MATTERS MARINE

Movements of Vessels at Home and Elsewhere.

The Elmore arrived in last evening.

The Alice Blanchard arrived in yesterday from San Francisco and coast points.

The United States hydrographic office has published a small chart of the south coast of Vancouver Island showing the locations of notice boards containing information for the use of wrecked mariners, respecting the places where assitsance can be obtained. The telegraph trail from Cape Beale to San Juan point is shown; also the places where boats can make a landing, together with other useful information. Masters and pilots desiring a copy of this chart can obtain it free of charge from the branch hydrographic office, Port Townsend, Wash.

The branch hydrographic office, customs house, Port Townsend, Wash., will furnish on application, free of cost, full information regarding the following notice to mariners: British Columbia—North coast of Queen Charlotte Island, Kung village, deserted. British Columbia, Vancouver Island, notice boards for use of wrecked mariners, established between Cape Beale lighthouse and San Juan Harbor. British Columbia, Vancouver Island, position of rock at entrance to Clanninick harbor, soundings on rocky patches at entrance to Ucluiet Arm anchorage.

With great dents in the plates on each side, and with some of the delicate machinery in the engine room disarranged, the steamer Seminole, of the Clyde line, arrived in New York one morning last week. The damage to the vessel was the result of an encounter with monster whales. Soon after pasing Sandy Hook, I. E. Morton, the purser, says the vessel ran into a school of whales. Soon six of the monsters appeared almost under the ship's bow, and she crashed into one of them. The impact apparently broke the whale's back and it began to spout blood. Then the officers and passengers witnessed a remarkable sight. As if in a rage, the five other whales draw off a short distance and dashed madly against the vessel, causing her to tremble from stem to stern. The whales repeated this performance four times, and at each collision the Seminole quivered as if about to go to the bottom. Many of the passengers were hurled to the deck and bruised. Several women fainted. So terrible was the shock that some of the furniture in the saloon was broken from its fastenings. The whales were badly injured by the collision, and after the fourth rush drew away, spouting blood. They tried to come again, but moved slowly because of their injuries, and the vessel soon distanced them. It was feared that the Seminole was badly damaged, but examination shows only the superficial injuries mentioned. The passengers say the whales were nearly one hundred feet long.

AT THE BEACHES.

What the Seaside Resorters Are Doing to Kill Time.

The various resorts along Clatsop beach are daily receiving new guests. The weather this week has been most propitious for all out-door sports and in the evenings dances, card playing, music, fill in the time.

Monday evening a very enjoyable dancing party was given at Seaside by Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Fisher, in honor of the four young ladies visiting them—Miss Crang, Miss Tuttle, Miss Lewis, and Miss Nettie Tuttle. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs Coovert, Mr. and Mrs. H. Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. Lighter, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hanthorn, Mr. and Mrs. McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Cake, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Morse, Dr. and Mrs. Estes, Dr. and Mrs. Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Biles, Mr. and Mrs. Long, Mrs. Moore, Mr. H. F. L. Logan, Mr. Russ Walker, Mr. Jones, Mr. McBride, the Misses Caroline Young, McBride, Mansfield, Lighter, Elmore, Messrs. Hansen, Logan, Maddock, Brown, Young, Marshal, McBride, Caples, Connor, Masters Earl Fisher, Dick Runyon, Ted Lewis.

Tuesday evening at Mr. Fisher's on the beach, a large bon fire was built at which all of the house party gathered for their last evening before the departure of a number of the guests.

The candy pull and dance at Locksley Hall was a most successful affair.

Sunday a party of young people, including the Misses Tuttle, Crang and Lewis, and Messrs. Geo. Marshal, Joe Connor, Joe McBride, Ed. Philbrook, walked from Seaside around Tillamook head on the beach. It took all day to make the trip, and to say that the excursionists were tired when night came, expresses it mildly.

