invariably singular number, any gender and hard case.

There are many newspapers—as a matter of fact, but it is an utter impossibility to get a newspaper to admit it. The advertising patronage of a newspaper depends largely—yes, wholly—upon its circulation. A newspaper is a great deal like the human body; if its circulation is good, it prospers; otherwise, otherwise. Some papers publish

Want Columns

That is, a column, or a number of columns, devoted to small advertisements. If a fellow wants anything—trouble, a wife, a house—don't make any difference what it is—he can get it by means of a small ad. Included in the "want" column are "For Sale," "For Rent," "Lost," "Found," "Stolen" and "Miscellaneous." Now, just see what changes some people are! Why, a man has been known to hunt over a city—this city—for days looking for a house in which to live. Had he come to The Astorian, he could have asked for a want ad, he could have gotten his house without the least bit of trouble and for about 25 cents.

It Is Needless

To tell of The Astorian's circulation. The paper has been established for a quarter of a century. Why, old Concoxy read the first rumor of the building of a railroad to his graves from it. Circulation is The Astorian's long suit. Consequently, when a fellow comes to The Astorian office, looks pleasant, throws down 25 cents and asks for a want ad and says he wants a house, he gets it.

Why, Just Think!

The Astorian goes into every house in Astoria and a great majority of those in the surrounding sections of Oregon and Washington. Hence, if you insert an ad in The Astorian, it is equivalent to engaging a man to go around to all those houses and telling the inmates that you want something or have something for sale. Why, talk about a snap!

A Bit of Advice

When you want anything—no matter what it is—when you have anything for sale; when you lose, find or steal anything, come around and tell your trouble to The Astorian. Bring 25 cents with you, and, above all things, look pleasant. Tell the clerk that you want a want ad. In the want column, give him your 25 cents and go away happy. As Herman Wise would say, a want ad will restore the blind, the bald and the bowlegged to manhood.
