Tonight a grand ball will be given in honor of the visiting editors and firemen. The dance will take place in the Astoria Football Club's hall and a good time is assured. Just think of a ball in honor of editors in this Western country, where their lot is usually a hard one! That the club will be crowded goes without saying. After the day's races the firemen will be given an opportunity to trip a while.

The committee of entertainment who gave the banquet to the firemen last night, report that their supplies of edibles was so large that a large quantity of good food has been left over, and that a committee of ladies will be in charge today at Engine Company No. 1's house, who will take great pleasure in dispensing the articles to any who are in need of assistance and are worthy.

Numerous complaints were heard last evening because of the fencing in of a part of Bond street opposite Fisher's store. It was thought that the city, or the owners of the property abutting a broken down street, might have repaired it before the regatta. It seems a pity that when the committee had made preparations for entertaining so many people, and even the street cars being elaborately decorated, such a disaster should occur.

Yesterday Messrs. Dedman, Dalgity, Crosby, Monk and Hobson had considerable amusement with a camera at the grandstand on Flavel's dock. Mr. Dedman took a picture of the above named gentlemen and an Astorian reporter, which exposed his last film. Mr. Dalgity took the kodak, and walking to the front of the grand stand, told the ladies to look pleasant, as he was about to take their pictures. Nearly all did as he requested, but four young ladies turned their backs. Mr. Dalgity snapped the kodak on them, however, when their faces were turned toward him. He stopped all the yachts and the life saving crew, telling them to pose for their pictures. They all posed. As there were no films in the kodak, no pictures were taken, but about 200 people think they were "looked."

Last night about 9 o'clock the police were started by a whistle alarm in the neighborhood of Erickson's. A sharp chase was made by Captain Hallock and Officer Oberg towards Kinney's wharf after a boating figure in the darkness. The darkness increased decidedly at the end of the plank road near the cannery, where they halted just in time to see their man fall overboard. On hearing the cries of the man in the water the officers jumped into a boat, hastened towards the sounds, and soon found the unfortunate struggling in the water, and making rapid headway out of their reach. By hard pulling they managed to overtake the man, who proved to be Erick Erickson. Crazed by infatuation for a girl in a Uniontown boarding house, he had gone partially insane and evidently intended to suicide. A large knife was found in his hands, when rescued, but he was safely lodged in the police station, where he could not further harm himself.