Mr. Joe Girdner, who returned from Seaside yesterday morning, where he was a guest at Camp "Strychnine," says that everybody is having fun on the beaches this season. The boys camping at the place he visited are Geo. Cherry, Hugh Bowlby, Evans Morgan, Frank Woodfield, Willie Curtis, George Ohler, Roscoe Cassell, and Jay Tuttle. George Cherry is chief cook and they all agree that his dishes are equal to the Occident hotel. All take turns at dishwashing and cleaning camp. There is a story connected with the naming of this camp which has for its basis an attempt to catch some fish. No doubt the boys will be glad to tell their fish story when they return.

THE TRUE STORY.

Of the Big Atlantic Raft as Told by Its Builder.

Under the heading "Six Years Afloat," the Sunday Oregonian of August 2nd, publishes an account by Stephen Crane, of the launching of a large raft in the Atlantic ocean, and the adventures of the strange craft before its final wreckage.

Captain H. R. Robertson, who is now in the city, and has for several years taken immense rafts from the Columbia river to San Francisco, and will start another one on the same journey within a few days, says that many of the statements in the article in the Oregonian are erroneous. Captain Robertson is the patentee of the method of building these ocean log rafts and built and launched the one referred to in the Oregonian article. Upon being questioned, the captain said:

"James D. Leary, and not John Leary is the owner of a third interest in my original patent. I built the raft referred to and launched it from Goggins, Nova Scotia, in 1887. This raft broke loose from the tow and floated about the Atlantic ocean as I will explain to you later. One year later, or in 1888, I built another raft, twice as large as the first one, which was safely delivered in the Erie basin, New York, August 1st, 1888.

The first raft—the one described in the Oregonian, was only 425 feet long. Appleton's Cyclopaedia of 1858 gives a full description of this raft. She was launched on the 4th of October, 1887, and sailed from the Bay of Funda on the 6th of December in tow of the Mineola, the same steamer which will tow my present raft out of the Columbia. On the 22nd of December the hawser parted, sixty miles southeast of the South Shoal lightship, off Cape Cod. On the 22nd of January the raft was sighted by the schooner Josie in 66 west. She was then in perfect condition, and is traced by th hydrographic charts of 1888, and was reported every month. A friend of mine saw it in July, 1888, 750 miles west of Gibralter, and the last report I got of it was that it went ashore on the Western Islands in October of that year. The Western Islands, as you know, are off the coast of Africa, and I think the captain of that ship who reports that the raft went ashore on the coast of Labrador must be mistaken; and besides this, long before she could have reached Labrador, after having followed the courses up and down the Atlantic which she is known to have made, she would have been honeycombed by teredo, and the weight of the chains would have taken her to the bottom. Again, the direction of the Gulf Stream at that season of the year would have precluded the possibility of the raft reaching Labrador, although at other seasons of the year that would have been her natural landing place. This is the only raft lost in the Atlantic ocean.

"In 1803 Dr. Tucker built a raft, or timber ship, which he attempted to sail to a port where the timber could eb disposed of, but could not get a crew to go with him. He finally succeeded in rigging out a sort of schooner vessel on the back of the raft in Boston, and started for sea. Off the coast of Newfoundland the strange craft was abandoned, the crew landing on the shore of Newfoundland, and the structure itself went ashore on the coast of Labrador. I have taken out lately a new patent for building these rafts in the water, and have made many other improvements which make the business now a practically safe one. I would add that in the 1887 raft, mentioned in the Oregonian, there were only spruce piling, none of the sticks being over 70 feet long and 20 inches in diameter at the butt. There were 11,000 pieces in the raft."

Burlington Route

the Burlington Route's New Short Line to the East and South was opened for business.

During these 18 months thousands of travelers have patronized it and by so doing have not only saved much valuable time but have gained new ideas of how a railroad should be run.

They have learned, among other things, that Burlington trains are always on time; that the Burlington's track is incomparably superior to any other in the West; that the phrase Comfort, Speed and Safety means something on the Burlington.
