the party that proposes to destroy the balance which our fathers instituted in our form of government and wherever a tumultuous congress does not agree with the supreme court, and a subsequent president is in the White House, that the judgment of the people shall be considered and reversed by increasing the number of judges and packing the court with men who will decide as congress wants them to. I cannot exaggerate the gravity and importance and danger of this assault upon our constitutional form of government."

The ex-president said he did not intend to spend any time in the discussion of the tariff question. That debate had been won and need not be protracted. He then entered into a discussion of the financial question along the lines laid down by the Republican platform.

Most so-called "salmon twines" are colored with acids. The acids rot the fibre and render the material useless. In the office of Elmore, Sanborn & Co. is an object lesson that ought to be examined by all fishermen. It is the whole of the material used in the manufacture of Marshall's twine—from start to finish. Go there and examine the color right through. You will see then why Marshall's is called the best in the world.

SOUND REASONS.

Prominent Railroad Man Tells Why He Wants Good Money.

President Samuel G. DeCoursey, of the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway, has written the following striking letter to the Railway Age. It is one of the best presentations of the money question yet published and will repay a reading by all seeking light on this subject:

"It is an axiom that no two things can be equal to the same thing if they are not equal to each other. No one would therefore part with a barrel of flour, a ton of coal, a horse, or any other article for a dollar in silver at the same price that he would for a dollar in gold, unless the silver dollar and the gold dollar were of equal value at the time of his selling. If the silver dollar is of less value than the gold dollar the trader will ask as much more for what he has to sell, if payable in silver, as the silver dollar has depreciated in value below the gold dollar. In other words, if gold should go to a premium of 50 per cent, the trader who would ask $1.50 for any article of merchandise payable in silver, would at the same time be willing to take in full payment $1 in gold.

"Those who are urging the free and unlimited coinage of silver claim that under unlimited coinage silver will at once advance to the par with gold. Of course this claim would not be realized, because the impulse that will be given to the production of silver is likely, in time, through the enormous quantity that will come on the market, and under the well known law of supply and demand, to cause it to drop below even its present bullion value in gold; but for sake of argument suppose we take that their claim is sound and that a silver dollar will be of equal value with the gold dollar, who is to be benefited by unlimited coinage except the silver mineowner, who will then be able to get almost twice as much for his product as he does now? Evidently, if the farmer who owes a mortgage on his farm has to pay as much for silver dollars as he now does for gold dollars, the free coinage of silver will not benefit him. Suppose, on the other hand, that silver does not appreciate to the par of gold, does any sane man believe that when purchasing his supplies, payable in silver, he will not pay an increase in price over what he would have to in gold?

"Those of us who are old enough to remember our late civil war and the prices paid for the necessities of life consequent upon the inflation caused by paper money, will remember that when gold sold at the premium of 100 per cent you could buy twice as much sugar or flour or coal if you paid for it in gold as if you paid for it in silver. "When flour was at $10 per barrel, payable in paper money, a man who was so fortunate as to have $5 in gold could take it to the exchangers, sell it at 100 per cent and receive $10 in paper money, and so pay for his barrel of flour. During our civil war flour went to $15 per barrel, coal to $15 per ton, and other commodities advanced in like proportion; wages, however, did not advance in any such ratio, and I venture to say that during the time of inflation, produced by said war, the wages of labor bore a less ratio to the prices of the necessities of life than they have at any time since. Yes, I am in favor of sound money. I am a wage-earner, a member of the large bread and butter brigade, and I want to be paid for my services in the very best money known, so that when I come to convert my wages into clothing, food, etc., I will get greatest return. I hope that every wage-earner will consider long before he supports, by his vote, what seem to me the fallacies of those who are in favor of this country launching out into the unlimited coinage of silver. The very word unlimited should cause them to reflect; for even unlimited gold, using the word unlimited in its largest sense, would, under the law of supply and demand, cause an inflation of prices which would be against the wage-earner, unless he could secure an advance in his wages exactly equal to the advance in the cost of living.

"Speaking for the one railroad interest which I represent, I do not see how it will be possible for us to advance wages, and I view with alarm the effect upon many railroad organizations if by the advance of gold to 100 per cent or even 50 per cent, the fixed charges of said organizations are likewise increased from 50 to 100 per cent.

"If I am right in my conclusions that it is better for me to receive my wages in the best money known, it logically follows that it will likewise be better for everyone of my co-laborers, and I hope that all of my fellow workers and wage-earners will see it to their own and their country's advantage to support the cause of sound and honest money."

TELL IT OUT.

Don't sit down and wait for trade. "Taint the way. Get a hustle, make her show, Push your business—make her go, Don't sit down and wait for trade, "Taint the way, "Taint the way, "Taint the way.

If you've got something to sell, Tell it about. Let your neighbors see you're "fy." Get up "bargains," don't say die, If you've anything to sell, Tell it out, Tell it out, Tell it out.

Folks don't know you if you don't Advertise. Keep things movin' every day, Talk about it; that's the way, Folks won't know you if you don't Advertise. Advertise, Advertise.

THE GEM... A RESORT FOR GENTLEMEN Corner Commercial and 11th Sts. ALEX CAMPBELL, Prop.

In Medieval Days When people wanted anything they knelt down and prayed for it. However, that was some time ago. Along about 1600 a fellow named Gutenberg, who had come over from Rhine over, was monkeying around a carpenter shop in Lantz. He whitened some little blocks and actually made an alphabet. Then he rigged a sort of well, a machine that would knock something like our letter press of today. He arranged his blocks in order, put some ink on them, also a piece of paper, and then screwed his press down. That was done printing. Old Gutenberg made a howling success of the racket, and his head became so swollen that he really snubbed the king one day. The king overlooked it, however, for he had an idea what kind of fellow printers would be. Well, finally they got the printing system down, and, as the centuries rolled by, began printing newspapers—first person, invariably singular number, any gender and hard case.

In This Enlightened Day There are many newspapers—as a matter of fact. But it is an utter impossibility to get a newspaper to admit it. The advertising patronage of a newspaper depends largely—yes, wholly—upon its circulation. A newspaper is a great deal like the human body; if its circulation is good, it prospers; otherwise, otherwise. Some papers publish Want Columns That is, a column, or a number of columns, devoted to small advertisements. If a fellow wants anything—trouble, a wife, a house—don't make any difference what it is—he can get it by means of a small ad. Included in the "want" column are "For Sale," "For Rent," "Lost," "Found," "Stolen" and "Miscellaneous." Now, just see what chumps some people are! Why, a man has been known to hunt over a city directory for a fellow looking for a house in which to live. Had he come to The Astorian office and asked for a want ad, he could have gotten his house without the least bit of trouble and for about 25 cents.

It Is Needless To tell of The Astorian's circulation. The paper has been established for a quarter of a century. Why, old Concomly read the first rumor of the building of a railroad to his brave front. L. Circulation is The Astorian's long suit. Consequently, when it comes into The Astorian office, looks pleasant, throws down 25 cents on the counter and says he wants a house, he gets it.

Why, Just Think! The Astorian goes into every house in Astoria and a great majority of those in the surrounding sections of Oregon and Washington. Hence, if you insert an ad. in The Astorian, it is equivalent to engaging a man to go around to all those houses and telling the inmates that you want something or have something for sale. Why, talk about a snap!

A Bit of Advice When you want anything—no matter what it is—when you have anything for sale; when you lose, find or steal anything, come around and tell your trouble to The Astorian. Bring 25 cents with you, and, above all things, look pleasant. Tell the clerk that you want a want ad. In the want column, give him your 25 cents and go away happy. As Herman Wise would say, a want ad will restore the blind, the bald and the bowlegged to manhood.

3 Lines for 25 Cents. Try It. Indigestion is often taken for consumption. The word consumption means wasting away, and dyspeptics often waste away as badly as consumptives. The reason people waste away is because they don't get enough to eat, or they don't digest what they do eat. If the latter is your trouble, take Shaker's Digestive Cordial. This will help you to digest your food and stop your loss of flesh. Shaker's Digestive Cordial is made from herbs, barks, and the juice of fruit, by the well-known Shakers of Mount Lebanon. It possesses great tonic and digestive powers. Shaker's Digestive Cordial has cured many supposed consumptives who were really dyspeptics by simply helping their stomachs to digest their food, thus giving them nourishment and new strength. Sold by druggists. Trial bottles 10 cents.
